MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

J. T. LINDSEY, Business Manager.

MAY 31, 1884.

The political pot is boiling furiously just now, and will keep on bubbling and spluttering until the popular decision is rendered next November. The agitation will do no harm. The questions at issue between the two parties are not vital and the fury of the fight will be between the partisans of the respective candidates. Notwithstanding the popular belief to the contrary, the political excitement of a presidential contest does not hurt business, but rather helps it, as witness 1880, 1876, 1872, 1868, 1864, all good years, with the exception of 1876, which was the best year of the bad times, partly, however, because of the Centennial. While the chances seem to favor the nomination of Chester A. Arthur by the Republicans, yet he may be set aside by the doubt as to his ability to carry the State of New York. Should he not be nominated, the choice may fall on Lincoln, Harrison, Gresham or some other dark horse. The Democrats seem to have made up their minds to nominate Tilden, if he will accept, if not Governor Cleveland will probably be the candidate. It will thus be seen that the country will be in no peril by anything the conventions may do. We look for a better feeling in the stock market and general business after the nominations are made.

Mr. Hewitt's proposed amendments to the national banking law have the merit of good intentions, but, as the Commercial Bulletin points out, the phraseology must be changed if bank depositors are to be really protected from the irregularities and speculative enterprises of bank officers. A discount, under the peculiar decisions of our courts, is not a loan, and Mr. Hewitt's bill, should it become a law, would be no protection against future Enos, Fishs and Seneys. What is needed is a provision prohibiting bank presidents from speculating at all. It should be made a criminal offence during the time which they hold fiduciary trusts. It is absurd to provide that bank and trust companies shall invest in certain undoubted securities and then place the funds of the bank in the custody of an officer who is a notorious speculator. There are other respects also in which the working of our bank machinery might be amended, but Congress should, without delay, amend Mr. Hewitt's bill and pass it forthwith.

The bill providing for parks in the annexed district will, if indorsed by the Governor, make a great change in the price of realty not only in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards but in the region lying on Long Island Sound as far as New Rochelle. The interests which would be subserved by the indorsement of the bill are very large and important. A postponement of this improvement for another year would cost the city a great deal of money, for there is every indication that a rise of values is imminent in all the suburbs of New York. The metropolis of the United States has really less park room than any of the leading capitals of the world. We have no parade ground for our militia nor space for the open-air sports which have become an institution in this country. The boys and girls of the public schools have no playgrounds. The young fellows in our New York college are forced to go to Prospect Park to play lawn tennis. Thousands of people are accommodated in this way in the great Brooklyn park, while nothing of the kind is permitted in our Central Park. It is clearly unwise to wait until the price of land is high before providing ourselves with plenty of park room. It will be a red-letter day for the annexed district as well as a matter for congratulation for our people generally when Governor Cleveland signs the admirable park bill passed by the Legislature.

One of the first roads to reorganize after having gone into bankruptcy, was the Toledo, Delphos & Burlington. A committee of the first mortgage bondholders, of which James M. Quigley was the chairman, organized and went energetically to work to put the road into such shape that it could be made eventually profitable. All the bondholders of the various divisions of the road agreed to the terms of the re-adjustment, but the Boston banker who originally promoted the scheme and marketed the bonds at absurdly high figures has interfered, and by alliances with outsiders is endeavoring to embarrass the very persons whom his previous actions had injured so severely in a financial way. Not satisfied with the ruin he has wrought he now wishes to injure in every way the bondholders of the company in their very natural desire to make the best of a very bad bargain. These financial sharks have no bowels of compassion and no conscience.

The labor strikes throughout the country have as a general thing been unsuccessful. The only exception we note is the success of a carpenters' strike in Chicago. There is an unusual amount of building in that city, of which the carpenter seems to have taken advantage. The building business seems to be exceptionally profitable just now in all the large cities, and the mechanics connected therewith have plenty of work and good wages. They should make hay while the sun shines, for labor must be content with smaller rewards before very long. The present rate of wages in the building trade cannot be maintained.

About the Banks.

The national banks are in great disfavor just at present. Since the time they were organized, during the civil war, they have been the pets of the business world and have generally been popular all over the country. They are a great improvement over the old State banks, whose issues were a grievous tax upon all who bought or sold in any of the markets of the country. Under the old banking regime there were variations in the value of the currency of each separate State. Wild cat banks abounded, and counterfeits were alarmingly frequent. But with the national system came responsibility, and issues which were without discount in the remotest regions of the land. They had other advantages also, which made them very powerful in the national legislature and the press, as well as in business circles. But it is the vice of all credit institutions to intensify existing financial tendencies. The banks have helped the government to create the corner in national securities which is so hurtful in many ways. They have fed the fires of speculation when it raged the fiercest, by loaning money on narrow margins when prices were at their highest. When the inevitable reaction came and distrust was general the banks did all they could to aggravate the prevailing financial distress. They refused to lend money on any security, even governments, and actually forced solvent firms and institutions to go into bankruptcy. Then when the day of trial came it was found that the banks themselves furnished the most striking illustrations of unbusinesslike methods and personal dishonesty. Up to this time every bill helping the national banks was sure to get through Congress. In their war on silver they were backed up by the press and the great business exchanges.

The bank magnates did not like the silver policy of the government, as it created a paper currency far superior to their paper issues, and made money cheap in regions where bank accommodations were scarce, such as the South and West. Had we an exclusive gold currency, such as the banks desired, the rate of interest would have remained high, and the catastrophe of two weeks ago would have been anticipated by a year at least. It is now doubtful if either of the bills before Congress to help the banks will be endorsed by that body. In the meantime the gold and silver certificates keep on increasing and the country is beginning to realize that a circulating medium based upon an actual deposit in the vaults of the government is far safer than any paper issue of a bank. If Congress would only withdraw the fives and tens of the bank as well as the greenback issues, we would then have a gold and silver currency to transact our retail trade similar to that in vogue in Great Britain and Germany. In actually using our reserve in gold for currency we would check the tendency to export the yellow metal which is a constant menace to the finances of the country when the balance of trade is against us.

The letter we publish elsewhere giving a history of the new building law and explaining its leading provisions will be read with interest by all in the building trade. The law as passed seems to have been an honest effort to protect the public without injuring the interests of investors and constructors of new edifices in this city. The Inspector of Buildings cannot under the new law act in an arbitrary manner. The provision in regard to theatres would seem to insure our citizens against danger to life in case of accidents or fire. Altogether the new law is a satisfactory one, except to unscrupulous contractors who wish to make money without any reference to the kind of buildings they put up.

Notwithstanding the depression in railway shares many of the returns show an increase of receipts over last year. New York Central is an exception, but that road has been injured by bad management. Its rivals, such as the West Shore, the Erie and more especially the Pennsylvania Central, furnish more luxurious accommodation for the same prices, hence the unquestioned falling off in the passenger business of New York Central.

Our Prophetic Department.

MR. BOVINE—You see I still live, Sir Oracle. Banks may fail, the business community become bankrupt, and the weather injure the crops, but the bull survives all mutations of fortune. "Hope springs eternal in the human breast." You have been rather dismal lately, and I confess with good reason, as events have proved. But can you not now see something hopeful in the situation? Are there no signs of promise? We bulls have stood the racket now since the summer of 1881, and we ought to have some few innings at least in the great game of speculation.

SIR ORACLE—If it will do you any good I can point out some indications which are encouraging to the bull contingent. To begin with, it strikes me as a remarkable fact that the great body of brokers and bankers have stood the shrinkage in values and the recurring panics without going under. The brokers have had very little business. Their office rents and expenses have been high, they are not by any means an abstemious and self-denying class, yet the number of them who have failed have been very few, and in every case the bankruptcy can be traced to downright dishonesty or exceedingly faulty business methods. The financial institutions which have gone by the board might have done so even when stocks were being bulled and the feeling on the street confident. Dishonesty and carelessness never thrives long or at any time. The great body of financial people in Wall street are all right, though I would not like to see them suffer under another monetary cyclone such as that of last Wednesday two weeks.

MR. BOVINE—Well, there is certainly some comfort in that reflection. But are there not hopeful symptoms apart from the solvency of the operators on the street?

SIR O.—The growing crops are undoubtedly a good bull argument. If we have, as the Agricultural Bureau forecasts, three hundred and fifty million bushels of winter wheat, and probably two hundred millions more of spring wheat, it will be the greatest crop ever raised in the country. Now whether the price be high or low the wheat must be carried by the railroads, and this will give the latter all they can do. We will hear nothing about rate-cutting, and there will be no necessity for pools if the granaries of the West are full of wheat. It is too late in the season now for any damage to be done our small grains.

MR. BOVINE—You are, I understand, a believer in corn this year?

SIR O.—Yes; we have had three bad corn years. Its price has been so high that every farmer in the country will try and grow a very large crop of that cereal. A good growing year ought to give us, as I said before, over two billion bushels. It is true that old Sam Benner gives some reasons for believing that the coming summer will be wet, with a low temperature, which is not favorable for corn, but, in the doctrine of chances, after three bad years we ought to have one good year. Ours is, par excellence, a corn-growing country, and the farmers will do their level best to make the crop of this year immense. The extraordinary high price of hogs is another stimulus for putting every possible acre into corn. Even if the late corn should not all mature, still it will be useful to feed out to cattle. Corn is a profitable crop at 20 cents a bushel in ordinary years. It is now worth nearly 60 at Chicago, and I expect to see it go higher.

MR. BOVINE—I understand the value of the corn crop to our railroads. It is generally used nearer home than is wheat, but it is a bulky article, and its carriage swells local rates, which are always higher than those of the through traffic. I can see, therefore, that a large wheat and corn crop will make a wonderful difference in the receipts of the railroads north of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi, which have had a hard time for three years past.

SIR O.—You reason quite correctly. I am inclined to believe there is more money for investors in railway securities in the region you indicate than in the extreme West.

MR. BOVINE—You still object to the "wilderness roads," as you call them?

SIR O.—I have very little faith in the securities of the lines which run through the thinly-settled country lying between the Rocky and Sierra Nevada Mountains. It is true the Union Pacific at one time paid large dividends, but it was because it monopolized the railway traffic between a section of the two coasts. It charged outrageous prices. Anyone who traveled over the Union and Central Pacific roads when their profits were largest will recall the fact that but very few trains were run even then, and that a large section of the country they passed through was what the Bible would call "the abomination of desolation." I don't believe in the Northern Pacifics, Union Pacific, the Southern and Central Pacific, the St. Louis & San Francisco, Texas Pacific, Denver, nor any of the lines which connect the Pacific coast with the East, and which depend upon a thinly-settled country for support. But I am a believer in the region just east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio. There is but little speculation in the New England roads. Their future is tolerably well assured. The next decade will see the great lines of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan in very much the same position. Population will not grow so rapidly in those States as further West, but their business will increase, and as the West develops it will become tributary to the States I have mentioned.

MR. BOVINE—How about the Grangers?

SIR O.—I would not touch Canada Pacific or Manitoba. But if Northwest and St. Paul stop new construction and the crops this year are good, I do not see why their common stocks as well as preferred should not pay good dividends. The Northwest country is not only well settled, but is advancing enormously. The trouble so far has been that there has been too much construction ahead of the wants of that region.

MR. BOVINE—How about the coalers?

SIR O.—They have been injured, of course, by the stoppage of iron construction and the depressed condition of our manufacturing industries, but it should never be forgotten that the anthracite coal fields of this country are exceedingly limited. They are, in fact, mere specks upon the map, while the demand for hard coal is steadily increasing, North, South, East and West. There is to my mind a wonderful future before the coal carriers. I predict that Reading will some day pay splendid dividends, though it may in the meantime be forced into the hands of a receiver. Its coal lands are enormous in extent and of the greatest potential value. Then the companies are organized. They can work together and will not break faith. I think it unfortunate myself for the best interests of the country that they are able to keep up prices by limiting production. Were there competition in coal, so as to reduce the price to a minimum, it would add largely to the profits of our manufacturers and perhaps enable some of them to ship goods abroad. But the ability of the companies to hang together is a good thing for their stockholders if not for the country.

MR. BOVINE—I declare you quite encourage me. I think I shall have to go and buy some stocks.

SIR O.—A wise nomination by the Republican party and the choice of Mr. Tilden or Mr. Cleveland by the Democrats as the standard bearer, with the good crop prospects, ought to put up the price of stocks, for they have recently been abnormally low. I am not, however, as a general thing bullish. I speak now in a large way. I adhere to the belief that the effort of the commercial world to use one precious metal instead of two is causing a shrinkage of values which will distress the business world. Trade is inactive the world over. There are more railroads than can be used, more steamships than can find cargoes, there is a blight on all the great industries, due to the enforced adoption of the gold unit of value. But for all that there ought to be a partial recovery of stock values during the next two months.

The New Building Law.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

There were no two opinions that the laws which have governed the erection of buildings for a number of years past needed overhauling. And yet it required the continuous efforts of a number of gentlemen during the past three years to effect the passage of a new law through both branches of the Legislature and land it into the Governor's hands.

The Conkling senatorial complications in the session of 1882 prevented final action on the good law presented to the Legislature by Inspector Esterbrook at the request of the Board of Fire Commissioners. In 1883 an elaborate bill was prepared by a committee from several prominent building associations acting in conjunction with Mr. Esterbrook at the latter's request. This bill passed the Senate without a dissenting vote and would have gone through the House with an overwhelming vote in its favor, but on being reached at the tail end of the session objection was made to its third reading by a member of the Assembly who represents the home district of one of the Fire Commissioners, because the bill incidentally affected the attorney to the Board. So the matter was shelved for that year.

In November last, Inspector Esterbrook issued a circular invitation to various associations interested in building matters to send each a committee to act with him in framing a building law for presentation to the Legislature. This was in accordance with Mayor Edson's views, who said in his message:

"In many respects the present building laws are crude and inoperative, and should in my opinion be amended as a measure of public protection. In order to accomplish the result in this direction which is doubtless desired by all interested in the matter, I would recommend that representative architects, builders and property owners, in conjunction with the head of the Bureau of Inspection of Buildings, should consult together and agree upon such recommendations to the Legislature as will be likely to secure the adoption of measures which will protect public interests without retarding individual enterprise."

The Board of Underwriters, the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, the Architectural Iron Association and two or three societies of dealers in building materials and builders and property-owners, were represented each by three individuals in the conference. The bill of the year previous was taken up section by section and amended in various ways, the differences of opinion being decided by a majority vote in the committee. Much time and care was given to the work. One of the societies represented in this conference was a society formed of individuals who had met together for the first time the year previous in opposition to the proposed building law and in personal opposition to Inspector Esterbrook. This society's representatives refused to endorse the bill as a whole, on the ground that they were required to report back to their society for leave to do so. After having had their say in, and with their voice and votes influencing the conference as far as they were able, they refused to endorse the bill at the end and eventually put themselves in opposition to the bill.

The bill provided for a separate Department of Buildings, thus proposing to take the present Bureau of Buildings out of the Fire Department and making it, as it formerly existed, a separate department.

The bill contained the right of appeal from the decisions of the Superintendent to a Board of Examiners made up of one representative from various building associations, the Board of Underwriters, the Society of Architects, etc.—six members in all. The language used in the bill was as follows:

No member of said Board shall pass upon any question in which he is pecuniarily interested. In cases in which it is claimed by an owner, in person or by his representative, that the provisions of this act do not directly apply, or that an equally good and more desirable form of construction can be employed in any specific case than that required by this act, then such person shall have the right to present a petition to the Board of Examiners, and may appear before said Board and be heard; and said Board shall consider such petition in its regular order of business, and as soon as practicable render a decision thereon. The said Board of Examiners are hereby authorized and empowered to grant or reject such petition, and their decision shall be final. If such decision is favorable to said petitioner a certificate shall be issued by the Superintendent of Buildings in accordance therewith. But nothing in this section contained shall be construed as giving the Board of Examiners the right to abolish in part or whole the preceding provisions of this act for the prevention or spread of fire. The said Board shall meet once in each week upon notice from the Superintendent of Buildings.

This right of appeal fairly covered the whole ground, and was sufficient to secure the public against arbitrary decisions of the head of the Building Department, but it did not go far enough to satisfy certain men. The writer is the author of the right of appeal, and through his personal efforts in the face of much opposition had it inserted in the bill which failed last year. In this year's conference committee he proposed to enlarge the right of appeal on everything—condemned materials, such as pale brick, etc.—but in that event to make the appeal cost a certain sum of money, say ten dollars, so that frivolous appeals should not take up the entire time of the Board of Examiners at their weekly meetings. This proposition was voted down.

The bill as prepared by the conference committee was introduced into the Senate by Senator Daly and duly referred to the Senate Committee on Cities. At the first hearing the friends of the bill advocated its passage without alterations. But at that very first hearing the chairman of the committee (Senator Gibbs) declared that he could not and would not report the bill with the separate department sections in nor with the right of appeal in, as the Fire Commissioners were utterly opposed to both. It became a necessity to change the bill then in these particulars. At the second hearing on the bill Fire Commissioner Purroy, on behalf of himself and the other commissioners, appeared before the committee with the attorney of the Fire Department and strenuously requested that the separate department clause and the right of appeal clause be stricken out from the bill. The bill was finally reported with these omissions.

In the meantime a gathering of speculative builders had prepared a variety of changes to the bill and appeared before the Legislature asking for their adoption. They wanted if possible no law, or at any rate a loose law, the right to build eight inch walls high up in the air, and to take all power away from the Superintendent. These people got no comfort from the Legislature, the chairman of the Senate Committee on Cities told them he wanted nothing to do with them nor their bill, but they succeeded in giving a good deal of trouble to those who were trying to get a good building law, and by showing that builders were divided among themselves on questions of construction and administration made it all the easier for the Fire Commissioners to carry their points.

The Board of Underwriters, the Institute of Architects and the Architectural Iron Association stood by the bill from first to last but it is mainly due to Senator Daly that the bill was put through both branches of the Legislature with but few alterations except those already stated.

Among the things in the bill that had to be stricken out to oblige certain interests was the inspection of passenger elevators. The duty of inspecting passenger elevators in order that safety from accident be assured now devolves upon no department or bureau of the municipal government. The section stricken out from the bill read as follows:

The Superintendent of Buildings, by and with the approval of the Board of Examiners hereinafter-named, shall make uniform regulations for the periodical inspection of passenger elevators, with a view to the safety of passengers; and shall also prescribe suitable qualifications for persons who are placed in charge of running passenger elevators. The regulations so made shall require any repairs found necessary upon inspection to be made without delay, and in case defects are found to exist which would endanger life by the continued use of such elevator, then upon notice from the Superintendent of Buildings the use of such elevator shall cease, and shall not again be used until a certificate shall be first obtained from said Superintendent that such elevator has been put in safe order and is fit for use.

The bill regulating the heights of buildings was a separate measure. The building law provided that all apartment or tenement houses over 60 feet in height, that is to say over five stories in height, should have brick walls enclosing the halls and staircases and this portion made fireproof. And all buildings exceeding 85 feet in height, that is to say over seven stories in height, should be built entirely fire-proof.

A good measure relating to fire-escapes, emanating from the Tax-Payers' Association, an independent bill, passed the Senate, but in the lower House its third reading was objected to in the closing hours of the session by the same member who played the same tactics last year with the building law.

Now, after all this care and trouble, let us briefly see

WHAT THE NEW BUILDING LAW SECURES FOR THE CITIZENS OF NEW YORK.

The thicknesses of walls have been entirely re-arranged. The present law specifies regulations for the construction of buildings totally opposed to architectural science, and the terms of the law had to be continually modified to suit the requirements of different buildings. The new requirements aim to make buildings of all kinds safe and durable and yet fulfill every requirement of economy in materials. The interest of the poor man has been protected as well as the rich man, and small dwelling houses can be erected under the provisions of the new law cheaper than ever before. The new schedule of heights and thicknesses for walls is based on scientific principles, and meets cases where the old law was entirely inadequate to the present times when buildings are built higher and more extensive than was contemplated in former years. It provides for many of the defects in the construction of buildings which have only been brought to light by the experience of comparitively a few years past.

The requirements for the erection of theatres is based upon a similar law drafted in Vienna after the great fire, but has been modified and adapted to our American ideas. While fully providing for the protection of the public from fire and smoke in places of amusement, nothing more is required to be done in the erection of such buildings than is absolutely necessary for public safety. In drawing up these sections architects of great experience in theatre construction in this city were consulted and their views adopted.

The new law right through was designed for the benefit of property owners as well as for the safety of occupants of buildings. The old law was used, times without number, for the pecuniary benefit of those in power, whereas the new law diminishes the possibility of such a practice. The new law is fuller, simpler and clearer, positively defining the various requirements and in such a way that they can be understood, and from which there will be no option for deviation, but compels the head of the Bureau of Buildings to carry out those requirements to the very letter.

Many of the annoyances and red tape proceedings of filing plans in the past have been remedied for the future. The court proceedings and penalties which were so often used in the past as a means of oppression against those who were unfortunate enough to incur the enmity of the department, has been simplified and restricted, and there will now be less cause for complaints of persecution and tyranny. In the past, builders who valued their reputations, and property-owners who invariably desired to have only what was safe and substantial, were sure at times to run counter to the officers of the Building Bureau, who not infrequently put their own construction on the meaning of the law and the powers conferred upon them.

Defects in the new law may be revealed—no perfect law has yet been drawn; even the constitution of the United States is open to different interpretations—but it will prove such a vast improvement over the old law, that the defects can be patiently borne until in due time they can be remedied. The gentlemen who have given so much of their experience and time to this matter will not lose their interest in the next year, and will carefully watch the workings of the new law. The new law goes as far as the spirit of the age warrants. After a decade of years, when people are educated up to a better kind of construction than now generally prevails, many changes and additions will be demanded. Those who drew up this law felt the importance of the work; that a proper building law was not even second in importance to the new Croton aqueduct project. The one is to provide an increased supply of water for the future; the other is to provide greater security to life and property in the buildings of the future. Both are in the interests of the health, the comfort and the necessities of the entire population of the city of New York. Very respectfully,

WM. J. FRYER, JR.

The buildings Nos. 94 and 96 Broadway, which are being torn down to make way for a fine office building, which will eventually also have frontages on Wall and Pine streets, belongs to the Astor family, and was originally purchased at prices which seem absurdly low, compared with those which now obtain. The lot No. 96 Broadway, size 21.9x100x20.10x100, was purchased by John Jacob Astor from Hezekiah Wheeler, merchant tailor, on April 14, 1847, for $27,600; No. 94, which is 16.6x100x13.10x100, was purchased by William B. Astor, from the heirs of William B. Gilley, on March 16th, 1853, for $32,500. Compare these prices with some of the recent sales, for instance, the building No. 62 Broadway and 21 New street, near Exchange place, was purchased on May 8, 1883, for $178,500. The house 68 Broadway and 17 New street, size 22.10x119.5, was sold on March 1, 1883, for $170,000. Broadway, Nos. 52, 54 and 56, and 31 to 39 New street, 124.11 on Broadway, x159.10x130.1 on New street, x 135.2 on Exchange place, was sold on February 20, 1883, for $1,000,000. The northwest corner of Broadway and Liberty street, 25.4x85.2, with an L 25.4, and about 47.7 on Liberty street, was bought under the hammer at the Jumel estate sale May 31, 1882, by the Williamsburgh City Fire Insurance Company for $356,000. This shows the great difference between the prices which obtained before the Civil War as compared with those now demanded for choice Broadway property.

Metropolitan journalism will not suffer because Josh. Hart has been fired out of the Truth newspaper. Under the editorship of Mr. Louis F. Post, that paper was successful. But Hart rid himself of his partner and associate, and the paper has ever since been steadily declining in circulation and influence. Thomas B. Connery, formerly manager of the Herald, is now the editor of Truth. He is an experienced and thoroughly equipped journalist, and he has a chance to make a first-class daily penny journal. What New York needs is something like the Sun, when it was under the control of Moses Y. Beach. The Philadelphia Ledger or Record and the Baltimore Sun would also be good papers to copy. A model penny paper should have no displayed advertisements, and plenty of news pithily stated, while the comments should be brief, sensible and to the point. There is too much froth and syllabub in several of the new journalistic candidates for popular favor.

Home Decorative Notes.

—A faint and pleasant fragrance may be imparted to hangings and draperies, by allowing them to be saturated with the smoke of burning myrrh and frankincense or of Chinese "joss sticks," which are straws coated with finely powdered sandal wood, and are used as incense in their temples.

—The panicle flowered hydrangea is the most attractive lawn shrub, the flowers are produced in immense panicles, some of them a foot long.

—Quotations and mottoes are used on everything.

—Halls are furnished with dark oak or with mahogany, and when the pieces are upholstered the preference is for embossed leathers, tapestries or rugs; a wooden sofa or a long divan of carved dark wood, with chairs to match made with high backs and box seats, are the movable pieces; a mirror with pegs in the frame and a table beneath it are for small halls in preference to the usual hat-rack.

—Both square and round stair rods are shown in brass, bronze, French gilt or nickel, and for those who object to rods, there are fanciful metal pins to fasten the carpet on each side and in the middle of each step.

—Jardinieres, in the Hungarian and Limoges ware, huge in proportions and magnificently mounted in brass, are greatly admired.

—A beautiful design for a chair back is one of large marguerites on cream crash, the petals worked in two shades of yellow floss silk, the centres in rich brown filoselle dotted with French knots in gold, and the leaves in solid green crewel stitch, the border simply outlined in the same colors and either end well frayed out.

—The striped India shawls, which are very rich looking and quite inexpensive, are very effectively used for hangings.

—Cherry may be stained to imitate mahogany by dipping it in a heated solution of logwood chips digested for twenty-four hours or more in vinegar, continue the dipping until the proper color is obtained.

—The study of ceramic art and the collection of specimens, whether for cabinet purposes or for home decoration, should lead to freedom and independence of taste, color adds cheer to rooms but taste should be exercised in the use of color, the latest rage is for mustard yellow; the Greek pottery in all fanciful and grotesque shapes is very attractive for cabinet pieces, fern ware is extremely delicate and graceful, very unique is the reptile ware in dark green and rich blue, recent importations in all the new wares and choice pieces of Doulton, royal Worcester and Berlin have recently been received by E. S. Allien, of 174 Fifth avenue.

—A simple decoration for a waste paper basket is accomplished by fastening the bright and fanciful Japanese napkins around it, tie them with ribbon about the top of the basket, and in the centre also, then let them hang full and free at the bottom.

—Crape scarfs of bright red or brilliant yellow can be very effectively used for easel or picture draperies.

The very large offering on Tuesday and Wednesday next of the property of Mr. John H. Deane calls attention anew to the value of Harlem property as an investment. The active movement in realty, which followed the long depression from 1873 to 1878, spent most of its force in and below Harlem. The west side of the Central Park, notwithstanding its great expectations, had very little benefit. The suburbs in New Jersey had none of it. Long Island and Westchester next to nothing. In former periods these outlying suburbs reaped the first and best fruits of any season of the city's growth in wealth or population. In the last period we seem to have held our own within our own borders.

The number of houses erected, and the increase in the value of property within the five years past, has been unprecedentedly large. Its distribution, or, to use the simile, its lines of crystallization, have been new. They have been controlled by the routes of the elevated railroads. These have become the main thoroughfares of great travel and value and improvements have followed them, as in ancient times they followed Broadway while it was the great thoroughfare. The influence has filled the vicinity of Wall street and Broadway with large office buildings. It has built up Sixth avenue, Fourteenth and Twenty-third streets with the largest retail stores; it has stretched beyond the settled portions of the city, and along the lines of the Third avenue has built up Yorkville and Harlem; Fifth and Madison avenues and Lenox Hill have received great additions. These have been the palaces and the expensive residences of the wealthy, but the dwellings of moderate price, and the better class of flat houses, have filled up the vacant places on the east side between Eighty-sixth street and the Harlem River. It was a region well situated, readily adapted for building and where land was at low prices, and it was fortunate for all that this great accretion was held there. It was the silent force of the elevated road, which has just begun to show its irresistible power over the growth and destinies of the city. It has built up Harlem; it will go on to consolidate its strength and increase its value.

Mr. Deane foresaw these results, went in when the prices of land were at the lowest, and advanced with the general increase. He bought hundreds of lots and built hundreds of houses. Very many have been sold, and those he has remaining he offers to the public at their own price. The houses are of the right class for the location and for purchasers, and if prices were a little more buoyant he would realize the hundreds of thousands he anticipated. Three months ago his sale would have been more productive. Next fall when the demand returns it would be much more profitable. His sale happens at a time when all the advantages are with the purchaser; for his assignee, Mr. Chamberlin, has determined to close the trust without any delay. It is a wise determination when liquidation only and not profit is in view. As it turns out, he will be giving the profits of his labors and enterprise to those who come in and make good selections at the sale.

Real Estate Department.

The past has been a broken week, due to the observance of Decoration Day and the disturbances in financial circles. But the official conveyances, though one day less than for the corresponding week last year, show that there has been no falling-off in transactions. The undertone of the market remains firm, but there is naturally less doing than there was. The market has been tested by two sales of unimproved real estate. The Haggerty property was sold on Tuesday and the Pentz on Thursday. There was brisk bidding at both sales, and for the Haggerty property the prices were very fair. Some of the lots were bought by builders and investors, and others by speculative buyers, who advertised them for immediate resale. This shows the active operators in the market realize that the demand for vacant property is increasing, and that there is no danger of taking a "flyer" in the market. The prices obtained at the Pentz sale were not so good; but then the property was scattered, and contained gore lots with no access to the street, while other lots were situated on rocky elevations. But there were numerous bidders at both sales, and dealers were satisfied that vacant lots on this island are far more marketable now than they were last year, or even early in the spring.

The most important sales held at the Exchange Salesroom since our last issue were those of lots belonging to the Haggerty and Pentz estates; the former was held on Tuesday, when twenty-five lots comprising the block bounded by St. Nicholas and Tenth avenues, One Hundred and Fifty-sixth and One Hundred and Fifty-seventh streets, were sold for $78,250, and twelve lots on Eighty-eighth and Eighty-ninth streets, east of Avenue B, for $2,700 each. The Pentz estate lots, 102 in number, many of them small gores and covered with rock, were sold on Thursday for a total of $98,704. On the same day a plot on the northeast corner of Riverside drive and Eighty-first street, 104.1x122.4x102.2x103, was knocked down for $43,500, and four lots on the northwest corner of Eleventh avenue and Eighty-first street for $19,000.

The official Conveyances for the past week, compared with the corresponding week of last year, show an increase in the amount of money invested in real estate, although the number of transfers are somewhat smaller. The amount borrowed on mortgages is also larger. The following is the table:

CONVEYANCES.	1883. May 25 to 31, incl.	1884. May 23 to 28, incl.

The maps of Mr. Deane's realty to be sold on the 3d and 4th of June by Mr. Harnett have been distributed, and show a large list of improved and vacant property. The sale begins with the houses around Mt. Morris Square. Some of them are single dwellings, of good style and very fine finish; others are apartment houses, 20, 25 and 30 feet wide, of a very superior character. The streets are well improved, the ground is high and the location is not surpassed north of the Central Park. The property along Lexington avenue, below One Hundred and Fourteenth street, shows the same assortment of single dwellings and of flats, some of them of high grade. There are two very good houses near the elevated station at Eighth avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, and east of the Third avenue flats suitable to that vicinity. Among the vacant lots there is a choice corner on the Eighth avenue, a number on the south side of Mt. Morris square, and a block and a half between First and Second avenues, One Hundredth and One Hundred and Second streets.

The property is most of it subject to mortgages, which are stated on each page of the catalogue, making the terms very easy to the purchaser; and the exigencies of the situation are such that the sale will be absolute, and without any reserve or postponement.

It is a large amount of property to put on the market at one sale, and is, perhaps, the largest sale of the season. The property comes within the range of the great middle class of moderate investors, who wish for small houses for their own occupation, good flats for rental and choice lots for improvement. These purchasers will have their own way at the sale, and will find a chance next week that will not soon be repeated.

On Monday, June 2d, Richard V. Harnett will offer some very desirable villa sights at Orienta Point, on Long Island Sound. This is in Mamaroneck, and is sometimes known as Greacen Place. Here is a rare chance to secure a charming location for a country house. The water front on the Sound near the city is fast being taken up and even now commands very high prices. Some of New York's wealthiest citizens have country places on Orienta Point. On June 3d and 4th Mr. Harnett will sell John H. Deane's estate, of which particulars are given elsewhere.

On Monday, June 2d, E. H. Ludlow will sell the very fine house No. 398 Fifth avenue, with the stables adjoining, No. 3 West Thirty-sixth street. This is a very fine four-story brown stone house, in the best of order. The location could not be surpassed, as it is on the very crown of Murray Hill.

On June 6th John F. B. Smyth will sell a fine house on Fifty-seventh street, near Fifth avenue, No. 10 West. This is a splendid property and offers a fine chance to secure an elegant house at a reasonable price. On the same day Mr. Smyth will sell two parcels belonging to the McLaughlin estate, two tenement houses, Nos. 511 and 513 West Twenty-ninth street.

On Tuesday, June 17th, some 260 lots—being part of the Fox estate—will be sold at the Exchange Salesroom. This property has been in the one family for nine generations, the original purchase having been confirmed by a crown patent of James II. in 1686. The new Croton Park is only 500 feet from the lots, which are skirted by the old Boston road. The Southern Boulevard and Westchester avenue both cut through this estate. The Suburban Rapid Transit Road will run through it for about three quarters of a mile, the right of way having already been agreed upon. The lots are nearly all graded, and the location is supplied with gas, water, schools and police-service, besides postal, express and store deliveries. The roads are well laid out and the drainage is good. The sale includes blocks on the Southern Boulevard, Westchester avenue, Boston road and One Hundred and Sixty-seventh street, where the Suburban Rapid Transit Company proposes to have one of its stations. A reference to the transfers shows that a lot was purchased by T. G. Pearsall, banker, on the Southern Boulevard for $750 a year ago, while a lot on the same avenue brought $650 at auction in November, 1882. The auctioneer will be James L. Wells. Mr. Charles Benner, of 132 Nassau street, is the attorney.

Attention is called to two Fifth avenue lots, only 18 feet from One Hundred and Twentieth street and on Mount Morris Park. They are offered for sale by a trustee.

V. K. Stevenson, Jr., advertises some Fort Washington property elsewhere, the beauties of which are temptingly stated.

A plot 100 feet square, the corner of Riverside Drive and Eighty-first street, brought $43,500, which shows that vacant lots along that most beautiful city drive are not going begging.

There are several very important sales, both of improved and unimproved property, during the coming few weeks.

The old Produce Exchange is offered at private sale, as will be seen from an advertisement in another column. It has superior advantages as to size, light and ventilation, and is surrounded by streets. It is close to the elevated roads and Brooklyn ferries, and is in the midst of extensive improvements. S. Eddy & Co., of No. 145 Broadway, have the property in charge.

W. F. Corwith has sold the house and lot No. 75 Oakland street, to Sidney Bloodgood, for $4,000.

J. S. Hall & Son have sold the two-story in front and three-story in rear brown stone dwelling, 20x45x100, No. 304 Clifton place, to Mrs. Moulton; price, $6,300.

The wharf property, known as Poillon's shipyard, consisting of ten brick dwellings, stores, wharves, slip and water rights, was offered at auction on Thursday, at the Exchange Salesroom, New York. Only one bid of $250,000 was offered, and the property was withdrawn.

Out Among the Builders.

The announcement of the erection of two ten-story structures down town is premature. Negotiations have been pending for some time past for the purchase of a piece of down-town property having frontages on three streets, one on Broadway, with the object of erecting on the site one or two office-buildings, to be put up by a syndicate controlling a capital in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. A reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE was shown the sketches, which show an eight-story building of brick and stone, divided in two, and having a private street running through the centre, the construction being on a plan similar to that of the Mills building. The frontage covered is 650 feet on all sides. The building is strictly fire-proof and of very substantial rather than ornate structure. The architect strongly objected to his name being mentioned, and could not give the names of the promoters for the present owing to the doubtfulness of the undertaking. It is reported, however, that this improvement will be made by the Bowling Green Building Company, which has just been incorporated with a capital of $1,000,000 by Messrs. G. F. and F. J. Stone, W. H., F. A. and H. P. Brown.

Willard Parker, Jr., intends to erect a handsome four-story high stoop Philadelphia brick and brown stone private residence, for his own occupancy, at No. 8 West Eighteenth street. The dimensions will be 27x80 and the cost about $35,000. The interior will be trimmed in hard woods. Architect, E. D. Lindsey; builder, J. J. Tucker.

George C. Edgar intends to build four four-story and basement brown stone houses, 18.9 front each, on the north side of Seventieth street, 100 feet west of Ninth avenue. They will not be commenced until after the summer season. The cost will probably be from $50,000 to $60,000. Three stories will be in hardwood trim.

Babcock & McAvoy are the architects for the eight flats to be built for M. Giblin on the southwest corner of Ninetieth street and Third avenue, as reported in our last.

William Cumberland is tearing down the two-story brick house, No. 57 West Tenth street, 21.9x94.10, which was purchased by him at auction on the 13th inst. for $13,000, preparatory to the erection of a five-story brick flat house.

Plans were about to be filed for three 16.8 feet private houses to be built on the northwest corner of St. Nicholas avenue and One Hundred and Fifty-second street, for Charles L. Fleming. That gentleman has since purchased another lot adjoining, and will now erect four three-story and basement Philadelphia brick and brown stone (first-story and basement) private houses, 19 x about 52 each, on the same site, at a cost of some $50,000. The plans are being prepared by James E. Ware. The same architect is drawing sketches for a three-story brick and stone ornate private dwelling, 19x50, to be erected for Frederick W. James, for his own occupancy, on the north side of One Hundred and Fifty-third street, 175 feet east of Tenth avenue, at a cost of about $10,000.

J. R. Thomas has the sketches under way for a first-class four-story and basement Philadelphia brick and stone residence, 32x120, to be erected for Senator Thomas W. Palmer, of Michigan, on McPherson square, Washington, D. C. It will contain passenger elevator and steam heat, and be in hardwood throughout, the interior decorations being very costly. A two-story stable, 28x32, will be attached. One of the features will be the placing of the kitchen, laundry and servants' rooms on the top floor. Senator Palmer thinks of erecting a handsome residence adjoining.

John B. McIntyre has the sketches on the boards for a five-story brick and brown stone flat and store, 19x80, to be built at No. 2184 Second avenue, for Henry Klauber, to cost about $14,000, for investment.

John Livingston intends to erect two 23.6-feet private residences, four-story and basement brown stone fronts, on the south side of Seventy-first street, 60 feet west of Lexington avenue. Mr. Livingston is also about to build a five-story brown stone double flat and two stores, 30x82, on the north side of Seventy-fifth street, 120 feet west of Third avenue. The sketches are being prepared by F. T. Camp.

J. H. Valentine is the architect for the five-story and basement tenement to be built for J. O'Hare on Third street, near Macdougal, as reported in our last. It will be 25x86, and contain improvements; cost, about $20,000.

Kaufmann Brothers & Bondy are about to erect seven five-story tenements, 25x82 each, on the east side of First avenue, between Thirty-second and Thirty-third streets, and on the south side of Thirty-third street, 125 east of First avenue. Schwarzmann & Buchman are the architects.

The old buildings on the southwest corner of Grand and Allen streets have been demolished to make way for a substantial improvement.

Michael Brennan will shortly commence the erection of four five-story brown stone flats, 27x84 each, on the north side of Sixty-fifth street, 100 feet west of First avenue, to cost about $70,000. A. B. Ogden, the architect, has the plans under way.

M. Louis Ungrich is the architect for two five-story brick and brown stone improved flats, to be erected on the southeast corner of Ninth avenue and Forty-eighth street. The corner will be 30x96, and have two stores, and the other 20x83, with one store. Owner, L. & L. K. Ungrich. Cost, about $45,000. The same architect has plans for two five-story brick and brown stone tenements, 25x66 each, to be erected on the north side of Fiftieth street, 225 feet east of Eleventh avenue, for Bernard Havanagh, to cost $28,000, and a five-story brick flat, the first story and basement to be of brown stone, to be built at No. 228 East Thirty-sixth street, for Eliza V. Foster, at a cost of $20,000.

P. H. Dugro proposes to erect three four-story brick and brown stone improved flats and stores, 16.8x93 each, on the north side of One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, commencing 100 feet east of Madison avenue, at a cost of about $50,000. Berger & Baylies are the architects.

Brooklyn.

The Oxford Club, corner of Lafayette avenue and South Oxford street, intend to make extensive additions and alterations to their present building. Plans are being submitted by four architects, Mercein Thomas, of Brooklyn, and Geo. B. Post, C. W. Romeyn & Co., and G. A. Freeman, of New York. The addition will be 37x60 in size, and is expected to cost from $30,000 to $40,000.

Th. Englehardt has plans for a three-story frame double tenement, 25x55, to be erected on the north side of Melrose street, near Central avenue, for Christian Hunken, at a cost of $4,500.

Contractors' Notes.

Proposals will be received by the School Trustees of the Twenty-first Ward, at the Hall of the Board of Education, corner of Grand and Elm streets, until Monday, the 2d day of June, 1884, at 4 o'clock P. M., for new steam-heating apparatus for Grammar School No. 14, on 27th street, between 2d and 3d avenues.

Proposals will be received by the School Trustees of the Sixth Ward, at the same place and time, for furnishing new sashes, etc., for Grammar School No. 23, on City Hall place, near Pearl street.

Special Notices.

Our friends, Messrs. Dannat & Pell, of Broome and Delancey streets, in this city, appear to have beaten the record in the way of "big logs." They recently received a log of Mexican mahogany weighing eleven tons; 35 feet 6 inches in length, and 40 inches in the square of width and thickness. It was successfully sawed and produced 4,300 feet of clear lumber, making probably the largest and finest counter top to be found in the city. It is understood that two years' work was expended in cutting out the log and getting it from the forest to the sea coast.

Architects and others will notice from another column, that James O'Toole, the builder, has removed from No. 2283 First avenue to No. 111 West Sixty-seventh street, near Park avenue.

William Munzer, manufacturer of the Improved Corliss Steam Engines, has found it necessary to remove to larger quarters, owing to the increase in his business. His new works are at Nos. 204 to 210 East Forty-third street, where he invites a continuance of the patronage of his customers. Communications and inquiries, personal and by letter, will receive his best attention.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—The variations in the general market for Common Hards are so slight as to make it a somewhat difficult matter to present other than the stereotyped form of report. Demand varies to some extent from day to day and has been slightly broken this week by the intervention of a holiday, but the aggregate consumption is just about as full as before, and indeed, if anything, has made an increase. Old buildings have been demolished, the foundations for new and frequently very extensive structures are getting along, and while the point of actual use for bricks may not have been reached as yet it is so near that the necessity for looking out for stock commences to be felt. Up to recent date old supplies have held out very well, with a small sprinkling of new to make good deficiencies, but latterly the "last cargoes" have been reported from a great many points and the present week finds a material falling off in the offering, and, by comparison, really something like a scarcity. The effect is noticeable on prices which commence to creep upward and will probably average 25c. further gain though on some of the best lots the advance is still greater as really fine to choice quality of anything becomes more difficult to find during the passage from the make of one season into that of the next. As a rule $7.50 per M has been a full rate on Haverstraws, but $7.75 was made and some of the makes cannot now be reached for less than $8 per M. Some of the receivers were complaining of the indifference shown by dealers over the upward turn of the market and attributed it to purchases made at lower rates when the market was liberally stocked and which are now used to satisfy distributive requirements. As suggested in one instance buyers are compared to a camel, an animal that, having absorbed all the water possible at a convenient period, becomes thoroughly indifferent about further additions until the original supply is entirely exhausted. Manufacturers are all said to be at work but not likely to burden the market with much new stock for two or three weeks. Pales still have a sort of go-as-you-please market and the business is at any price from $3 up to $4, according to luck in catching a customer. Fronts firm with Croton Point in quick demand and engaged ahead of production.

LATH.—Any suggestion that this market may have lost tone or character seems to send receivers off at a tangent, and they at once became profuse in explanations of the strength of the position. There is little doubt that claims for firmness are well founded, and the appearances would lead to expectations of a further gain rather than any immediate reaction. Dealers are only fairly stocked, consumption is good and production said to be moderate, three important influences of a decidedly sustaining character. There was some increase in the arrivals this week, but where not previously sold they were quickly disposed to waiting buyers and commanded full former rates, the market closing strong at $2.55@2.6 per M.

LIME.—The evidences of a weak tone on Eastern stock noted in our last have been confirmed, and we have official notification of a reduction on rates to 85c and $1 per bbl respectively for common and finishing. There does not appear to be any particularly heavy pressure of supplies but simply an annoying light demand, and the best efforts of agents have been useless against the unfavorable influence. At the close advices from the East are quite positive in the statement that manufacturers are determined to make a stand against the continued weakening tendency, and will stop further shipments until the market improves. State lime is unsettled and said to have sold 5@10 lower than last week, though quotations are nominally unchanged.

LUMBER.—So far as the distribution of supplies is concerned there has been no shrinkage, but, if anything, a gain, and especially so on local consumption account, including the wants of Brooklyn. The movement, however, has so much of the old, steady, undemonstrative form as to excite no special remark, and even some of the dealers who secure a good full proportion of the business are hardly aware of its extent until they take trouble to make footings and compare with former seasons. More or less grumbling is, of course, to be heard, and reports continue to lack the spirited form many had hoped for by this time. It is, however, just possible that a little too much had been calculated upon before the season fairly opened, and that the over-confident portion of the trade must now relieve itself by fault finding, etc, as a balance for disappointment. Another more or less new experience thus far this year is the thorough calmness of pretty much all classes of buyers and the failure to stir up even a small ripple of excitement. When supplies are known to be wanted within any certain period demand develops at once, nor is serious objection made to the line of cost as it stands, but beyond the limit of actual necessity it is simply impossible to draw orders, and attempts to secure higher figures generally retard and frequently entirely suspend negotiations. Much the same methods are practiced by dealers, and while in one way or another they finally make a place for about all the offering, coastwise or interior, they take their own time about it, and generally manage to work out an allowance where any imperfection of quality is shown.

Eastern Spruce shows no weakness for really desirable and useful stock. All dealers have been buyers since the opening of the season, but none to excess and some quite cautiously, while the majority are still well inclined to adhere to the hand-to-mouth policy. The result is that there can always be found a few yards a little short on stock, and so long as receivers do not get too heavy a fleet of cargoes in upon them at once, careful management enables them to secure an outlet without seriously disturbing the steady range on values, especially on wide and long stock. Short and narrow stuff is at about as great a discount as ever for city use, but even this, when not plentiful, appears to be absorbed on orders from "around about," and some quite ordinary "bills" have brought fair rates. Manufacturers are said to be pretty busy on specials and not over-anxious to negotiate at the moment, but unable to exact higher rates. Current quotations on extreme figures range at $13.00@15.50 for random, and $15.50@17.00 for specials.

White Pine does not appear to have an altogether smooth and compact market at the moment. Some of the trade meet all inquiries with the never-failing report of a "good business and steady prices," others under either disappointment or discouragement go to the other extreme and talk quite tamely, while still others suggest a "nominally unchanged situation." The latter while a little ambiguous is about a fair way of covering the more or less conflicting views as expressed at the moment, and we incline to adopt it. Dealers are in many cases evidently endeavoring to work out some sort of basis for action toward manufacturers and middlemen during the balance of the season, but with the prevailing uncertainty regarding the wants for distribution, etc, have come to no positive decision. On export account a few orders can occasionally be obtained, but the demand is less active and generally guided by greater caution than during the early portion of the season. We quote at $17.50@19 for West India shipping boards; $25@28 for South American do.; $14@15 for box boards, and $16.00 @17.50 for extra do.

Yellow Pine not much wanted beyond previous indications regarding certain contracts, and no really new demand can be recorded. To meet the calls made there is plenty of competition among manufacturers, and as transportation charges do not increase, the line of valuation remains about as before Many, however, seem to think this steadiness a good sign, and are quite willing to predict that this season will see the last of extreme low rates on yellow pine. Yard stocks are pretty full as arrivals have been fair this spring, and any ordinary selection can be made without much difficulty. We quote as follows: Randoms, $18@20.50 per M; Specials, $20@21.00 do.; Green Flooring Boards, $22@23; Dry do., do., $23@24; Siding, $22@28 do.; Cargoes f. o. b. at Atlantic ports, $14@14.50 for rough, and $19@22 for dressed. Cargoes f. o. b. at Gulf ports, $13@14 for rough, and $18 @20 for dressed.

Hardwoods distribute slowly and in about old form, the carefully selected stock commanding full rates promptly, but ordinary grades tame. Good walnut, oak and poplar are wanted, and of ash and cherry more could be sold than at present available, the latter, in particular, keeping in favor. The bulk of the business at the moment is on home account, though a few exporters can be found looking for stock We quote at wholesale rates by car load as follows: Walnut, $65@110 per M.; ash, $35@40 do.; oak, $30@55 do.; maple, $20@32.50 do.; chestnut, $25@30 do.; cherry, $40@75 do.; whitewood, $27@35 do., do.; elm, $22@25; hickory, $45@52.50 do.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman says of the Chicago market:

Green short piece stuff is still quotable at $9, and when there is 30 to 40 per cent of long stuff in a load, $9.25 to $9.50 can be realized. But the most desirable of all offerings is where a cargo contains a large percentage of 2x4, 12 and 14, or 2x12, 12 and 14 In fact short length piece stuff is mostly sought for, and when a buyer can find what he wants, he is willing to pay a little more than than $9 for it.

The dry No. 2 inch stock now coming forward is selling at from $12 to $13. Green lumber of the same class is worth from 25 to 50 cents a thousand less. When these relative figures are stated it must be understood that much of the lumber now denominated dry is but partially so. But little No. 1 stock is offering on the market, and that is mostly selling for $15 to $17. Very choice would reach a little higher.

The Lumberman and Manufacturer, Minneapolis Minn., says:

There is nothing exciting at any of the river points but several leading houses assure us of a steady demand and reasonable collections. The transactions in lumber have been few on p. t. Logs are selling freely at from $7 to $13, and No. 1 scarce at any figure. Black River is being cleaned out of all desirable stock at $10 to $12.

Minneapolis is receiving a large amount of lumber the bulk of which comes from Wisconsin and goes direct to the yards to sort up depleted stocks, or to various manufacturers to be worked up. Some exceptionally large bills of heavy dimension have been placed during the week. The local trade is excellent, our estimate being that it fully equals the shipping trade which now approximates 5,000,000 per week.

The St. Paul trade is constantly increasing, the bulk seeming to come from Nebraska, southern Dakota and western Iowa. From all we glean it seems that prices are firmer week by week.

FOREIGN.

The Timber Trade's Journal as follows:

LONDON.

Another unreserved sale of American black walnut has been held The cargo being cleared up in this way is a poor one, but considering this, prices are about as good as might ave been looked for, although it is evident that the prices could not pay shippers of American white wood. There is a fair stock in the market, buyers consequently have a good opportunity for selection, and, as in most things, let us hope in this that supply will encourage demand. An improving trade is doing in Italian walnut wood planks, of which there is a good stock of all thicknesses.

LIVERPOOL.

The importation of spruce deals continues very small, and this should help off the accumulated stocks, which are too heavy for this time of year. Pitch pine has been arriving more freely, and several cargoes are now being landed; most of them, however, have been either contracted for or sold entire by private treaty.

METALS.—COPPER—Ingot does not meet with more than the ordinary demand, and the distribution is mainly in small odd lots through ordinary channels. Despite the slow movement, and a large stock on hand owners do not appear to show much, if any, weakness, and old rates are quite generally asked. We quote at 14¼c. for Lake down to 13¾c. for the more ordinary brands. Manufactured Copper receives average attention from regular sources, and occasionally attracts a little outside demand, with rates very well sustained. We quote as follows: Brazier's Copper, ordinary size, over 16 oz. per sq. foot, 23c. per lb.; do. do. do., 16 oz. and over 12 oz. per sq. foot, 25c. per lb.; do. do., 10 and 12 oz. per sq. foot, 28c. per lb.; do., do., lighter than 10 oz. per sq foot, 30c. per lb.; circles less than 24 inches in diameter, 26c. per lb.; 24 inches in diameter and over, 29c per lb.; segment and pattern sheets, 26c. per lb.; locomotive fire-box sheets, 24c. per lb.; Sheathing Copper, over 12 oz. per sq. foot, 21c. per lb., and Bolt Copper, 24c. per lb. IRON—Scotch Pig continues in slow, uncertain demand, with stock accumulating in store and offerings made to arrive at shaded cost, the tone ruling weak all around, though on the general range no positive alteration in figures can be made. We quote at $19.50@22 per ton, according to brand, etc. American Pig is called for in only such quantities as the immediate wants of buyers may require and no inducement has been found sufficient to draw customers beyond that line. Offerings have been full enough for all wants, but not excessive, and about the old line of valuation is very well maintained. We quote $20.00@21.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry, $18.50 @19.50 for No. 2 X do. do., and $18.00@18.50 for gray forge. Old rails find no regular demand, but now and then an odd lot comes upon the market, and sales are made at about the old line of values. Scrap Iron has been greatly neglected and to a great extent valuations are nominal. We quote at $20.00@21.00 for tee rails, $22 @23.00 for double heads, $22.00@23.00 for No. 1 wrought scrap ex ship, $23.50@24.00 for selected do., $18.00@ 19.00 for old car wheels, and $22.00@23.00 for crop ends. Steel Rails have been placed only moderately, and manufacturers are seldom cheered by any important order. There is, of course, no accumulation of stock, as most of the product is made on contract, but the absence of trade has a weakening tendency on valua tions. We quote at $32 50@33.00 per ton for heavy sections. Manufactured Iron, on contract for architectural and kindred purposes, has fair sale, but otherwise the market is dull and somewhat unsettled. Supplies fair. We quote Common Merchant Bar, ordinary sizes, at 2.00@2.10c. from store, and Refined at 2.10@2.45c ; Rods, round and square 2.20@2.35c.; Bands, 2.5 @2.60c.; Norway Nail Rods, 5¼@6c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 2.80@3.10c. for common Nos. 10@16 Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars. LEAD—Domestic Pig does not meet with a free, open and positive demand, but efforts of a sustaining character have been put forth by manufacturers and values given an appearance of strength at least. We quote at about 3¾@3⅞c. per lb., according to brand and the size of invoice handled. The manufactures of lead are steady and quoted: Bar, 5c.; pipe, 6¼c.; and sheet, 7¼c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin-lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe, 45c., on same terms. TIN—Pig has been selling rather slowly for some time past, and, with the general run of advices from abroad more or less unsatisfactory, the turn of values was in buyers' favor. Speculation appears to be moderate and careful. We quote at 18¾@19¼c. for Straits and Australian, 19⅛@19⅝ for English, and 20⅛@20⅝ for Banca. Tin Plates have found some country demand, and there is about the usual call at this season from canners, but neither source furnishes an outlet sufficient to stimulate the market, and buyers have rather the greatest advantage We quote I. C. Charcoal, third class assortment, $5.35@5.35 for Allaway grade, and $6.10@6.20 for Melyn grade; for each additional X add $1.25 and $1.50 respectively; I. C. Coke, $4.75@4.80 for B. V. grade; $4.87½@4.90 for J. B. grade; Charcoal terne, $4.75@5.10 for Allaway and Dean grades 14x20; $9.80@10.20 for do. 20x28; Coke terne, $4.55@4.60 for Glais grade 14x20, and $9.50@9.55 for do. 20x28—all in round lots. Spelter without change, supply and demand making a very good balance and the line of values ruling fairly steady all around. We quote at 4⅝@5c. for domestic and foreign, according to brand, quality, etc. Sheet Zinc selling moderately in odd lots as wanted for immediate use, and prices steady at 5⅞@7c., according to quantity, quality, etc.

NAILS.—Demand has fluctuated to some extent but did not vary greatly in general volume and the market shows about the old features. Threats of reducing the output continue and if all sections could be induced to agree the attempt would probably be made, but some manufacturers appear to think it would be more to their advantage to keep mills fully at work and most others have to follow in self defence. We quote at $2 60 per keg for 10d. to 60d., as a basis, though variations occur according to size of invoice, etc.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—From first hands the movement has been rather moderate and confined to a considerable extent to finishing up and sorting out invoices. Jobbers, however, continue to distribute with some freedom as even where actual consumption is dropping off retail dealers, etc., are desirous of replenishing stocks, especially of standard goods. Linseed Oil in moderately active demand and steady at 58@59 for foreign, and 57@58 for domestic. Spirits Turpentine met with a small jobbing demand and ruled about steady at 32½@35c. per gallon, according to size of invoice, delivery, etc.

PITCH AND TAR.—Demand continues moderate and in about the usual form, with no new features suggested this week. We quote: Pitch, $2.25@2.30 per bbl.; Tar, $2.50@3.00 do., according to quantity, quality and delivery.

J. T. LINDSEY, Business Manager.

JUNE 7, 1884.

Whatever may be the outcome of the two political national conventions, the one just adjourned and the one about to meet, there is no reason for any exaggerated fears for the safety of the country. Partisans may believe that the choice of a certain President may be the ruin of the country, but such fears are groundless. The business community should not lose its head if certain so-called organs of public opinion should predict disaster if one or the other party succeeds. Let us all keep as cool as the state of the weather will permit.

All the crop news is good. Accidents excepted, the year 1884 will witness the heaviest crops of corn, small grain and cotton ever grown in this country. With an average season we ought to have two billion bushels of corn, seven million bales of cotton, over five hundred million bushels of wheat, and other grain in proportion, as a basis for the business of the year beginning with next fall. There is no danger of our people being hungry or naked during the year to come, and with ordinary luck we ought to have a handsome profit besides on our business operations.

Wall street has been blue for some days past, due to the selling of our local securities by foreigners who bought for a turn during the recent cyclone. That buying was so extensive as to reduce the price of exchange. But the balance of trade is largely against us, and unless we ship more grain and cotton, gold will be leaving our shores again. It is this consideration and the uncertainty about the Chicago nomination which has made the market weak. But it will be better by-and-by. The June boom is due and it will come.

According to our Albany advices there is little doubt but what Governor Cleveland will sign the new building law, but there is some doubt about his approval of the bill providing for the acquisition of new park grounds in the annexed district. The pressure upon him to sign the bill is very great. It is, in fact, one of the most popular bills of the late session. Owners of realty in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards will be very much disappointed if the Governor should withhold his signature from this enactment.

The Republican platform does not give any encouragement to the gold unit people. It ignores all that has been said about the wickedness of the silver dollar coinage, and calls for international action to determine upon what ratio the two precious metals can be freely coined; in other words, it declares in favor of bi-metallism, which is the true American doctrine.

The Cotton Exchange has established rules under which its members can deal in print cloths. This is a more important matter than appears on the surface. It will create a market for cotton goods and relieve the trade of many embarrassments which it has heretofore labored under. True it opens the door to speculation, but this simply means that outside money will be available to purchase cotton goods when they are low and to sell them freely when too high. This will equalize prices and prevent many of the heavy failures which occur under the present system. It will also make New York in time the great dry-goods centre of the Union. In this connection would it not be worth while for some one of our exchanges to deal in the shares of the eastern manufacturing companies?

The Manhattan-Metropolitan imbroglio has, it seems, been settled. Certain of the parties interested have been caught out in the recent Wall street cyclone and were forced to offer terms. The compromise, as made, has been without the intervention of courts or lawyers. It is high time this matter was adjusted.

The settlement of the elevated roads disagreement will have several important consequences. The Suburban Rapid Transit Company will shortly commence work in the annexed district. The Second avenue line will be utilized for through trains from the Harlem River to South Ferry; the New Haven road will also use it to convey passengers to a new depot shortly to be constructed in the neighborhood of Twenty-third street. The New York & Northern road will also come to the front again as a feeder to the reorganized Manhattan system. The way will also be opened for an understanding with the Brooklyn Bridge trustees and the company now constructing the elevated road across the river to make a running arrangement between the elevated systems of the two cities. It is hard to judge what a man like Jay Gould may do with the combined elevated roads, but potentially for its length and capital it is the most valuable railway property in the world. Its possibilities in the way of profit are simply phenomenal.

The Transfers for Five Months.

The first five months of this year show a larger real estate business than in any previous five months in the history of the city. The table which we give below tells its own story of the remarkable activity in realty during the past spring. The total number of conveyances was 5,974, against 5,047 in the first five months of 1883. The total amount expended was but little short of $100,000,000 ($98,065,206). The total for the same period last year was $78,140,456. It should be remembered, however, that these figures do not tell the whole story, for, in addition to the figures given, there were 1,306 transfers which were nominal, a great number of which were transfers from husband to wife, or presents without consideration from parents to children; but undoubtedly in other cases the amount paid was concealed for a purpose. Still as an offset to this possible augmentation of the actual sum paid for real estate there were many cases where the consideration was overstated, in order to give fictitious values of property for sale. It is, however, safe to estimate that during the first six months of this year nearly $125,000,000 will have been invested in New York realty.

It is also worth noting that the number of transfers in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards is steadily increasing. There were about 200 more this year than last, and $1,752,846 was invested against $1,406,387 for the same period in 1883. Should the Governor sign the new park bill the transfers of property in the annexed district would double and even treble as compared with the number which took place last year.

Turning to the record of mortgages we find the total for the five months was $57,456,806, against $53,202,022 during last year. The mortgages for the month of May are unusually large, owing to the Wall street embarrassments; but the gratifying fact is shown that while the money invested in real estate is largely in excess of last year the relative mortgage indebtedness is far less; that is to say, more people have paid in cash, and have reduced instead of increased the liens upon their property. This is the most healthful symptom of the present real estate situation. But the following is the table, compiled from our records, from which our readers can draw their own deductions:

The record of new building plans filed is also very satisfactory. The figures we give below will greatly surprise not only owners and dealers in realty, but the business public generally. The number of plans filed during May compared with the two previous years have nearly doubled, and the amount which it is proposed to invest in new buildings is $8,688,025, against $4,870,747 in the May of last year, and $3,917,350 in the same month of 1882. The total for the five months for 1884 is $24,415,051, while for the corresponding period last year it was $21,748,369. In 1882 the plans called for an expenditure of $17,826,270.

But here an explanation is in order. It does not follow that because the plans are filed that the houses will therefore be constructed. The increase in business at the Bureau of Buildings is due largely to the fear on the part of owners that the new law under which they will erect houses will be more stringent in its provisions than the law has hitherto been. Hence many have filed plans for projects which may never be undertaken. Among these, it is suspected, are several great apartment houses. A well known operator whose experiment of costly apartment houses in a fashionable locality has not yet been tested, has figured in the plans for the last month as the projector of other gigantic apartment houses. It is believed in real estate that these great enterprises will never be undertaken.

Still the annexed table makes a satisfactory showing, even after making these allowances. Owners of west side property will be particularly pleased with the projects for new buildings west of Eighth avenue. The following is the table:

The Ottendorfer Memorial.

A memorial to the late Mrs. Ottendorfer could not have taken a more useful and more appropriate form than that of a dispensary and a free library for the population of the east side, so largely German.

The buildings in which this generous and happy idea has been embodied are also worth notice on their own account. The architect is, we believe, Mr. Schickel. The two buildings, the dispensary and the library, are entirely separate architecturally, though they adjoin each other and the material of both is the same and the treatment so similar as to suggest that they are parts of the same scheme. They occupy a very good site on the west side of lower Second avenue, and together have about 70 feet of frontage, of which about 50 are given to the dispensary and 20 to the library.

The dispensary is a symmetrical composition, with no pretensions to picturesqueness of outline, in a Germanized Renaissance. It is of deep red brick and terra cotta of the same tint, three stories, crowned by a very heavy cornice over a deep frieze. A rich porch, an elliptic arch between pairs of free standing piers, occupies the centre of the ground floor, flanked on each side by a coupled window of round arches under a segmental relieving arch. This feature is virtually repeated in each of the two upper stories, while over the porch in each story is a group of three round arched openings in slight rectangular projections. The spandrils of the uppermost tiers are very richly decorated. The frieze of the third story bears a pattern of classicised foliage interrupted by five heads detached and emerging from round recesses. Between the detached piers of the porch are inserted similar medallions, one of Æsculapius and one of Hippocrates. The piers themselves are composed of alternate plain and rusticated blocks of terra cotta, they carry a heavy entablature, and the three-centred arch between them has its spandrils filled with a Michelangelesque composition of figures in relief.

The composition is entirely commonplace, though neither extravagant on the one hand nor feeble on the other. The effect of the work proceeds entirely from the decorative detail, without which the building would be merely an inoffensive object. This is of a profusion made possible and invited by the material, which is everywhere terra cotta, and in turn owes most of its effect to the excellence of the material in color and in texture. Besides what has already been enumerated, the mullions which divide the windows at the sides and the spandrils of the arches are lavishly decorated, while the relieving arches are composed of voussoirs of terra cotta decorated in arabesques. The porch is of great richness and there is nothing here in terra cotta, unless it be a like frieze in a stable on the east side up-town, which gives such a sense of lavish ornateness as the frieze and cornice at the top of this building. As in the other case, this feature is too pronounced and excessive in scale, and indeed the method of decoration by protruding human heads as interruptions of a frieze in low relief is foredoomed to failure. Medallions in the same degree of relief with the frieze which they relieve, would not involve this contradiction. In several other instances the estimate of the designer as to the effect his work would have in place has not been accurate. Neither is the decoration anywhere exquisite in design. It is not often even elegant, and, where it most closely approaches elegance, it follows most closely the precedents of the Italian Renaissance, such as the Certosa of Pavia, which by reason of the exuberance of its ornament is a great mine for the designers in terra cotta who do not design too strictly in terra cotta. The mullions in the windows here, to take one example, are not positively inappropriate to terra cotta, but neither they nor any other details have the charm of a positively characteristic treatment of the material, which designers will only attain by ignoring to a great degree the precedents of lithic architecture. To arrive at a school of ornament in baked clay will be a long task, and it will never be performed at all if architects do not even begin it, but select from the repertory of decoration what is mechanically executable in terra cotta, without troubling themselves to inquire what forms would best suit either the structural uses or the decorative capabilities of the material which indeed are almost infinite.

From the designer whose work is just now under review we have evidently no reason to expect any attempt in this direction. His porch, which, after the frieze, is the most striking feature of the design, is unfortunately a very unschooled and uncouth piece of work, with its piers built up in layers, the alternate layers projecting to imitate rusticated blocks, which, if actually employed, would be highly inappropriate. The defects of the design, however, which would be apparent to everybody if the design were executed in stone, are to a great extent carried off by the charm of the material in color, and by the unfailing sharpness and precision with which it is mechanically modelled, so that the general impression of the building is that of richness without overloading. The architect deserves credit, too, for the good judgment which he has shown in confining his work to terra cotta, which always looks poorer when used with cut stone than when it is used alone or with brick of its own color.

The library which adjoins the dispensary is a simple three-story house with a large arch, of the ugly and fashionable three-centred form, in the basement, and with three windows in each of the upper stories. Its merits and its defects are those of the principal building.

The iron railing that protects the area is worthy of notice as a light and graceful piece of design in wrought iron, though it appears to have been executed in cast iron.

New York is to have a new park, rather a small one it is true, but one which will add to the beauty of the west side. It will be located at the junction of the Boulevard with Seventy-second street. In wet weather this locality has heretofore been something of a nuisance but hereafter it will be a picturesque but rather small pleasure ground.

Long tapering cut glass bottles for cologne are in favor, they have attained the most prodigious size and may be obtained at least eighteen inches in length.

Our Prophetic Department.

CITIZEN—A discussion on the political situation ought to be in order. Suppose we ignore candidates and conventions and form an estimate of parties and policies?

SIR ORACLE—Cannot that best be done after the nominations of both parties are made and the platforms constructed?

CITIZEN—In that case what will be the value of our prophetic department or the utterances of an oracle? There are some things we would like to know in advance.

SIR O.—Party platforms amount to less and less every year: there are no vital issues between the parties. The contest is between men and machines, and not between leaders and programmes of public policy. The real issues are not likely to be expressed in the platforms, for these create antagonisms, which the votaries of parties try to avoid. We have no foreign policy as other nations have, and there can, therefore, be no discussion touching matters that affect other nations than our own. Thus our parties and political leaders are excluded from the noblest field for displays of statesmanship. Our politics are petty, because confined to our own borders. When the Panama Canal is built we will be brought face to face with the necessity of enforcing or abandoning the vague and intangible Monroe doctrine. It will then be necessary for us to have a navy, as well as a foreign policy—at least in so far as it relates to affairs on this continent.

CITIZEN—I fail to see what relation all this has to the present conflict between the two parties. Did it enter into the consideration in canvassing the merits of the various candidates in Chicago?

SIR O.—It did very largely. The surprising strength of Blaine was due to the fact that he was the one statesman in either party who showed a disposition to break loose from the traditional foreign policy of the United States. His willingness to assume a guardianship over the South American republics, when he was Garfield's Secretary of State, subjected him to a great deal of criticism from the press, but it seems to have touched a popular chord, and his candidature was pressed because he represented the America of the future, which would endeavor to extend its influence over and profit by its connection with other nations. Blaine had mapped out a splendid programme. He wished to form an alliance of all the countries on this continent, with the United States at their head. It would have given this country prestige and eventually have greatly extended its trade. Up to this time the commerce of Central and South America has been monopolized by European nations, more particularly by Great Britain. We are excluded not only by our own tariff laws, but because of our lack of a steam marine and a navy. Our citizens in those countries are in a contemptible position. To be protected they must claim to be British subjects. Blaine was endorsed by the Pacific Coast delegates because it was known that were he President he would have insisted upon building some ships of war to protect our now defenceless coast, and he would foster commerce on the Pacific Ocean.

CITIZEN—What other consideration is entering into the canvass which the politicians proper are trying to ignore?

SIR O.—The tariff question, of course. I venture to say that the Republican party to day contains more tariff reformers than in any previous period of its history. The recent converts from protectionism can be found in all parts of the country, but more particularly in New York and New England, and that, too, in business circles which were formerly favorable to the highest kind of tariff. It is notorious that Theodore Roosevelt and the advanced wing of the Young Republicans are at heart out and out free-traders. If the Democrats are wise enough to make the issue in their platform and nominate an unequivocal revenue reformer, like Carlisle or Morrison, they will play sad havoc with the Republicans in some of their eastern strongholds.

CITIZEN—But will not the Democrats nominate Tilden?

SIR O.—It certainly looks so just now, and his candidature would confessedly be an avoidance of the tariff issue, which it seems to me is the strongest card the opposition can play.

CITIZEN—You do not think, then, the Democratic party can win on its merits as an organization?

SIR O.—Neither of the two parties has any merit. The Republican party is corrupt as an organization and the Democratic party is moribund. The palsied octogenarian who is the hope of the latter is a very proper candidate for it to rally under. He represents a tradition, not a policy. But, as I have said, the parties wish to evade vital issues in their platforms, but these exist none the less.

CITIZEN—If we cannot find the vital questions of the day stated explicitly in the party platforms, can you not explain them?

SIR O.—It is events, the currents and counter-currents of contemporary history, which create vital issues. Still there are some which are constantly pressing for solution. First in business importance is the great monetary contest—a triangular fight—the one for gold as the sole unit of value, the other for bi-metallism or the double standard, and the third the greenback issue, made a vital one by the recent decision of the Supreme Court. The solution of this money basis question is one of the pressing needs of the age, but it will be ignored, dodged or equivocated by the politicians. Then there is the tariff reform issue, which is of supreme importance. On this the Republicans will take their own ground, and the Democrats will not dare take the right. The improvement of our waterways and harbors is urgently demanded by every material interest in the country, but it will not be mentioned in the platforms, and is sure to be denounced by the press of both organizations. The government should assume higher functions, such as control or at least superintendence over the railways and telegraphs. But the traditions of the Democratic party are consistently against this tendency, which is noticeable in all countries, and which is really due to the use of electricity and steam in facilitating travel and the transmission of news. Now instead of explicit declarations upon these larger matters, the platforms will be made up of rubbish about the glorious history of one party as compared with the other, vague promises of administrative reform and some moral rot about the evils of Mormonism. In fact, the interests of the nation are so great and complex that party platforms are becoming vaguer year by year for fear of exciting antagonisms. The purpose is to sink differences instead of expressing them.

CITIZEN—A truce to politics. How about business?

SIR O.—I look for great crops this year, and if that hope is not disappointed I anticipate a very fair revival of business from August onward. The country is all right. Private persons are not in debt and our machinery for production is in splendid condition. There will be no boom, but trade will be fair, provided no accident occurs to the corn crop. I look for cheap wheat between now and August, but a very handsome rise in the fall and winter, due to the disappointment in the supplies from Eastern Europe and India. Corn will rule high until November, but unless luck is greatly against the farmers, I look for the greatest corn crop this year that has ever been grown—2,000,000,000 bushels at least. If this expectation should be realized and we have 500,000,000 bushels of wheat and 7,000,000 bales of cotton I look for reasonably good times between the August of this year and the August of next year.

Prospects for Building this Year.

"What is the outlook for building during the rest of this year?" asked the writer of Mr. Thomas Graham, of the firm of Charles Graham & Sons.

"I am disposed to take a bearish view of the situation. I do not think that high-priced houses will be in demand for some time to come. Builders tell me that the recent bank and Wall street troubles put a stop to many of the sales that were being made."

"How do you account, Mr. Graham, for the large number of building plans filed lately? They show no diminution but rather an increase."

"I judge," was the reply, "that there will be a good many more plans than buildings. You see the new building law is before the Governor for his signature. Not knowing its provisions and to be on the safe side every one who had a scheme on foot made an application to the Building Bureau; and hence the large number of plans, many of which I believe will never be carried out. Brick will, I think, be very much cheaper before the end of the year, for the brickmakers will now crowd their work, expecting a demand for brick which will not come. I look for cheaper brick, cheaper building material and cheaper labor from this time forth. Of course I may be biased in my judgment from the fact that I am a builder myself. We do not feel like entering upon any new enterprises on our own account. During the coming fall there will be some three thousand new suites of apartments to come upon the market on this island. The rents demanded will be anywhere between six hundred to four thousand dollars. When the usual rents are asked this fall for handsome private residences the would-be tenant will be apt to inquire what sums will be asked for those very choice apartments. The latter will, I think, be rented finally for far lower figures than will at first be asked. Eventually they will all be rented at a price, but the tenants will, I think, have the advantage of the bargain when it is finally made."

"Do you think, Mr. Graham, that building has been overdone in New York?"

"The city continues to grow, but I should not want myself to build either costly private dwellings, a great apartment house or an expensive office building. I believe the immediate demand for all of these is now being more than met by the buildings already constructed or nearly finished. There will eventually be a demand for all these structures and others besides, but the liquidation going on in all kinds of business will make its appearance further along in a kind of dry rot in real estate values."

"What kind of house do you think there is money in?"

"Plain brick structures," was the reply, "with plenty of light and air, and having good walls and solid building, but with inexpensive interiors. There has been too much hardwood and fancy adornments in some of the new structures. In a certain series of great apartment houses, the entrances alone, I am given to understand, cost $7,000 each. This is all very fine for those who can afford it, but Wall street is not turning out as many millionaires as it did three years ago. True there are some rich men on the look-out for costly houses, but many of them come from other parts of the country. There are always people who have made money elsewhere and who come to reside in New York. But the home demand for fancy high-priced property is just now down to zero. But bear in mind that while I am bearish on the immediate future, I am hopeful about the country. These times are not like 1873. People are not in debt, our industrial machinery is in good order, and all we need is abundant crops and some foreign demand to make the nation as prosperous as ever."

Home Decorative Notes.

—Decorative art is no child's play; a revolution backward in point of time is working in house decoration; Eastlake and early English have each had their day, and we are now turning to the Renaissance for fresh inspiration; the art energy which has manifested itself in the last decade began as a fashion, but seems likely to survive as a permanent influence in the future; if we possess any individuality it is more particularly shown in our manner of furnishing and decorating the drawing-room, we may not care to furnish in any particular style or period, but being gifted with taste and enlarged views see something to admire in all the different periods, and so furnish with bits which happen to take our fancy; great care and taste is required so that the general effect is not spoiled by admitting something which is incongruous.

—Stained glass windows and jewelled doors are in the handsomest vestibules, and the floor, walls and ceilings are of mosaics in Italian designs.

—Antique brass ornaments are much used for decorating drawing rooms.

—Most exquisite dessert plates of royal Worcester painted by Pillsbury sell for $375 a dozen, each plate has a rose design different to the others, those however painted by the most celebrated French artists sell for $500 a dozen. The kettle drum and tea sets of cups and saucers corresponding in richness but varied in design that go with these fruit plates cost from $50 to $100 a dozen.

—Velveteen makes a good wall hanging.

—Exquisitely delicate toilet sets are made of pineapple gauze, and embroidered with disks in various colors of French etching silk.

—Exquisite little finger-bowl doilies are of fine crepe cloth and damask, outlined with various designs of fruit, flowers and foliage in colored etching silks; there are pretty tea-cups of Kioto ware, tea-pots, saucers, stitched, outlined and cross-stitched as borders for tea cloths, and for luncheons are pretty maids, one worked in each corner, with a tray of wine glasses or coffee cups in red and blue.

—The most elegant buffets are of oak in the Queen Anne style.

—A pretty hand-screen may be made by embroidering in silks and gold thread over the pattern printed on a Japanese paper fan, line with cardinal blue or gold silk, and edge with a narrow gold cord.

—Curtains of all materials are suspended by-rings on rods, and these rods are now very small, cornices are abandoned and lambrequins are seldom used, but there are scarf draperies thrown in irregular festoons across the window that are far more graceful than any lambrequin.

—A new kink in room decoration is a small step ladder, with the poles and steps covered with cardinal plush, and at the top a hanging of the same material or deep fringe, from between the steps and brace suspend a bucket containing flowers and plants; on the steps vases, pictures and bric-a-brac are placed.

—A table or mantel-piece border of light peacock plush is very tasteful with a tracery of large white marguerites and dark leaves.

—Silk shades of various colors and those formed of artificial roses, carnation pinks and ox-eyed daisies are extremely elegant and are now largely used on lamps.

—The hanging kettles of silver, copper or hammered brass are in favor.

—Note-books, blotting cases and music rolls are made very ornamental by covering with satin or plush, and decorating with the well-known spider and fly design, the web in silver tracing, and the insects in gray and brownish silks.

—An exquisite covering for a gilt foot stool is of pink shaded plush and embroidered with a bunch of hops in velours, finished off where the covering is tacked on the stool with a heavy silk fringe containing colors corresponding to the silk used in embroidering.

—Lincrusta Walton forms a very rich covering for a dining-room screen.

—A very pretty mural decoration is a palm-leaf fan, with a large yellow satin bow tied about the handle; fasten the loops at either side of the fan, which will then form a sort of pocket, and in this place about one dozen large red artificial tulips.

—Butterflies, birds and wild flowers are embroidered in outline stitch in Bolting cloth for bed-spreads and shams.

—A very rich table-cover has the centre of embossed peacock-blue plush, with the yellow rose design in relief. The border consists of peacock-blue felt, about 6 inches wide, embroidered with the star crackle pattern in strictly conventional coloring; at each corner is inserted a half-square of the plush. The edge is finished with plush crescents—all colors.

—Tinted fluted baskets, with high handles, are now the most tasteful flower-holders; the fluted parts are fitted for clusters. A yellow basket, heaped with Marechal Niel roses and one section of crimson King carnations, is beautiful. "Wild-flower baskets" are ravishing, because there is a charming selection to fill—with honeysuckle and columbine for the handle drapery.

—Most exquisite importations of table linen are from the manufacturers of France, Germany, England and Ireland, greatly surpassing all previous efforts. There is a decided departure from the traditional shamrock, rose, thistle, dots and star patterns, accompanying these beautiful damasks are corresponding sets of doilies, very large napkins, tray cloths and smaller napkins; some of the designs are geometrical, or of the elaborate traceries of the Renaissance period, in scrolls, fleur de lis and trefoil, for white, gray or ecru colored linen, such as scarfs, chair-covers, serviettes, towels and buffet scarfs there are endless designs for decoration. McGibbon & Co., of Broadway and Twenty-first street, offer a most elegant selection of linen goods.

Costly Buildings Projected.

Among the most notable of the recent plans for new and costly buildings filed at the Building Bureau are the following:

On Nos. 24, 26 and 28 Broadway there will be constructed a nine-story building running through to New street, which is estimated to cost $450,000. In architectural appearances this structure will compare with any in the city.

On Nos. 71 and 73 Wall street the Eagle Fire Ins. Co. will erect a seven and eight-story building which is to cost $200,000.

The Trinity Church Corporation has filed plans to erect a seven-story warehouse in Vestry street, north side, 125 east Greenwich street and running through to Desbrosses street, to cost $120,000.

At No. 210 Fifth avenue, running through to 1130 Broadway, Mrs. G. R. Hoffman is to erect an eight-story store and flat costing $98,000.

The Standard Theatre on Broadway is to be rebuilt at a cost of $80,000. This is owned by the Shepard estate.

J. F. Navarro has had official plans endorsed for erecting four twelve-story flats on Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth streets, 125 feet west of Sixth avenue. No figures are given, and it is not believed in real estate circles that the work will ever be commenced.

W. J. Gessner proposes to spend $100,000 in erecting a five-story flat on the northwest corner of Fourth avenue and Eighty-seventh street.

Daniel Hennessy is to erect ten four-story dwellings on the southeast corner of Fourth avenue and Seventy-third street, to cost $20,000 each.

J. F. Navarro has also filed plans to build two twelve-story apartment houses on the northwest corner of Eighty-sixth street and Madison avenue. The same gentleman has also filed plans to erect four twelve-story flats on the Eighth avenue front, between Eighty-first and Eighty-second streets, to cost $1,000,000. But Mr. Navarro will not probably commence any of his new gigantic building enterprises until he has netted a handsome profit on his Fifty-ninth street apartment palaces, which are now coming upon the market.

There are other great building enterprises projected, such as the one on lower Broadway, adjoining the Field building, but the above are among those actually filed.

Work has been commenced on the new extension to the Grand Central Depot. The street with tracks to the east of the depot will remain as it is for freight trains and express wagons, but the annex proper will take in the buildings on the east side now occupied by an engine house, market and stores. The annex will be 80 feet wide and 700 feet in length, that is, it will have the same length as the main depot. It will take up all the ground from Forty-second to Forty-fifth street. East of this annex and of the same length, will be an entirely new street 50 feet in width. There will be a covered sidewalk on the west side of the street up to which hacks and omnibuses will drive to receive or deposit passengers. There will of course be numerous entrances on the east side of the annex, which last will be monopolized by the incoming trains as well as by the outgoing local trains. This new street will be a great accommodation to the traveling public as, when completed, it will be no longer necessary to walk the whole length of the depot to get a conveyance for hotel or home. The elevated station will in the new improvement receive and deposit passengers inside the depot. The engine room will be removed to the other side of the Harlem. This change will effect Forty-fifth street also; the side passenger ways over the bridge will be removed, and steps on either side will replace the present slopes. The property-holders in the immediate neighborhood are heartily in favor of these new improvements. The New Haven Road has signed a new agreement with the Central and will have the use of the new annex. The improvement is in every way a valuable one, not only for the railway company, but for the traveling public as well as the owners of real estate in the central zone of the city.

It is reported upon good authority that the Equitable Life Assurance Society have offered to purchase the site of the Metropolitan Bank from the officers of the latter. The sum proposed is $750,000, which, it is said, has been declined. The bank is on the northeast corner of Pine street and Broadway, and has a front upon the latter of 43.10 feet x 101.9 on Pine street. Should this trade be finally affected the Equitable Life will own the entire block, with the exception of the front on Nassau street, about 85 feet in depth. It is believed to be the desire of the Equitable Life to cover the block with annexes similar to their main building. Should they succeed in doing so they will possess the largest and most costly business block in the world. It is believed the Metropolitan Bank is willing to sell its building for a price. A building on Broadway is a better asset than a picture gallery.

It is understood that the Astor estate and the trustees representing the Bloomingdale Insane Asylum are among the list of owners of realty who favor the new street railroad on the Boulevard and Broadway down to Forty-second street, running through the latter street, from river to river. If no unforeseen difficulties intervene this very necessary street road will be completed by January 1, 1886.

The Bruff elevated road in Brooklyn, which runs from the bridge and connects with the Coney Island, Rockaway & Long Island system of roads, will be completed by the 1st of January next. It will be ten miles in length, of which three are on the surface. It is safe to predict that by next summer a passenger can take an elevated car in Brooklyn and ride without change to any station on the elevated roads of New York.

"Emilie Charlotte Langtry, of the Island of Jersey," better known to Americans as Mrs. Langtry, has invested $6,500 more of her earnings in first mortgages on New York city real estate. The sum is payable in 1885, with interest at 6 per cent. Mrs. Langtry's total investment in first mortgages on city realty now amounts to $97,500.—Exchange.

The facts in the above item show that the Jersey Lily has a very level head as well as a charming personal appearance. She has had good advice and has taken advantage of it.

[From our own Correspondent]

ALBANY, June 5.

The articles of association incorporating another street railroad to run on lower Broadway, below Fourteenth street, have been officially filed. It will be remembered that the parties connected with the National Cable Company filed their articles for a company to construct a road on lower Broadway immediately after the Governor signed the general street railroad bill. Under their articles they propose to charge five cent fare from the Battery to Fourteenth street. They are at work obtaining the assent of the property holders and are now giving out that it is their intention to ultimately build their road the whole length of Broadway. It is difficult to see how they can do that under the general street railroad bill, for that street is occupied by a road from Fifteenth to Forty-fourth street, and the law prohibits any new road running over the lines of a road already in operation over 1,000 feet. This would seem to confine the project of the Cable Company to lower Broadway, as set forth in the articles of association filed, and shut them out above Fifteenth to Forty-fourth street.

The second company already alluded to, which has filed its articles and organized by electing James M. Richmond as president, appears to be a tender to, or rather an extension of, the road now operated on Broadway between Forty-fourth and Fifteenth streets down Broadway and making a new route for that road. The incorporators in this company embrace the officers and leading men who own the present Broadway line. Their purpose is to construct a surface road commencing at the Battery, thence along Broadway to connect with the present road on Broadway at Fifteenth street, making that the main line of the present Broadway road, and to carry passengers from the Battery to Fifty-ninth street for one fare of five cents. The plan is to take most of their cars off from the present line through Wooster street and West Broadway, and through Church and Greene streets, or running cars there at longer intervals, but maintaining the tracks in these streets to be used by all their cars when there is a parade on Broadway, or a blockade by fires, or other causes. This will relieve Church street from the jam during the busy hours of the day, when merchants on that street are shipping their goods, by using Broadway for the lower end of the route. It also gives an advantage to those riding on the road of only five cents to the Park instead of five cents fare to Fourteenth street, as will be necessary on the road contemplated by the parties connected with the cable company. They have commenced serving their notices on the abutting property holders for their application to the Supreme Court for the appointment of commissioners to decide whether they shall or shall not have the right to construct the extension on lower Broadway, to be operated as part of the present Broadway road. It will take time to determine that point.

The parties who commenced several years ago to construct a surface railroad through Forty-second street, and were stopped by an injunction, have gone to work and obtained the assent of a majority of property holders on that street for its completion, and as soon as the approval of the Common Council is obtained, they will go on with the construction of that much needed road under the new law. In no place in the city is a road so much needed as there. That company has a charter for a road from Forty-second street up Tenth avenue to Manhattanville, granted before the restriction was placed on the construction of street railroads by an amendment in the constitution. They have delayed the construction of that portion of the route which they had the right to build at any time with the purpose of having the route changed from Tenth avenue to the Broadway Boulevard. They are procuring the assent of the property holders along the Broadway Boulevard to that change of their route, and intend to commence the construction of that portion as soon as the legal right to the change is obtained.

The construction of new street railroads is thus to be an important feature in the improvements in New York for the next year or two. Many companies will be organized under the new law, which will never construct their roads, and squabbles will take place between companies for the same streets, especially on lower Broadway and Forty-second street.

The Governor has at last reached the New York bills left on his hands when the Legislature adjourned, and has signed several. Among the number is the bill naming a commission, of which Felix Adler is one, to investigate the tenement houses in New York and report to the next Legislature the facts, and suggest such legislation as the commission may deem best for their improved condition, so as to affect a reform in tenement house construction.

He has also signed the bill to establish a park out of the gore on the Broadway Boulevard, between Seventy-second and Seventy-third streets; also the bill authorizing the Board of Street Openings and Improvement to change the grades of the streets between Fifty-ninth and One Hundred and Twenty-third streets, east of Ninth avenue, as are found necessary to make them conform with the grade of Eighth avenue up to One Hundred and Tenth street, and to the grades of Eighth and Seventh avenues, from One Hundred and Tenth to One Hundred and Twenty-third street. This is to make their grades permanent before the streets are built upon. The provisions of the bill do not require a change of the grade of all the streets in that section, only those that are not uniform with the Eighth avenue grades.

The bill amending the act for the construction of a dock between Castle Garden and Pier 1, North River, for the Police Department, has also been approved; also the act for an iron foot bridge across the railroad tracks on Fourth avenue at Ninety-eighth street, one-half of the cost to be paid by the Harlem Railroad.

The act making an appropriation for the enlargement of the Metropolitan Museum of Art at the expense of $350,000 has been signed, also the bill giving abutting property owners on the old parade ground established on the flats on the upper end of Manhattan Island and then abandoned a standing in court for the settlement of their claims.

The Governor has also approved the bill amending section 144 of the consolidation act relative to the issue of bonds for street improvements. This is the section which authorizes the issue of bonds for payment for the work of grading and paving streets in anticipation of the payment of assessments by abutting property holders. The amendment relates to the payment to the contractor who does the work, and provides that no interest shall be charged on the monthly or intermediate payment to contractors while the work is in progress, and that no more than 20 per cent. shall be reserved from the amount or value of the work, certified from time to time to the Comptroller by the proper officer, to have been done by the contractor, and such 80 per cent. shall be paid to the contractor on or before the expiration of thirty days from the completion and acceptance of the work as completed.

He has also signed the bill relative to the change of the lines of Mott and Trinity avenues in the Twenty-third Ward. It requires the Department of Parks to revise the map already on file relative to those avenues and prepare a new one as far as it relates thereto, which shall show Mott avenue 60 feet wide at its junction with One Hundred and Forty-ninth street and 50 feet at One Hundred and Forty-sixth street, and the lines of Mott avenue between these points to be straight instead of varying in width. The lines of Trinity avenue, sometimes known as Delmonico avenue, to be also straightened.

The bill for additional school accommodations has likewise been signed. This act authorized the Comptroller, upon the application of the Board of Education and with the approval of a majority of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, to issue bonds during the years 1884, 1885 and 1886 not to exceed $2,000,000 in all, to run for a term of years, not to exceed twenty, and at 3 per cent. interest. The bonds or proceeds thereof are to be used for the purchase of sites for school buildings and for the erection of school houses thereon, and fitting up and furnishing the same. This brings the city into the purchasing market for lots on which to erect buildings, but confines the city to three years in making the purchases.

The Governor has signed the bill amending the general manufacturing law, so as to enable the organization of companies to bore for water and make arrangements with the authorities of cities to furnish it to them for fire and other purposes, through the medium of driven wells. This makes two measures passed this year for furnishing an additional supply of water. The first section of this act to extend the manufacturing and mining law specifies that corporations may be formed under it, for the purpose of boring, sinking, digging for, accumulating, conducting by underground pipes, conduits and reservoirs, and furnishing water to be used for power and fire purposes. The fourth section sets forth that any corporation formed under the act may contract with any city, town or village in which it may be located to furnish water for the above purposes; but any contract that may be made under the authority so conferred between the city of New York and such corporation shall be made only by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund of said city, upon such terms and conditions as the said commissioners shall deem for the best interests of the city. And the Comptroller is authorized to issue revenue bonds of the city in sufficient amounts to raise such sums as the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund shall certify to be necessary to execute any contract made in behalf of the city under authority conferred in the act.

This bill, as well as the act heretofore noticed in reference to the introduction of salt water for fire and sanitary purposes, was passed for New York. Both were petitioned for by merchants and intended to secure water for fire purposes sooner than can be obtained by the new Croton aqueduct, and to make it a government affair. The parties behind this state that they can, by means of driven wells, get water in the dry-goods district, to be used there and in other sections to furnish a supply for that locality. Nearly all of the insurance underwriters petitioned for this measure, and set forth that plenty of water can be obtained by sinking wells in the section surrounding Canal street.

It appears that a defect has been discovered in the bill heretofore alluded to for the introduction of salt or river water for fire and sanitary purposes, in that it does not provide for the issue of bonds to carry out the work by companies organized under it. The parties behind that project of salt water towers and separate systems of pipes therefore propose to organize their company under the last bill extending the manufacturing law, as well as under the other, thus taking the benefit of the powers of both, applying both measures in that way to the salt water project. It will be for the city authorities to say which plan they will accept, if either. There is no question but that a supply can be obtained from either before the new Croton aqueduct can be constructed; besides, it can be utilized for all time, and save the drain for fire and sanitary purposes on the Croton system in the future.

The Governor has also signed the bill amending section 2234 of the code of civil procedure, relative to dispossessing parties on real property. As signed the section reads as follows:

"Application for removal of a person from real property, as prescribed in this title, may be made to the county judge or special county judge of the county, or the justice of the peace of the city or town, or the mayor or recorder of the city wherein the real property, or a portion thereof, is situated. Application may also be made, if the property or a portion thereof be situated in the city of New York, to the district court of the district within which the property or a portion thereof is situated; or if the justice of such court be for any reason disqualified, to the district court of an adjoining district; if in the city of Brooklyn, to a police justice of that city; if in the city of Albany or the city of Troy, to a justice of the justice's court of that city; if in the city of Yonkers, to the city judge of that city; if in the cities of Rochester or Buffalo, to a judge of the municipal court of that city. Where the property is situated in an incorporated village, the boundaries of which embrace portions of two or more towns, application may be made to a justice of the peace of either town, who keeps an office in the village."

Governor Cleveland has not, up to this writing, examined the new building law, or read it. Inasmuch as there is no opposition to it there appears to be no doubt but that he will sign it, unless on examination he finds some unexpected snag in it, or glaring defect in its phraseology, which is not probable.

He is hanging fire on the bill for a system of parks north of the Harlem River, reported by the Marsh commission. An objection was raised that the bill was a legislative establishment of parks, instead of by the local authorities or home rule. This is hardly a tenable objection, for the reason that the Legislature upon the petition of the local authorities passed a bill authorizing the appointment of a commission to select lands for parks in that section, and report what lands should be taken for that purpose. Under that act the Mayor appointed several well-known citizens of the city as commissioners, and the Aldermen confirmed the appointments. It was a local commission appointed by local authorities. That commission unanimously recommended the several sites for parks enumerated in the bill, and the Legislature has passed a law providing for the acquiring of the title of the lands, so recommended by the city. All that is now required is for the Governor to approve the bill. At this point Mayor Edson, who appointed the commission and originally advocated and signed a pamphlet recommending the immediate taking of the same lands for parks, now comes out in opposition to the whole plan, and is urging the Governor not to sign the bill. In this respect he stands almost alone, but from the fact that he is the Mayor, has caused the Governor to hesitate and make it doubtful if he signs the bill. It is a case where one man who holds the position of Mayor, to which no one believes he can again be elected to, against the universal wish of the citizens. Letters have been sent to the Governor by most of the large taxpayers, including the Astors, O. B. Potter, Belmont, Claflin and others, and petitions signed by most of the merchants and bankers, by the leading doctors presenting the sanitary benefits of those parks, by the artists and the business men to the number of thousands, asking the Governor to approve the bill. It is the Mayor almost alone against all of them. The head centres of the trades' unions have voluntarily offered to adopt resolutions endorsing the measure, and requesting the Governor's approval. They represent about 40,000 working men in the city and about one-fourth of the city's population with their families. There has been no bill passed in late years for which the sentiment is so strong and universal as for this among all classes, while all the opposition comes from one man, who happens to be Mayor, and that appears to be so strong with the Governer that he hesitates about signing it. It is becoming a question whether the Governor will act in accord with the wishes of the taxpayers, merchants, business men, doctors and the mechanics of the city and sign the bill, or follow the wishes of the Mayor against all these, and refuse to sign it. That seems to be the issue on which the fate of the plan for new parks for the city now hangs fire in the executive chamber. If it fails, it will be because Mayor Edson's wishes are gratified instead of the public generally.

There are several other bills yet unveteed by the Governor in reference to this city, including that for an exterior street on the East River, the Gansevoort Market enlargement bill, that for the improvement of the water front, from Eighty-sixth street on East River and to Third avenue on Harlem River, and the bill to compel telegraph companies to place their wires underground and remove the unsightly poles which disfigure the streets and obstruct the sidewalks. What he will do with those measures is a question of doubt, but will have to determine before the close of next week. The act conferring additional powers on the Board of Health relative to drainage and plumbing, is still unsigned.

Real Estate Department.

The market has been a very quiet one during the past week. There was a large attendance on Wednesday of persons who wished to bid on the Deane properties, and there was much disapproval at the postponement of the sale at the last moment. Everyone believes that the bidding would have been spirited and the prices satisfactory.

The Andrews sale of down-town property was a satisfactory one. Some of the parcels were bid in by the estate, while the houses sold will net about 8 per cent. to purchasers.

A remarkable feature of the market is the eagerness of a certain class of investors to buy Seventh and Tenth Ward tenement property. For years this east side realty has been under a cloud, and while assessed values were rising elsewhere they were stationary east of the Bowery. But now all is changed. The Seventh and Tenth Ward property sold at auction last Thursday brought relatively very high prices. The demand for this kind of realty comes very largely from Jewish investors, who have a keen sense of what is cheap and profitable.

The sale of property at Orienta Point was satisfactory to the estate, but the figures will seem low in the not distant future. There is a good deal of water front around New York, but the demand for available sites for villas and hotels on sea and sound is increasing yearly. There will be a corner on this kind of property before the close of the century.

Private sales were not numerous during the week. Holders are reluctant to sell as they do not know what to do with their money, while bidders think the prices asked are too high.

At the Exchange Salesroom on Saturday the foreclosure sales of tenements on Ninetieth street and dwellings on the corner of Sixty-second street and Madison avenue were adjourned. On Monday about thirty-eight acres at Orienta Point, on the Sound, Mamaroneck, were sold for $19,885 to T. W. Sherman, Stanley Greacen, J. M. Constable and others, and the brown stone front dwelling, No. 398 Fifth avenue, and the stable, No. 3 West Thirty-sixth street, belonging to the estate of Valentine G. Hall, were offered; the former was knocked down for $133,500, and the latter withdrawn. On Tuesday a partition sale of twelve parcels of store property on William, Spruce, Gold and Cliff streets was held and good prices obtained. Several lots on East Seventy-sixth street were also sold, and the sale of the estate of John H. Deane was postponed to June 12th and 13th. On Wednesday improved property on Third avenue, East Seventy-fifth, Eighty-ninth and One Hundred and Thirteenth streets was sold, and six lots on One Hundred and Thirty-seventh and One Hundred and Forty-first streets and St. Nicholas avenues belonging to the Pentz estate were sold. It seems the purchaser at the sale last week failed to comply with the terms of sale. The lots were therefore put up again; those on One Hundred and Thirty-seventh street and St. Nicholas avenue brought the same price as last week, while the One Hundred and Forty-first street lots brought $1,425 more than last week. As the purchaser at the first sale would have been held for any deficiency on the resale, he claims the advance obtained on the One Hundred and Forty-first street lots. The sale of lots on Eleventh avenue and One Hundred and Fourteenth street was adjourned. On Thursday several parcels in the Seventh and Tenth Wards were sold at fancy prices. A five-story store with lot, only 25.3x25, on the corner of Canal and Forsyth streets, brought $15,100. The four-story flat, No. 1232 Third avenue, which rents for $1,864, was sold for $22,100, and the dwelling, No. 37 East Twenty-third street, for $49,000. The foreclosure sale of flats on West Fifty-ninth street was adjourned.

On Friday the four-story stone front dwelling No. 10 West Fifty-seventh street, was struck down for $83,000. This house was taken in trade October last for $113,000. Houses on One Hundred and Fifth street, Lexington and Pleasant avenues sold under foreclosure, and lots on Bromer and Claremont avenues were also sold.

The transfers of the past, compared with the corresponding week of last year, are greatly to the advantage of the former, although Decoration Day was not included in 1883; the transfers of last week were 124 more, while the consideration was $7,888,854 against $4,384,643 last year. What is still more remarkable the mortgage indebtedness created is less by $400,000 than last year, which shows that people are paying cash for property and discharging old liens. But here is the table:

On Tuesday, June 10, James L. Wells will preside at an executor's sale to close the estate of George S. Goble. This property includes Sibbern's Club House on Central avenue. Four cottages, 133 lots, houses and stables in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards will be disposed of at this sale. This is a fine chance to secure some desirable property in a region where real estate is certain to become very active within a few years.

John F. B. Smyth will sell on Tuesday, June 10, the house No. 137 East Broadway. This is in a location which has been in great demand for the past six months.

The sale of the John H. Deane estate has been postponed to June 12 and 13. Richard V. Harnett will be the auctioneer.

On Tuesday, June 17th, James L. Wells will sell two hundred and sixty lots in the Twenty-third Ward, being portions of the recently partitioned Fox estate. This property is located in the direct line of the rapid transit route, and is sure to augment in value within a few years. The lots are on leading thoroughfares, near steam and horse cars, close by the proposed parks, and have stores, schools, churches and all city conveniences, as well as postal, telegraph, fire and police service at hand. Investors will do well to inspect this property.

Gossip of the Week.

Sixteen lots, comprising the entire block bounded by Boulevard, Eleventh avenue, Eighty-first and Eighty-second streets, except four lots on the southeast corner of Eleventh avenue and Eighty-second street, have been purchased by George Ehret for about $120,000. We hear that L. J. & I. Phillips are the brokers.

T. B. Gilford has sold the four-story and basement brick and stone residence on the east side of Lexington avenue, 61.3 north of Forty-fifth street, 40x75x100.5, to John Sniffen, for $70,000. Broker, W. P. Seymour.

Out Among the Builders.

An extension to the Buckingham Hotel is under consideration, in addition to the annex now building. It will have a frontage of 34 feet on Fifth avenue and 123 feet on East Forty-ninth street. It is proposed to carry this part up eight stories above the basement, and to make it absolutely fire-proof. Large elegant suites will be provided for permanent guests, and the structure will, when finished, be one of the finest buildings on Fifth avenue. It will connect with the present Buckingham Hotel, and guests will be provided for in the dining-room, which will be enlarged. The cost of this building including the annex in course of erection will be about $500,000. Richard C. Jones is the architect, and Charles Graham & Sons are the builders. George Kemp is the owner.

In our issue of March 1 last we reported the proposed building of a large office structure at Nos. 5, 7, 9 and 11 Broadway, running through to Greenwich street, and negotiations have for some time been in progress for the purpose of carrying out this plan. A syndicate of New York and Boston capitalists have organized under the title of the Broadway and Battery Building Company, with a capital of $1,000,000, and we are authoritatively informed that the company will shortly commence the erection on the above site of a first-class office building, eight to ten stories in height, and of a thoroughly fire-proof character. The property covers a frontage of 162.4 feet on Broadway, and has a depth of 200 feet on one side, 170.8 on the other, and 151.10 on Greenwich street, the whole occupying about twelve full lots. This is the same improvement to which reference was made in this column last week, but the plans have not yet been decided upon. The president of the company is Mr. Frederick J. Stone; Mr. Walston H. Brown is the vice-president and Mr. Fred. A. Brown the treasurer. The new structure will adjoin the Field building, and will add to the imposing appearance of Bowling Green.

The Vendome Hotel, on the southeast corner of Broadway and Forty-first street, is about to receive an addition in the shape of a seven-story building, the front to be of Philadelphia brick, with terra cotta and brown stone trimmings, and the dimension 25x103. The first floor will be arranged as a cafe, and contain the offices of the hotel. The extension will be located at No. 1448 Broadway, and the main entrance will be transferred to the new structure, which will communicate with the present hotel. The plans are being prepared by architect Augustus Hatfield. The cost to the owner, Mr. L. L. Todd, is estimated at about $65,000. The Hotel Vendome, it appears, has been very successful.

Stearns & Co. will erect an elegant show room, 40x40, at their silk factory on Forty-second street, between Second and Third avenues, and will lay down machinery for the manufacture of that material. The front will be of brick and Portland stone. Mr. Glass has not yet determined whether it will be five or six stories high, if the latter the house will be furnished with a passenger elevator and heated by steam. The work of tearing down the old buildings on this site was commenced yesterday.

Work is to be commenced without delay on a new pavilion for the Home for Incurables at Fordham. It will be a three-story brick building, 58x80, with a mansard roof, and will cost $30,000. The architect is John Rogers.

New Publication.

A pamplet entitled "Storage and Transportation in the Port of New York" (G. P. Putnam's Sons), is one of the latest contributions to economic discussion. It was prepared by Mr. Wm. Nelson Black, and it is a synopsis and condensation of the main arguments and facts already familiar to readers of this journal. But it contains, also, much additional information of a statistical character touching the extent and growth of commerce in the port, and the cost of the system of terminal transportation and storage at present maintained. The work revels in figures, indeed; and they are sometimes of such startling magnitude that, without following the author's process in collecting facts, it seems almost dangerous to restate them in a brief book notice. Who, for instance, would credit the bare assertion that we are wasting, in perfectly useless labor around the harbor of New York, the interest at 4 per cent. on a capital of about $700,000,000? But the methods of research pursued by the author appear to have been very exhaustive; and he makes no assertion without a sufficient entrenchment of items in detail to secure his position. It has been long evident and confessed that there was something very wrong about the terminal machinery of New York; but this is probably the first effort at a close investigation of the subject that has yet been made. We can assure our readers that less than one hour devoted to the task of getting possession of the facts in this little work will result in a very high degree of illumination. Copies may be procured at the office of THE RECORD AND GUIDE.

Lenox Boulevard.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

Noticing in your last week's issue that the change of name of New avenue to Manhattan avenue had been approved, it calls to mind that some time since a resolution was passed changing the name of the Sixth Avenue Boulevard to Lenox Boulevard. What has become of it? There is no doubt much more building of good improvements would take place there if both Sixth and Seventh Avenue Boulevards were known by more attractive names. Many have scruples against living on these fine avenues now in consequence of the disagreeable features of the same below the park. Again many dead trees should be uprooted, and new ones planted, that they may be of a uniform height and size as near as possible. This will one day be the best part of the city for private residences if ordinary care is taken to help it on. Truly yours, your old subscriber,

HOPPER S. MOTT.

Dr. Otto Fullgraff has, during a long series of experiments, discovered a number of valuable instruments and appliances for the treatment of catarrh, consumption, deafness and bronchitis. This gentleman was the founder of the Bond Street Homœopathic Dispensary, and his method of treatment has benefited tens of thousands of poor people. The late William Cullen Bryant was his intimate friend, and had a high opinion of him. Dr. Fullgraff is a specialist of the first water, and his new oxy-calcium laryngo-vaginoscope is one of the most remarkable instruments known to medical science. The doctor is, by the way, one of the oldest members of the Lotos Club.

Special Notices.

Attention is called to the advertisement of Butcher's Boston Polish or hard wax finish. It is very efficacious in its application to floors and for interior wood-work and furniture. Carpenters and others have found it very serviceable. The New York manager of the company is E. D. Stair, No. 9 West Fourteenth street.

The card of Mr. G. F. Werner, cornice maker, appears in another column. He is also a slate and metal roofer, and paints and repairs metal roofs. His shop is at No. 406 East Seventy-seventh street, near First avenue.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—On the market for Common Hards the more encouraging features of last week have not been fully supported, and a slight reaction is shown at the present writing. The variation will favor the buyer 12½ @ 25c. per M., according to quality, the finest stock still keeping at a slight premium as the average proportion in the general supply increases very slowly. Consumption has been very good and without much interruption, but a portion of it met from previous purchases, and the new demand coming upon the market found more than a balance in the offering. Indeed an increase in the supply rather than any decided shrinkage in the inquiry, offered the principal influence under which the shaky tone developed, and simply endorses the former frequent claim that buyers while not hesitating to take as much stock as required by actual consumptive wants, were sure to stop just on that limit, and no attraction of low cost, or fears of an advance, would lead to investment against the future. The proportion of new brick among the receipts is naturally increasing, and indeed has now become rather the largest, but a great many lots of old have also come in, even beyond calculations, and this tends to dissipate any idea of actual scarcity until regular shipments from the current make have become established. Work at nearly all points is now in full swing and has had a first-rate week, with a probability that the product of some of the favorite makers will soon come in to relieve the necessities of the particular buyers, whose principal duty at the moment appears to be to find fault with the goods offered them. The highest attainable rate at the moment is $7.75 for best Haverstraws, with "Up Rivers" rarely exceeding $6.50 and from the latter the range runs down to $5.00 mentioned on Jerseys. The latter grading however is somewhat ambiguous, owing to the wide variety of quality, and some of the best makes will sell about equal to "Up Rivers." Pale Bricks remain under more or less neglect, that Brooklyn "lunch" having a lasting influence and tendency to check sales. It is therefore only under certain extra favorable conditions that they can be used, and the price ranges anywhere from $4.00 on fine stock that buyers may happen to want, down to $2.75 on only fair that holders become anxious to realize upon.

GLASS.—The demand for window glass does not appear to have abated, especially so far as the regular sizes are concerned, and of those there is a scarcity. Holders naturally feel the advantage and are improving it to the full extent, with extreme valuations made and insisted upon quite firmly in meeting all classes of customers. A great deal of foreign stock has gone West of late to make good the deficiency in supply of domestic.

HARDWARE.—Country trade is somewhat irregular, and buyers appear to be figuring closer to early actual wants. Still of standard goods the distribution is fair, and occasionally a pretty large order comes in. Local demand in the meantime improves, if anything, and a pretty good line of builders' hardware is being distributed for consumption, with the chances favorable for an increase rather than any immediate diminution. Prices appear to be unchanged on most grades, but there is said to be occasional shading to secure desirable customers.

LATH.—Not much decided change can be noted in the general conditions of the market up to the present writing. Former figures must be modified somewhat, and not above $2.50@2.55 per M now quoted, with the inside probably about the average where buyers did not have a preference as to quality or require some favor as to delivery, but at the above rates a considerable quantity of stock has gone into yard this week, either through deliveries on contract or fresh purchases. Indeed the flowing of a small straw here and there seems to indicate the possibility that dealers are accumulating some stock, and should by any chance the offering prove full and "bunchy," it would be a difficult matter for receivers to extricate themselves, especially as with the progress of this month a dull period of the season is reached.

LIME.—Since the reduction on price noted last week there has been no further quotable change on either Eastern or State, though the latter at times appears a little irregular. Advices are at hand from Rockland reporting a combination of manufacturers who propose adopting the old policy of regulating shipments to the wants of the market. Not much stock came to hand this week, and the offering was all sold, but buyers are neither plenty nor anxious to invest beyond immediate necessities.

LUMBER.—On the general market "no one is driving a very heavy load in the way of business," according to the report of one of our dealers. All classes of buyers appear to be moving in an easy sort of way that at times assumes a form of indifference, and if supplies are handled beyond well-defined wants it is due to extra attractions in the way of quality or cost. The latter feature, however, is not of itself in all cases sufficient to induce investment, as many grades are unquestionably low enough apparently to pile away with comparative safety, but the tendency to avoid every risk is deep seated and difficult to overcome. This feeling is by no means an entirely new characteristic, but has unquestionably been strengthened by the recent eruption in financial circles, and most of the trade conclude that slow and sure is the best. There is, of course, exceptions to all rules, and operators can be found who would be willing to enter into contracts with much greater freedom than at present, but right at this point the caution of the selling interest develops itself, and some of the greatest grumblers over dull business seem to consider the most anxious buyers the least desirable customers. Accumulations now on hand exhibit a fair general assortment and are apparently tending to increase somewhat, notwithstanding the careful buying, but in several cases the additions are known to be from fall, winter and early spring purchases, especially at interior points, and a few of the larger dealers receive direct from their own mills.

Eastern Spruce shows just about the ordinary irregularity. Taking the entire range of prices no quotable change can be made, but the tone varies, and on intermediate cost differences of 25@50c. per M will occasionally occur, according to momentary ruling influences. If sellers have to hunt up a place for cargoes then a shading is necessary, but this has seldom occurred lately on anything at all attractive, and first-class randoms generally found some one ready to take them as they came to hand. The demand, however, is not an open or free one by any means, and receivers say that they are not troubled by customers hanging around the office waiting for an offering or calling them by telephone to obtain refusals on the next arrivals. From primary sources the reports indicate about former prices asked, and manufacturers generally busy on specials. We quote at $13.50@15.50 for randoms, and $15.50@17 for specials.

White Pine still appears to be "nominally unchanged." Indications, however, are in most cases favorable to buyers, and it is very evident that business could not be increased except at a shading. It is doubtful if even that course would draw out additional orders from shippers, and home buyers talk and act as though they would expect something extra in the way of quality as well as a low range of cost. Many dealers, a number of consumers especially, in the manufacturing line are now getting direct receipts in sufficient quantity to satisfy their wants and occasionally leave a surplus. We quote at $17.50@19 for West India shipping boards; $25@28 for South American do.; $14@15 for box boards, and $16.00 @17.50 for extra do.

Yellow Pine still meets with occasional attention, but all the calls come from buyers for whom the market has been simply waiting, and the business was really discounted some time ago. Receivers have had applications for rates, terms, prospects for delivery and other incidentals to new demand, but only to a moderate extent and in such form as to afford very little encouragement that they will secure contracts worth speaking of, either from dealers or from consumers direct. Exporters are now and then heard from in the way of f. o. b. orders, but operators rather shrug their shoulders over this trade as presenting nothing very attractive. At the mills the tone continues easy enough when any opportunity is afforded to negotiate on orders. We quote as follows: Randoms, $18@20.50 per M; Specials, $20@21.00 do.; Green Flooring Boards, $22@23; Dry do., do., $23@24; Siding, $22@23 do.; Cargoes f. o. b. at Atlantic ports, $14@14.50 for rough, and $19@22 for dressed. Cargoes f. o. b. at Gulf ports, $13@14 for rough, and $18 @20 for dressed.

Hardwoods meet with a little more attention from some of the home sources, and especially from points making this market the source of supply. There is also more or less taken on export account, although an apparent desire to suppress such information may be noted. From first hands the attractive offering is rather limited. We quote at wholesale rates by car load as follows: Walnut, $65@110 per M.; ash, $35@40 do.; oak, $30@55 do.; maple, $20@32.50 do.; chestnut, $25@30 do.; cherry, $40@75 do.; whitewood, $27@35 do., do.; elm, $22@25; hickory, $45@52.50 do.

Shingles have not been active. The country demand runs somewhat behind expectations and the export trade is not only light, but as reported by a dealer develops "in fits and jerks." On the general range prices remain as before. We quote Cypress at $8.0 @8.50 per M. for 5x20 and $11.00 @12.00 do. for 6x20 regularly assorted shipping. Pine shipping stock $2.00 @ 2.50 for 18 inch, and Eastern saw grades at $2.00@2.50 for 16 inch, as to quality and to quantity. Eastern shaved cedar $4.00 @4.50 per M. Machine dressed cedar shingles quoted as follows: for 30 inch, $15.00@20.00 for A, and $23@ 28.50 for No. 1; for 24 inch, $13.00@15 for A and $18.50@20.50 for No. 1; for 20 inch, $8@9.50 for A and $11.00@12.50 for No. 1.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

ALBANY MARKET.

The Argus reports for week ending June 3 as follows:

The sales for the week have not been large, and none of magnitude have been reported. Buyers are not inclined to fill up their stocks till the money market has settled to its usual firmness. The receipts have been fair, and there is a good assortment on the yards. Shipments of Michigan pine have been restricted by the action of the canal boatmen at Tonawanda. An association has been formed, and an agent appointed, whose duty it is to establish the freight, and no captain is to load his boat except through that agent. He has named a rate, which is considerably more than last year's price, and more than the business will warrant. Until this matter is settled shipments from there to Albany will be light. Many of the Albany dealers have ordered shipments from Michigan to Buffalo, where there are many boats which want loads, as grain freights are scarce and the boatmen's association has less power. From Canada the receipts continue as usual, and a fair supply can be found in the yards. The receipts of spruce and hemlock are steady, and keep up a good assortment. The sales have been fair, and prices are unaltered. Hardwoods are in fair demand, and the assortment on the yards is very good. The receipts by rail and canal will keep up the stock, and seasoned lumber will, as usual, be found ready for use. Shingles are in fair stock, and lath are coming in freely.

LUMBERMAN'S GAZETTE,
BAY CITY, MICH.

An almost universal answer to the question as to the condition of trade during the week was medium, slow, etc. Trade is moving, however, and the footings of amounts shipped are a weekly surprise as to amount. The shipments from this port for the past week, even with the intervening Decoration Day holiday, were 25 per cent. larger than the week previous. The New York papers still have occasional panic notes, but to us they appear only as the mutterings of far away thunderings with not a cloud to speak of in the lumber horizon or business, and the freedom from embarrassment of all lumber dealers is still a matter of note. A dealer expressed the situation last week by stating that though there was green lumber handled by all the firms, there was no water in the stock of any, that at present prices lumber is as good as gold, even though that may be scarce. We are also happy to state that a solvent condition of affairs obtains throughout the whole country. Freights remain unchanged by rail, but by water have experienced a slight change.

In the Bay City yard trade the price list was returned to the Gazette this week without a single change being marked. The car trade is fair—considering the financial flurry of two weeks ago it is good, and talk, as some will, about the dullness, the actual consumption of lumber is large, very large.

The Chicago Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

The pronounced feature of the offerings within the past few days has been an increase in the amount of No. 2 stock put on the market. The manufacturers over the lake have called a turn in sawing as much dimension as formerly, and are now cutting more logs into such lumber. The effect is already seen in the increase of inch lumber at the docks. The relative inequality of the two different kinds of stock has flopped over from one side to the other more suddenly than the mill men counted on, for now the difficulty of handling too much inch lumber is as apparent as was that of too much dimension last season. One purpose the shippers have however realized, and that is in stiffening the price of piece stuff, which is fully

25 cents on a thousand better than it was two weeks ago. But the gain in this has been compensated for to the buyer by a sag in the price of inch lumber, which during the past week has rubbed on the bottom, sales having been made slowly at figures considerably reduced. A sure sign of the settling of prices of inch lumber is the fact that considerable is going into canal boats. Hitherto there has been but little of this sort of movement, as the Illinois River buyers scarcely ever take hold until values drop so that they can make bargains.

Green piece stuff, as has been hinted, has not arrived during the week in large quantity. The call for it is a little in excess of the supply, which is a peculiar feature of the trade, since all along the stock on hand has been said to be so excessive that prices were weak and cutting in the yards was indulged in. Prices have advanced on the market from $9 for short lengths to $9.25, and cargoes of very desirable sometimes sell for $9.50. It must not be forgotten, however, that considerable of the new cut of piece stuff has gone into pile at the mills, and is yet to be marketed. It is possible that the same thiug will happen to the cross piled piece stuff that has occurred to the piled inch lumber—when it does come there will be more than plenty of it.

Efforts are being made to place some hemlock piece stuff with dealers here. Sales have been made to local distributers at $7 a thousand, though that is a minimum price.

Quotations on lumber, so far as a market price has been made, are as follows:

Dimension, green	$9.25@ 9.75
Boards and strips, No. 2	10.00@12 50
" Medium	12.50@14 50
" No. 1	15.00@20.00

Up to May 26 reports from the drives were favorable. Throughout northern Wisconsin and the upper Michigan peninsula a heavy rain prevailed about May 22 and 23, which caused a rise in the streams, and set the logs moving. On all the important streams in northern Wisconsin, including the Chippewa and tributaries, the drives are coming along to the entire satisfaction of the operators. The drives of the lower Michigan peninsular are doing fairly. Some of them on the smaller streams of the eastern part of the State are down. There is no indication at present of any serious hanging up anywhere.

The present is a quiet period for the hardwood trade of Chicago, but though sales are slow the aggregate foots up quite an amount and some concerns report a large quantity of lumber as going out of yard. Receipts are largely on account of new yards which are laying in stock. The yards are well filled so that there is less trading between yards than is sometimes the case. Dry lumber seems to be plenty, and no difficulty is experienced by those who know where to find it in getting what they need. Occasionally a dealer may be out of particular sizes, and will have to buy of his neighbor, but profits are so small that the tendency is to avoid dividing them.

LUMBERMAN AND MANUFACTURER,
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

The chief topic in lumber circles in the Northwest is the new Missouri River railroad freight matter. It is reported that the subject is to be reconsidered by the railroads, and some talk is being indulged in touching the propriety of a united effort to secure rates which will permit the Northwest to control a fair share of the trade based on the hauling distance from the producing sections. The majority, however, seem to think that any effort of this kind would amount to nothing. The arrangements for rafting on the Chippewa and Wisconsin are now so far completed that it would be difficult to alter the plans for disposing of the cut. They are rejoicing that the new deal came early in the season, and are not disposed to put themselves into the power of the freight men again.

There is little to be said of the markets of the Northwest. Dry stuff is about gone, and buyers have to be content with putting in green stuff where dry should be used. The reports from the Lake Superior region show that they are about cleared out of lumber. The big Cloquet stock is being shipped to Chicago. A single order of the C. N. Nelson Lumber Co. from Chicago amounts to $265,000, which is being forwarded by lake.

The shipments from Minneapolis exceed 3,000,000 per week, with receipts of about half that quantity. There is no effort being made to force sales, and we feel sure that there is little, if any, shading being done on dry stuff. The mills are all doing good work and the estimated cut for the month is 45,000,000.

CANADA.

The following is from the Montreal Journal of Commerce :

The movement in yard supplies is still limited, owing to the slow progress in building operations. Some demand is still experienced for hardwood on American account, but dealers here have very little surplus stocks to spare. Laths are easier, with sales at $1.50 to $2.00, as to quantity and quality. As regards the export trade, seven or eight brigs or schooners have been chartered for the South American trade, and large quantities of deals are going forward to direct ports in the United Kingdom. Owing to the falling off in the Clyde shipbuilding, trade in England has been very dull, and but for the low freights ruling on this side, there would be little to report in Canadian lumber and deals. Some extensive sales of deals and lumber have taken place at Quebec recently, among which are reported several lots of pine deals at 35 per cent. addments 1sts and 2ds, about 25 per cent. addments 3ds f. o. b., Montreal, $108 to $110 firsts; $70 to $72 seconds; $34 to $35 thirds. Pine deals about 35 per cent. addments $106, $69 and $33, and charges. These lots run from 65 to 70 per cent. thirds the remainder firsts and seconds. A lot of pine deals at $108, $70 and $32.50 f. o. b. Three Rivers. A lot of spruce at $38, $22 and $20 and charges. Red pine deals were sold at $11 per 1,000 feet f. o. b. Quebec. Sales are also mentioned of spruce deals and some Ottowa sidings at $30 f. o. b. at mills.

ENGLAND.

The Timber Trade's Journal as follows:

LIVERPOOL.

The importation of pitch pine timber has been one of the most important features of the past week. Several vessels have arrived with cargoes on consignment, and with few exceptions these have been placed with merchants by private treaty. In consequence of this, the quays of the Canada and Brocklebank docks are covered with pitch pine, both hewn and sawn, and from one end to the other. The quality of the importations generally is good, and the present time offers a good opportunity for inspecting and comparing the merits of the various shipments, as nearly every port identified with pitch pine timber is represented, there being cargoes from Darien, Savannah, Apalachicola, Pensacola and Mobile now discharging in the above-named docks. A fair quantity seems to be going direct into consumption, and, as prices are very low, buyers are doubtless seizing this opportunity to make up their stocks. In this they are wise, as the markets abroad are reported to be getting scarce of timber to load vessels waiting in the various ports, where some are already on demurrage, owing to the difficulty in getting their cargoes on board.

It may be mentioned here that amongst the lots of fine timber now landing is one log ex Sigrid, from Mobile, which measures 62 feet long by 35 inches deep. This is believed to be the longest log of pitch pine ever imported, and was bought by auction from Messrs. A. F. & D. Mackay by Messrs. Seth Bennett & Co, timber merchants, of this city. There is no change in the value of spruce deals, which still rule very low, arising principally from the depressed condition of the freight market.

NAILS.—The market in all general particulars remains about as recorded for a week or so past. Some demand prevails and occasionally quite a lively little spurt is shown, but there is no anxiety on the part of buyers nor do they afford a basis on which sellers can gain an advantage. Indeed, if anything the market lacks strength and the tendency is to shade rather than to increase the line of cost. We quote at $2.50@2.60 per keg for 10d. to 60d., according to size of invoice.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Demand for invoices has not increased, in fact, appears to be making a falling off, if anything, and the wholesale market is rather dull all around. As this, however, is rather seasonable operators are in a measure prepared for it, and no great complaint is made, though in some cases stocks have not been worked down with the rapidity hoped for and it is difficult to maintain values. Linseed Oil remains under control and continues to sell fairly at 57@58 for domestic, and 58@59 for foreign. Spirits Turpentine has been somewhat irregular, but generally in buyers' favor, closing at about 31@33c. per gallon, according to size of invoice, delivery, etc.

PITCH AND TAR.—The outward movement of about the usual size and form and the general market called steady. Offerings fair. We quote: Pitch, $2.25@2 30 per bbl.; Tar, $2.50@3.00 do., according to quantity, quality and delivery.

THE RECORD AND GUIDE.

TERMS:

ONE YEAR, in advance, SIX DOLLARS.

Communications should be addressed to

C. W. SWEET, 191 Broadway.

J. T. LINDSEY, Business Manager.

JUNE 14, 1884.

There ought soon be a change in the temper of the stock market. The promise of the crops is so good that unless some disaster occurs to them there must be advancing prices on the Exchange. The nomination of Blaine, the receiverships of Wabash and West Shore, the probability that Louisville & Nashville and Denver & Rio Grande would also become bankrupt, all conspired to make the market weak; but a reaction is in order and may come any time. Still it may be delayed until after the meeting of the Democratic Convention at Chicago on July 8th. In that case the nomination of Cleveland would be the signal for a hurrah in the stock market. All the crop returns are good, with probably the exception of cotton, which experts say will not be more than six million bales. All the other crop news is of the very brightest. The returns from the old corn belt, that is Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Iowa, tell of an unusually large acreage of this greatest of American grains. Three hundred and fifty million bushels of winter wheat, 146,000,000 bushels of spring wheat and 2,000,000,000 bushels of corn is the latest reasonable guess as to the production of this season. With this prospect in view there is no reason why the prices of railroad securities should range so low.

The newspapers have commenced their unjustifiable mis-statements about the new River and Harbor bill. The United States engineers have given facts and figures of a most convincing character, showing that three to four millions of dollars are needed to improve the harbors and channels of the coast adjacent to this city. From New London to the Raritan River there exist impediments to commerce which deprive the metropolis of hundreds of thousands of dollars yearly, but every representative who favors even the most necessary appropriations is set down as a public thief. Mr. Hewitt demonstrated to the House only a few days since that $420,000 was absolutely needed to complete the work at Hell Gate. The explosion could take place only in October, and any less sum would be useless, as the necessary engineering work could not be carried out. Not a journal in New York has had a word to say in opposition to the stupid action of the House, which finally voted an inadequate sum. As we have a large surplus in the Treasury, to what wiser use could it be put than in improving our harbors and waterways? Surely it would be far better to do this than to expend the money in swindling pension schemes.

From June 2, 1883, to June 2, 1884, the United States redeemed $110,000,000 of its bonded debt, paying for its obligations exclusively in gold. Yet in the beginning of the fiscal year the total gold in the Treasury, certificates included, amounted to $133,709,103. On June 2, 1884, there was of gold and certificates in the Treasury $142,172,027, a gain in gold of $8,462,924. During the same period our standard dollars, including certificates, held by the Treasury had decreased nearly a million ($939,595), that is to say, we had $40,389,209 this year against $41,328,804 last year. We have thus paid $110,000,000, yet have increased our gold store and decreased our silver store. As the Mining Record points out, the government has profited otherwise fully $15,000,000 of gold, inasmuch as that amount was paid into the Sub-treasury in New York in exchange for certificates redeemable in standard silver dollars. Such are the facts about the so-called disastrous effects of silver coinage. It is now in order for the Times, Tribune and Financial Chronicle to make some monstrous statement about the evils of that coinage, in substantiation of which they have never presented a single fact.

"Sir Oracle" seems to be partial to Mr. Blaine. Yet it is very evident that were an acceptable opposition candidate in the field, the latter would be chosen over him, provided the election was held before the 4th of July. The defection of the independents and the bolting of influential papers like the New York Times, Evening Post and the Boston Advertiser would be fatal to Mr. Blaine's chances for the presidency were the election held immediately. But it is an open question whether the tide may not turn, as it did in the case of Garfield, and put Mr. Blaine ahead at the close of the canvass. There are others besides "Sir Oracle" who think that the time has come when the United States should take its proper place among the nations of the earth; when it should have a navy, coast defenses, a steam marine and a foreign commerce; when it should not be forced to pay a duty of ten dollars and a half on every barrel of flour it sends to Cuba, and when it should get its coffee direct from Rio Janeiro instead of being forced to buy it in London. Mr. Blaine's election would mean a total revolution in the foreign policy of the nation. For this our people may not yet be prepared. Next November will tell that story.

Our Albany correspondent calls attention to a bill Governor Cleveland has just signed which will be criticised not a little should he be the Democratic nominee for the presidency. Under this enactment, if our correspondent states its purport correctly, all the gas companies in the several cities can consolidate in such a way as to create a monopoly. It seems to be understood that the Standard Oil Company is the mover in this matter and that that corporation will hereafter own absolutely all the gas companies in this State.

But the public will be loth to believe any charge made against Governor Cleveland. He has stood so loyally by the reform measures passed by the Legislature, in spite of the pressure of his own party friends, that he has gained the good will of all classes of citizens, irrespective of party differences. We have not approved of all his vetos, especially the one postponing the commencement of the Arcade road under Broadway, but we believe he has been honest and regardful of the public good in everything he has disapproved as well as approved. The real test will come in connection with the Tenure of Office act, which has been so urgently demanded by the Evening Post, the Times and all the reform Democrats as well as Republicans. Should he fail to approve that act to-day it will be charged, with a good show of reason, that he has made a bargain with Commissioner Thompson to keep that official in office in return for pecuniary and political help at the Democratic State and National Conventions. Governor Cleveland will of course endorse that bill, for if he did not it would alienate from him the reform Republican element now so strongly in favor of his nomination for the presidency.

The Next Mayor.

The changes brought about by the reform measures of the last Legislature will make the next Mayor of New York a more important officer, so far as our city is concerned, than even the President of the United States. He will wield vast, almost dictatorial, powers. The heads of the various departments to be appointed by him will not be subject to the confirmation of the Aldermen, nor will he be responsible to any authority outside of the press and public opinion. Hence it is quite time that the newspapers began to canvass the merits of our foremost citizens so that there may be no mistake when the final selection is made. This being so, surely the real estate interests ought to have something to say when the question of the selection of the chief magistrate of the city is up for consideration. Our present Mayor and Comptroller represent the Produce Exchange. Ex-Mayor Grace was a shipping merchant and our other executives have been lawyers, sugar refiners, paint merchants and dealers in leather, diamonds and miscellaneous articles. But strangely enough dealers in realty have never yet been thought of as candidates for Mayor. This is the more surprising as their business brings them into direct relation with every vital interest of the municipality. To be successful they must know all about taxes, assessments and city improvements and they are necessarily men of affairs.

In view of these facts we venture to suggest the respected name of Edward H. Ludlow, the president of the Real Estate Exchange, as a suitable person to fill the office of chief magistrate of the city. The Ludlow family have been identified with New York since the middle of the seventeenth century and it would be a return to the better and purer era of our local politics were its most modern representative to be placed at the head of our city government. Although a Democrat he has held aloof from politics and would be acceptable to all good citizens without distinction of party.

For Comptroller there are several active dealers in realty who could be depended upon to guard the city treasury. Richard V. Harnett, for instance, would make an admirable Comptroller. He probably, however, could not afford to give up his large business for any city office, in which case John H. Sherwood would be an excellent representative of the property holders of New York. The time has come when the real estate interest must make itself felt not only in reforming the business methods of our local government but also in improving its personnel.

Congressman O. B. Potter does not worthily represent his district in this city by opposing the Hennepin Canal project. This improvement, it will be remembered, aims at uniting the Mississippi River with the great lakes. The canal will cost some $7,000,-

000. It is to be about sixty-five miles in length. It would, of course, add to the business of Chicago, but it would also be of vast benefit to the grain and provision traffic of the country, and New York can feel no jealousy of any other section of the nation. Mr. Potter's speech was not that of a statesman.

The New Washington Market.

The collection of filthy rookeries which has so long been the principal market of New York was so entirely disgraceful to the city that any building which took its place would be welcome if only upon the ground that it was new and clean.

The new Washington Market has these advantages and several others. It seems to be very well planned for its purpose. There is an abundance of lights everywhere, the passage ways are ample, and the business of the market can be transacted much more conveniently, as well as much more decently, than in the old building. The height seems excessive, but besides securing better ventilation through the large volume of air enclosed, this height gives facilities for storage and exhibition. This, with the limited floor area disposable for each standholder, is an important point.

Our business, however, is with the architecture of the market. The part already constructed has a block front on Washington street, and parts of fronts on the two transverse streets. The Washington street front has a gabled pavilion at the centre and a smaller one at each end. Although the building is of only one story internally, it appears on the outside as of two stories, or a story and a half. The lower story consists only of the light iron supports. Above this is a semi-circular arch in iron. There are three of these bays on each side of the central pavilion on the Washington street front, and five on the longer fronts facing north and south. Besides the light from the openings covered by the iron arches the interior is roofed almost entirely with skylights.

The architectural disposition is thus as simple as possible, and neither in the disposition nor in the strictly architectural detail is there any interest. The structural materials are iron and glass, but no attempt has been made in the exterior at a characteristic treatment of the metal. It assumes everywhere forms borrowed from masonry, which are quite irrelevant to the actual structure, and by no means good as architectural forms in stonework. The structural design in fact is as meagre and commonplace as possible, and is not worth looking at twice, or talking about at all.

The interior is much better for the reason that the iron work here is not twisted into borrowed forms, but is used straightforwardly to answer its purposes in construction, and that no thought at all seems to have been given to its architectural effect. The result is what seems to be a good piece of engineering in iron, with the impressiveness that comes from the simplicity, strength and lightness of sound construction in that metal. The supports are reduced to the smallest areas possible, the connections are not concealed, and some of the roof construction has the neatness of a graphic demonstration. One practical fault the interior seems to have. The floor proper is of concrete, which can be easily flushed, and this facility of cleansing is one of the first requisites of a market. It is this which makes the markets of Paris, into the construction of which only iron, glass and concrete enter, so admirable. In Washington Market, however, a wooden floor has been laid over the concrete bed, and the wood will absorb and retain the organic matter which comes in contact with it, so that after a market floored with wood has been in use for some time the place cannot be kept clean and wholesome, but must become offensive. This was shown when the old Washington Market was demolished and the rotten floors that had been put down one over the other were torn up. The stench that was liberated by this operation was almost enough to breed a pestilence. The wooden floor, it seems, was demanded by the standholders as a matter of comfort; but in the construction of a market sanitary considerations ought to prevail over everything else. It seems as if a tiled floor, with wooden platforms, if necessary, inside the stands, so laid as to be taken up and destroyed whenever they became foul, would have been much more suitable than the arrangement actually adopted.

The market is thus, in the main, an excellent market practically, and the interior, where no attempt has been made at architecture, looks very well. The outside, however, is not nearly so good in design as either Fulton Market or Jefferson Market. These are honest constructions of brickwork, and it is not praising them highly to say that they show a much more respectable degree of professional training than Washington Market, although all three are nominally the work of the same architect. All that gives any interest to the outside of Washington Market is the decoration, the design of which certainly did not proceed from the author of the architecture. All this is in terra cotta, which is nowhere used structurally, but is confined to panels framed in iron. Each of the gables is filled with a decorative design. The gables of the terminal pavilions carry the arms of the city, and the centre gable a medallion of Washington in high relief. The transoms of the large arches have festoons of fruit and vegetables, and each of the spandrils has an animal's head. There are four of these heads, a pig, a cow, a sheep and a deer. They are too realistic to be altogether appropriate as architectural ornaments, but, waiving that defect, they are very cleverly and carefully modelled, and are much more effective in their places than the similar heads in the frieze of the Produce Exchange. The festoons, which are suitable to a market as they are unsuitable to any other building, are evidently done by a skilled modeller, and are very effective in the arrangement of light and shade, having also the sketchy character which is particularly appropriate to so highly plastic a material. The most successful of all, however, is the coat of arms of the city, which is repeated several times, and is extremely effective. The subject is not very promising, but the panel is perhaps the best piece of decorative modelling in terra cotta that can be seen in New York, leaving out the panels of the new opera house. These latter, however, are interesting by the grace and invention of the design, while the panels in Washington Market owe their effectiveness entirely to the technical skill with which a conventional subject is treated and to the admirable color and texture of the material.

Unnatural Values of Government Securities.

The low range of prices on the Stock Exchange is used as an argument by certain papers for the purchase of securities at present prices by investors, and there is scarcely a doubt that if people with means should select wisely they would find it to their profit to purchase and put away permanently many of the stocks and bonds in Wall street, which are now selling far below par. There is, however, one factor in the low prices for stocks which has been overlooked. We have been educated during the booming years to a range of figures which were abnormally high. The financial policy of our government is to blame for the inordinate values put upon favorite securities. The Treasury of the nation has been a bull element of surprising efficacy in the stock market. A constant demand for government bonds was created in the first place by the requirement of our national banking law that all bank issues should be based upon government bonds. Then the policy of using the surplus in purchasing bonds created a perpetual corner in these national obligations which raised their prices unnaturally, and thus made a constant argument for advancing the price of stocks and bonds so that they might bear some relation to the returns from investments in government securities. In a thousand ways investors were plied with arguments to make them believe that 3½ or at best 4 per cent. was all they could depend upon for the use of their money in good securities. In 1881 it was seriously argued that Lake Shore and New York Central ought to sell for 200 each if their earning power remained at 8 per cent. per annum. Time and again were the debentures of the English railways quoted to show that British investors were more than satisfied if they received 4½ per cent. for their money. Indeed at one time railway companies like the Pennsylvania Central and the Baltimore & Ohio, could get all the money they called for at 4½ per cent.

These prices were based upon the idea that money would be permantly as cheap in this country as in Europe. It was supposed that our "cornered" national debt represented the normal value of money to the future business of the country. Hence the extravagant prices for railway stocks and bonds which obtained during the booming years of 1880–81, and in some instances in a later period. Hence the fall in prices has not only been due to a liquidation which was inevitable, but has also been caused by people being rudely awakened from the delusion as to the cheapness of money in this country. Of course interest will never be as high as it was previous to the civil war. We have got to be a richer nation and accumulated capital is satisfied with a smaller return now than then. The cheapness of money abroad also will have a permanent effect upon lending rates here, but, after all, the fact remains that this is a very new country, whose resources have not begun to be developed, and under normal conditions capital can command a larger return than in Europe, where business openings are not so numerous or so lucrative.

Whenever we stop buying up in advance the obligations of the country it will be found that American 3 per cents, subject to call, are not as valuable as British consols, which are without date of redemption. During the recent panic our governments fell off some 8 per cent., temporarily of course, and when we have no surplus for our Treasury calls we must expect to see a wholesome shrinkage in the market price of American national obligations. These will always, of course, rule higher than ordinary securities, because of their being in demand for trust funds and as a basis for bank issues. Our financial policy in paying the debt in advance has been a robbery of the widow and orphan, and has fed the fires of an unnatural speculation. It would be a good thing for the country if we should spend our surplus for works of internal improvement. With the Treasury out of the way as a bull factor, Wall street securities would soon find their proper level.

The Two Great Cities of Two Worlds.

The question as to whether New York will some day take the place of London as the most populous city in the world has been the subject of frequent discussion, and statisticians have not been wanting who have calculated to a nicety when that consummation might be expected. That New York is capable of accommodating a population much larger than the British metropolis is unquestioned, for in speaking of New York it must be borne in mind that the area taken in is not New York County alone, but the several adjacent counties, whose populations are so closely interwoven with the larger city that they practically form part of one great whole. Indeed in comparing London with New York the outlying districts of the latter should be included, otherwise New York would appear the larger of the two, both in area and population. The census of 1871 shows that the city of London proper only had 74,897 inhabitants, which in 1881 had dwindled down to 50,652. It is, in fact, the suburbs of London and its rural districts which swell the mighty total of its population to nearly five millions. It runs into the counties of Middlesex, Surrey, Kent and Essex and is divided by the River Thames, the communication on both sides being effected by means of numerous bridges. In this light no comparison between the two cities is complete without the addition to New York of those counties which by close association and identity of interests are as much a part of that city as are the suburbs of London of the English capital. Westchester, Richmond, Kings and Queens Counties in the State of New York, and Hudson, Essex and Passaic Counties in New Jersey are, to all intents and purposes, part of New York city. The parliamentary boroughs of London count their populations by the hundred thousand, one containing half a million persons, forming in this respect an analogy with the relation of Brooklyn to New York. The Tower Hamlets is, indeed, even more densely populated than the city of London itself, having 107 persons to an acre, while Southwark has 111, and even Chelsea, one of the least thickly populated, has fifty-two persons to the acre. Contrasting New York, therefore, from this point of view its population is more than half that of London, instead of the 1,500,000 with which it is credited. This will be seen from the following table, which includes the census of 1870 for the purpose of comparison:

	1870. Census.	1880. Census.
New York County, N. Y	942,292	1,206,299
Westchester County, N. Y	131,348	†108,988
Richmond County, N. Y	33,029	38,991
Kings County, N. Y	419,921	599,495
Queens County, N. Y	73,803	90,574
Hudson County, N. J	129,067	187,944
Essex County, N. J	143,839	189,929
Passaic County, N. J	46,416	68,860
Total	1,919,715	2,491,080

It will be seen, therefore, that on the same principle that London had 4,766,661 inhabitants at the last census, New York had close upon two million and a half. Probably two or three generations will see New York and its suburbs with a population of five millions, for with greater transportation facilities, and the peopling of thinly populated districts in the above counties, each future census will show a more rapid ratio of increase than the last. The area of London, that is of the "greater London," which includes the remotest portions of the city, is 690 square miles, almost a little country in itself, but the area of New York on which it can expand itself in future is over 1,500 miles, as will be seen from the following table:

	Area sq. miles.	Inhab'ts per sq. mile.
New York County	22	54,881
Westchester County	505	215
Richmond County	58½	672
Kings County	72	8,326
Queens County	410	223
Hudson County*	....	....
Essex County	150	1,266
Passaic County	200	344
Total (excepting Hudson County)	1,417½
London	690	6,908
New York (including above counties)	1,417½	1,660

It will thus be seen that New York's population is scattered over an area of about 1,500 miles, including Hudson County, while London, with a population nearly 100 per cent. greater, covers an area of only 690 square miles. Should the former become as thickly peopled as the latter its population would be about 10,362,000. Indeed it will probably exceed that total, as London is covered almost entirely with private houses, inhabited, as a rule, by single families, whereas New York abounds with high buildings occupied by numbers of families. Tenements and flats are the exception and not the rule in London, while here it is exactly the reverse. The outlying counties of New York are destined to increase in population very largely in the future. The tendency of all modern cities is towards an increase of suburban population. It will be noticed the increase from the census of 1870 to that of 1880 in the counties mentioned above was 571,365, being over 29 per cent. At the same rate of increase their population in 1891 will be 3,213,493, or an increase of 722,413 over the last census. Owners of realty in New York and the adjacent counties need not fear for the future value of their real estate. While realty in this city is bound to hold its own, the time is not far distant when suburban property will see much higher figures than those which now obtain.

* We have been unable to ascertain the area of Hudson County, N. J.

† The decrease in Westchester County is owing to the annexation of a part of its territory to New York City.

Our Prophetic Department.

POLITICIAN—What is the meaning of the nomination of James G. Blaine? Is he not foredoomed to defeat? Why did not the Republican convention follow all the precedents and give us another dark horse, who would not excite unnecessary antagonisms?

SIR ORACLE—The selection of Blaine as a standard bearer by so wise and politic a party as the Republicans is a surprising event, and may indicate the opening of a new chapter, the turning over of a new leaf, in the history of our country. For years I have been arguing that some day or other the American people would wake up to the fact that it could become actually, as it is potentially, a great nation. We have been timid heretofore, and in loyally following the foreign policy marked out for us by Washington, have selected as Presidents unambitious, unostentatious and generally second-rate men. I think we are getting tired of this policy. We will soon have sixty millions of inhabitants and we may want an administration with a President at its head which can make our influence felt in the councils of nations. From Polk to Tilden our Presidents were selected with a view to avoid entangling alliances with foreign nations.

POLITICIAN—I beg pardon—I think you said Tilden?

SIR O.—Yes, and I meant him, for he was elected and not Rutherford B. Hayes. But the latter was the same kind of man, and the best of that description of Presidents we have had is Chester A. Arthur, who is, indeed, an ideal chief magistrate of the old, old pattern.

POLITICIAN—What do you think Blaine will do if chosen for President?

SIR O.—It is too early in the canvass as yet to say what his chances are for success. But, even if beaten, I venture to predict that the policy he represents will commend itself to the American people, and will control future administrations.

POLITICIAN—That policy is—

SIR O.—That the United States has come to its growth, and declines to be swathed in the swaddling clothes put upon its infant limbs by Washington. The non-interference doctrine was a very wise one for a young and feeble nation, with the problem of free institutions to solve; but we have grown and prospered, and the time has come when we must put away childish things.

POLITICIAN—Pray be more specific. If elected, what would Mr. Blaine try to do?

SIR O.—The Republican platform calls for a navy, and in this it voices the desire of the American people. Blaine, I think, would like to purchase Canada from Great Britain. He would seek to unite the nations on this continent into a commercial union, with the United States at their head. He would try to secure coaling stations in different parts of the world, so as to have harbors of refuge for our steam marine and navy. He would favor liberal expenditures for the improvement of our waterways and seacoast harbors, and he would put on a bold front to Europe when the time came for settling the status of the Panama Canal. That question will come up during the course of the next administration, and it can be properly dealt with only by a statesman who is at once able and fearless, and such is James G. Blaine.

POLITICIAN—Who will be the Democratic nominee?

SIR O.—Governor Cleveland has the call now that Tilden is out of the race. It would be preposterous to run a corpse against so lively a piece of flesh and blood as the Man from Maine. Cleveland would make a good old-fashioned candidate. He is a well-meaning and very timid old batchelor, and will be enthusiastically supported by the conservative and business interests of the country. But he is a man without ability, and one of the most commonplace of mortals. I confess to looking forward with some comfort to the future. Our really great men will for the first time have a chance for the highest office in the gift of the people. All the world has been wondering why it is that we chose third-rate lawyers and characterless and colorless politicians as chief magistrates, passing by our really eminent citizens. But genius and statesmanship is once more to the fore. Then again in Blaine's nomination we have broken for a time with the lawyer caste. He has been a schoolmaster, an editor, a business man and a politican, but in the Senate he was often rapped over the knuckles by the legal sharps in that body for his want of training in the courts. Should he be chosen I do not believe he would fill all the public offices, from the cabinet down, with lawyers.

POLITICIAN—I am surprised at your enthusiasm for Blaine. My own impression is that he will be soundly whipped by some moderate, sensible and safe Democrat, such as Cleveland, Morrison, Bayard or Macdonald. You do not say anything about the candidature of Roswell P. Flower?

SIR O.—They say in Wall street he is a "jolly good fellow," but if he is recommended by the Democratic State Convention it will be the result of liberal expenditures of money. Outside the "barr'l" he has no backing in the Democratic party. I suspect that his name is brought forward in connection with the presidency to give him a claim upon the Democratic administration, should there be one, for a diplomatic position.

POLITICIAN—Would not Bayard be an ideal candidate for the Democracy?

SIR O.—Blaine, I think, could beat him easily. It would revive the bloody shirt issue, which no well-wisher of his country cares to see to the fore again. And then Mr. Bayard is fanatical on the gold unit question, which would kill him as dead as a herring in the South and West. Blaine is a bi-metallist, and the plank on that subject in the Republican platform represents the opinions of the mass of the American people.

About Our Newspapers.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

Shortly after Horace Greeley accepted the Democratic nomination for the presidency, Mr. George Jones said to the writer: "What a wonderful streak of luck we have had. The Republicans have all transferred their subscriptions from the Tribune to the Times. It has been a better thing for us than even the fight against 'the ring.'" Mr. Jones went on to tell how Jay Gould had offered $1,000,000 for the Times, but while he might sell it for a price to some other person, Jay Gould could not have it even if he offered $5,000,000.

This was twelve years ago. Since that time there has been a virtual revolution in New York journalism. Our papers have deteriorated, both in character and quality. They are not only cheaper, but poorer in every respect. The Times has deliberately repeated the folly of the Tribune and has abandoned its party. It has always been a wrong-headed paper since the death of Henry J. Raymond, its founder. Greeley's candidature was a matter of luck, and "the ring" fight was what billiard players call a "scratch." From its antecedents the Times should have been a wise, strong, dignified, conservative Republican journal. When Conkling was the ruling power in the State it should not have antagonized him. After President Arthur had won the good will of the business community it should have championed him; and after the nomination of Blaine it should have taken a course which would have made it possible to keep step with the Republican masses. But all through its recent history the paper has been captious, critical and headless, representing no one but the whims of its well-meaning but crotchetty proprietor.

The Tribune has displayed tact and good sense in championing Blaine, and will reap its harvest for the foresight it has shown during the coming canvass. Yet that paper would have done better not to have been so pronounced a personal organ of the ex-Secretary of State. Some of the best men in the party were honestly opposed to Blaine, and their prejudices and susceptibilities should have been kept in view by a wise leading party organ. The Tribune's advocacy of Blaine would have been more effective if it had not been so pronounced previous to the nomination.

The World under its new management has gained in circulation, but has lost whatever character it had. It is smart in some few things, and is not malicious or malignant, but its editorials are trash, and much of its news sensational rubbish. I cannot believe that a paper so conducted will be a permanent success in New York.

The Herald still maintains its lead in the foreign news department. Its support of Arthur showed good judgment, but its campaign against Blaine was ill-judged and much of it silly. The Herald is still a profitable paper, but it weilds no such power as it did when Frederick Hudson was managing editor.

The Evening Post has put itself into a hole in opposing Blaine so vehemently. In this Horace White repeats the mistake he made when, as editor of the Republican Chicago Tribune, he sustained Horace Greeley for the presidency.

The Commercial Advertiser does not keep up the promise of its initial numbers under the new management. Its editorial columns are evidently controlled by some very commonplace person.

The Sun remains the best written, best edited, and, except the Herald, the most profitable paper in New York. Its views of national politics, however, are antiquated, and belong to a past generation. It does not like Republican rascals in office, but it seems to have a kindness for local rascals, whether Republicans or Democrats. Hence its support of sheriffs, surrogates and judicial officers under a cloud. It is, however, an extremely well-conducted paper and has lost the malice which characterized it when Amos R. Cummings was its managing editor.

The New York Truth has not been long enough in Mr. Connery's hands to make any point as yet. To succeed, it must find a place of its own. It must get out of the old ruts.

There are other papers, but they are not worth mentioning. The New Yorkers who attended the Chicago Convention must have been astonished with the great superiority of the Chicago over the New York papers. The leading western journals are far more enterprising and are more ably edited than their New York contemporaries. New York to-day has not one really great commanding journal. When Greeley, Raymond and the elder Bennett lived, it had three.

AN OLD JOURNALIST.

The Common Council has passed a resolution authorizing the Commissioner of Public Works to rebuild the very unsafe and defective retaining wall on the easterly side of Morningside avenue, next to the drive. It seems it cannot be opened to the public until this necessary work is done. There should be no unnecessary delay in completing this work.

Home Decorative Notes.

—A new fancy is the making of satin bags in which to send wedding cake to absent friends; make them of pink or blue and draw them together like an old-fashioned work-bag, decorate with the monogram or initials of the bride and groom, the cake should be wrapped in wax paper.

—Chinese effects in embroidery are now prevailing.

—Rattan stools of various shapes silvered, bronzed or stained and decorated with bright ribbons are pretty and useful for summer cottage parlors.

—A pretty pin-cushion which is intended to be hung on the wall near the toilet table has a round centre of brown velvet of the size and color of the centre of a sun-flower, surrounding this are leaves or petals of yellow velvet pointed and put on with a very small plait in the middle so that the point will stand out stiffly, the pins are to be put in the brown centre, that being the cushion.

—A handsome door panel is made of old gold Turkish satin with a band of seal brown velvet across the bottom, outline with crimson etching silk upon the satin a large figure and finish with silk plush balls.

—A costly and elegant addition to the toilet set have the backs of the hair brushes and mirrors of the most elaborately wrought silver with beautiful designs in repousse work.

—What a vast variety there is in arms; a simple catalogue of those known to be used would fill volumes; the lore on the subject is indeed embarrassing in its richness; in large, spacious halls armor decoration may be most effectively used. Cultured intelligence and artistic taste far above the average of the mechanical paper hanger is required; something of a history should be attached to them, and they then become evidences of stirring scenes far exceeding family portraits, tapestries or what not in the way of heirlooms; some very interesting specimens of these treasures of warfare may be seen at Tiffany's.

—Barbette veiling, which can be bought for a few cents a yard, makes very pretty comforts for the beds in summer; scarlet is very pleasing if tufted with white and button-holed around the edge with Germantown wool after being cut in deep and good sized scallops.

—A simple way to destroy moths in furniture is to fill a sprinkler with benzine and saturate the cushions thoroughly; another very good method is to fumigate the rooms with sulphur.

—A new design in macremé is made of one strip of lace, with a space left for a broad ribbon, only one, then put in a deep fringe, measure the spaces in the ribbon accurately and on those parts that are to appear between the meshes embroider rosebuds and green leaves.

—The new Doulton filters are extremely attractive in style and design.

—Richly-colored ruby cut-glass baskets are very elegant for holding flowers, and have quite superseded the globes which were so much in favor for table decoration.

—In stationery one of the latest freaks is the hem-stitched paper; when opened it has the appearance of a fine hem-stitched pocket handkerchief; it is used without envelopes; the directions are written on the outside of the paper; it is then folded square and sealed; amongst fancy papers the hammered silver and copper has taken the place of alligator skin; the paleographic is something quite novel and very stylish, it represents a page from an old volume, showing the ragged edge and destructive work of time, when written upon it appears to the artistic eye the most picturesque and attractive note paper. The American Specialty Co., of Broadway and Twenty-third street, offer an extensive variety of all the latest and most elegant designs in note paper.

—A fine polish may be given to ivory by rubbing the surface well with the finest sandpaper, then apply whiting with a bit of flannel dampened with oil or water, then finish with a slightly oiled bit of soft linen cloth.

—Fringes are used largely on tablecloths and napkins.

—A unique design for a chair back has the foundation of cream satteen, with an ear of corn and husks worked in colored embroidery silks, part of the husk should be stripped from the ear, showing the yellow kernels of corn, fringe out the edge and tie at intervals a few strands of silk.

—Stamped leathers, richly gilded and embossed, are used for dining rooms, libraries and halls, alligator leather is also used in various colors.

—Mohair plush, either olive or terra cotta red, is preferred for handsome libraries with the walls covered in tapestry.

—The craze for Japanese and Chinese goods is on the wane, Turkish and Persian colors and designs being preferred.

—Plush is the favorite material for making almost all fancy articles, cornucopias covered with it and with a spray of embroidery on the front near where the edges join are very handsome; they may serve as catch-alls.

—Shells filled with flowers constitute pretty table ornaments.

—Considerable latitude is allowed in the choice of curtains, the desire or drapery being so generally recognized that almost anything of the kind is countenanced that harmonizes with the surroundings; the transparent silks and Japanese pongees of light quality are very much in favor; the Madras muslin or grenadine, trimmed with antique lace, are strung on rings and poles without cornice above; these are left straight and flowing and are just long enough to reach the floor; if heavy curtains are added they may be looped back on each side or else one is looped and the other hangs straight and a scarf is thrown over the top with careless grace. For French curtains that are next the sash Madras muslin is used in plain cream-white and in many colors for the flowing inside curtains and also for vestibule windows various rich styles of draperies and hangings suitable for drawing-room and boudoir decoration are displayed by D. S. Hess & Co., of Broadway and Twenty-second street.

Will Realty Suffer?

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

There has been some discussion upon the effect of the disturbances in Wall street on the price of real estate. However men may reason about it the market is firm and transactions are undiminished. Good realty, in good locations and of moderate values, remains the most solid and the most productive form of investment, and if the market this month takes a turn in favor of the purchaser it is not unhealthy, nor does it fail to give a stimulating tone, for there is seeking investment great aggregates of capital in small amounts in many hands.

The unusual occurrences in the stock market present some anomalous features. The market prices are receding, yet money is abundant and cheap. The crop prospects are good, yet they do not sustain prices. The fact is that such securities have gone to a speculative height and the reaction has carried them below a natural level. The involuntary transfer of twenty or twenty-five millions of money by secret transactions, the surprise to the men who thought they had it and woke to find it gone, creates disturbances to which business is not readily adjusted. If regular business transactions had unexpectedly occurred to that amount in a single week it would have upset things; how much more so when bankers, brokers and capitalists find they have been engaged in enterprises of which they had no knowledge and incurred enormous losses and obligations for which they were wholly unprepared. The ease with which the affair passes over shows the wonderful elasticity and recuperative power of business energy.

The question is will this have a permanent effect, and will it break the real estate market? There are arguments on both sides which give little satisfaction, for we are apt to overlook the vitality of a keen race of men who have to live, to lodge and make money every day, a strife that is renewed every morning. This is the real permanent force. Vacant lots respond, particularly those out of the range of immediate improvement, to the first cessation of building activity. High-priced office buildings respond to a lack of tenants, and high-priced residences to a bad business year; but these very causes make an increased demand for smaller residences and for apartments. Natural business contraction always fills these houses with those who give up more expensive dwellings, as in prosperous times natural business expansion fills them with those who have been living with forced economy. Property of this sort is at the "happy mean." It is the staple property which is good at all times.

If one lays out of sight the speculative transactions of Wall street, it is indisputably clear that the country is in a general state of prosperity. Production is large, money is abundant. The taxes are readily paid, nothing intercepts the regular application of human energy to the increase of wealth and happiness. These are not elements of disaster, nor precursors of hard times. A little more prudence to give up stock speculations, from which the great multitude have already retired; a little closer attention to solid investments, where the owner collects his own rents and does not go to Wall street for imaginary dividends; a recurrence to regular business with more undivided attention will soon recall a solid state of prosperity. There is no reason why regular business should not be successful, for money is abundant for all its needs. It is a great deal better than the cyclones of Wall street.

The bulk of the business of the country will not be lost. If prices all around rule lower, it benefits the great mass of the people. If extravagance is abated, high-priced property is less in demand. Property of moderate values is more sought for. The natural business of the country becomes settled on a better basis. People give up speculation and go to work. We will not be dazzled with financial fireworks, and the men of patient, successful industry will come to the front. M.

New Publication.*

The real estate public has for a long time felt the want of a more complete property atlas than any of the older maps published. It is with great pleasure, therefore, that we welcome this new publication, for which a wide circulation may be predicted. The atlas includes a good deal of information which is not to be found in the earlier publications, owing to its having been brought down to date. In addition to the lot lines and dimensions, and the block, lot, ward and house numbers, we find the buildings with the material of construction shown by colors, streets opened and closed, with their names and widths, the different kinds of street pavings shown by colors, the elevations above high tide at street corners, the sewers and water mains and their sizes, and the hydrants, old water courses, old farm lines and the owners' names, and old roads with their names. The scale of the maps is 100 feet to the inch. There are four volumes in all, each containing an outline and index map. Years of labor must have been spent in perfecting this work. The maps have been compiled from official records, private plans and actual surveys under the supervision of Messrs. E. Robinson and R. H. Pidgeon, civil and topographical engineers. The Real Estate Exchange, after having considered the merits of other maps published, have given it the preference and have placed it on their shelves, no small recommendation in itself. Real estate agents, brokers and dealers, banks, trust and insurance companies, public officers and others will find this work of the utmost value.

Benner's Prophecies.

We have sold a large number of this well-known and thus far remarkably prophetic work. We find there is a growing tendency among our readers to become owners of this valuable publication. To all we can only say that a more valuable work for business men was never written, and would advise its immediate purchase. For sale at the office of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, at the publishers' price, price $1.00.

The American Jockey Club might as well sell their picturesque grounds at Jerome Park. Sheepshead Bay is now the great racing attraction near this city. Jerome Park has been badly managed. With plenty of race horses on the ground, there was only one good racing meeting this season, and that was on Decoration Day. The newspapers have never told the story of the mismanagement on that day. Of the enormous crowd which took the first train of cars, fully one-half were unable to see the first race, and many were unable to see the second. This was because of the blundering of those that had charge of the tickets. There were only three places for the sale of tickets for the vast crowds that attended the races. They had to stand in lines for three-quarters of an hour, and were subject to all sorts of annoyances. The way racing matters were handled was to advertise the want of capacity of the representatives of the club. The Jerome Park ground would bring good prices at an auction sale. "To this complexion must it come at last," unless the management of the club is entirely changed.

Western Union stills continues its 7 per cent. dividends. Those who knew the condition of the company were satisfied that when this was first done it was injudicious and the price of the stock consequently declined, although the intention was, of course, to bull it and float it on the market. This being a presidential year the telepraph lines will have a great deal of extra business. The Baltimore & Ohio are steadily opening new routes and there is room for that as well as for the Bankers' and Brokers' Telegraph Company. Each line develops new business. Still it would save a great waste of capital if the telegraph were made a government monopoly. The proposition to create a new telegraph corporation to do the telegraphing of the country should never have been encouraged and we hear from Washington that the scheme is virtually dead.

Realty at Albany.

[From our own Correspondent.]

ALBANY, June 12.

The time in which the Governor has to sign the bills left on his hands by the Legislature, when it adjourned, is near at hand. All that are not approved by him at midnight on Saturday will fail to become laws. It now looks very much as if the number of bills that will fail will be very large, some of them of importance, and including some of the reform measures When he has concluded their examination it will be discovered that any bills which corporations were anxious to have signed have been approved, and any that large corporations objected to have not received approval, while those specially in the interest of the public have been, if approved at all, signed with great reluctance and after persistent labor on the part of their advocates. There is one bill approved by Governor Cleveland during the last week in May which bids fair to create a stir and commotion in the city of New York as soon as its real purport and object are known. It is a measure to enable all the gas companies to consolidate into one company, and was passed for that purpose, although so disguised that none but a few in the secret suspected that it covered any such object. It is entitled an act to authorize the consolidation of manufacturing corporations.

Nowhere in the bill is the word gas or gas companies used, or anything to give the idea that such companies were intended, but the leading capitalists connected with the gas companies in New York brought a man from Buffalo to secure the Governor's signature to the bill, and an investigation has revealed the fact that the bill was originally sent to a Senator with an entirely different title. It then read an act to enable gas companies to consolidate, but the Senator who received the bill in that form sent it back refusing to have anything to do with or introduce it. It was rejuvenated into a bill to enable manufacturing corporations to consolidate and then introduced by the Senator from Jefferson County, who has paraded as an anti-monopolist, and put through the Legislature as a measure to enable a few weak manufacturing concerns in northern New York to strengthen themselves by consolidating. It allows any two or more corporations heretofore or hereafter organized under any general or special law, for the purpose of carrying on any kind of manufacturing business of the same or similar nature, to consolidate into a single corporation, and make the stock of the new or consolidated company equal to the value of the property of all the companies so consolidated, the parties themselves to determine what that value is. The consolidation to be perfected by an agreement between the directors in writing, and that submitted to the stockholders for approval, and if obtaining their sanction the consolidation is completed.

While the objects of the bill were purposely kept concealed during its passage, since it has become a law it is no longer a secret that under it the gas companies in New York city propose to consolidate into one company, and that the new or consolidated company is to be under the control of the principal capitalists of the Standard Oil Company. This looks very much as if the citizens of the metropolis were to be at the mercy of one gigantic gas company, subjected to whatever ratio they may charge, and compelled to take whatever quality of gas they may design to furnish. All chance for a new company to compete with this consolidated company is cut off by the passage of a law in 1883, which provides that no gas company organized after that date should be allowed to tear up the streets to lay down mains and pipes, and that none but the companies already organized should be allowed that privilege. That was passed on the plea that the streets were constantly being torn up, pavements spoilt and business interfered with by all manner of companies laying down pipes, which ought to be stopped. Under that plea that bill was passed in 1883 and approved by Governor Cleveland. It gave to the then existing gas companies the monopoly in tearing up the streets to lay down gas mains and pipes, and the then existing steam heating companies the monopoly in tearing up the streets to lay down steam pipes, by prohibiting any new company to come in and tear up the pavements for either object. Now comes the proposed consolidation act, which in the light of new developments was intended should follow the passage of the bill shutting all new companies out of the field. The parties interested plainly did not consider it wise or prudent to pass both measures in the same year. They cut off by legislation all new companies from entering the field the first year, and having thus blocked the way against competition, warded off interference and laid the foundation for a big monopoly, now come forward with a consolidation measure and put it through under a disguise. The talk at present is that the gas companies have got to consolidate and make arrangements to furnish gas at lower rates in order to compete with the electric light companies. That is to be the plea made to the public as an argument that consolidation is necessary. It may be that prices will be reduced when the gas is furnished and controlled by one company, but if it is, it will be because the electric light companies have become more dangerous rivals to gas companies than the public have generally supposed.

The mechanics' lien law is still unacted upon by the Governor and its advocates are becoming uneasy in regard to its fate.

No selection has been made by the Governor for commissioners under the act to recommend a mode for lessening the cost and facilitating the transfer of realty in the large cities. The Governor under the phraseology of the act has sixty days in which to make the appointment of those commissioners from the day that he signed the bill. That was on the 21st day of May, which gives him until the 20th of July. He can therefore postpone the subject until after the Chicago Convention if he so desires.

A bill relative to the rights and liabilities of married women has become a law. It provides as follows:

"A married woman may contract to the same extent, with like effect and in the same form as if unmarried, and she and her separate estate shall be liable thereon, whether such contract relates to her separate business or estate or otherwise, and in no case shall a charge upon her separate estate be necessary."

The commission to investigate the tenement houses comprise Alexander Shaler, Joseph W. Drexel, S. O. Vanderpoel, Felix Adler, Oswald Ottendorfer, Moreau Morris, Anthony Reichardt, Joseph J. O'Donohue, Abbot Hodgeman, Charles F. Wingate and William P. Esterbrook. They are charged with the duty of inquiring into the character and condition of tenement houses, lodging houses and cellars in the city of New York. They are given full power to subpœna witnesses and compel their attendance and to require the production of books, papers or documents in the possession of any person summoned as a witness. A refusal to obey on the part of any witness is made a misdemeanor. An appropriation of $5,000 to cover the expense of the commission is made, but the commissioners are to receive no pay.

The act referred to last week, relative to the change of the lines of Mott and Trinity avenues, in the Twenty-third Ward, provides that the new map shall show the change of the width of Trinity avenue, sometimes called Delmonico place, to be 50 feet instead of 80. The actual width now is 50 feet whereas the map on file calls for 80 feet.

The Governor has signed the bill relative to the Commissioners of Accounts, which extends their powers and fixes their salaries at five thousand each. It also gives them power to employ assistants and full power to compel the attendance of witnesses, and not only to examine the accounts and vouchers in each department, but the methods as well; also to make an examination of the Comptroller's and Chamberlain's receipts and disbursements every three months.

The bill of Van Allen has also been approved, which authorizes the Dock Department to determine the lines and plans for the water front on East River, from Eighty-sixth street and through Hell Gate Harbor to the junction of Third avenue on the Harlem River. After the lines of the bulkheads and piers are established, if the department fails to improve the same, then any property holder owning lands abutting on the water in that section is given the right to construct their own docks and piers in accordance with the plans as thus established. This is one of the most important bills recently signed by the Governor.

Up to this writing neither the new building law nor the bill for new parks have been signed, nor has the Fifth avenue repavement bill. All these are in doubt.

The signing of the bill relative to the water front, from Eighty-sixth street around to the Harlem River, evidently means that the bill establishing an exterior street on East River, from Sixty-fourth to Ninety-second street, will not be approved.

The first number of a new volume of THE RECORD AND GUIDE will be issued the first week in July. We desire to remind our readers that we have on hand files each of which is intended to hold the complete numbers for six months. Readers should not fail to preserve their RECORD AND GUIDES from the beginning of each volume to its end, the index which is issued with the final number enabling a ready reference to any item of record contained in the volume. Without a file it is impossible to preserve the papers properly. Files can be obtained at this office on forwarding the regular price, $1.00.

Real Estate Department.

There has not been much doing either at the Exchange or by private sale in the real estate market during the past week. The number of transfers also shows a significant falling off. This, of course, was to have been expected. June is usually a dull month, and the Wall street cyclone had its effect in checking activity in real estate circles. When the accounts are made up it will be found, however, that this will be a good June compared with previous Junes, and the best informed brokers agree in thinking that more property will change hands this summer than in any previous summer since the inflation times of 1869 and 1870. There is a general agreement that the prospect for the fall is very good. The recent troubles in Wall street will necessarily bring more or less realty to the auction block, but as this is not a good season to sell, these properties of bankrupt or embarrassed operators will not be offered until some time in the early fall. It is already known that a large estate of unimproved property, carefully selected by one of the best judges in the market, will be offered early in October. Much of it is valuable west side property in the line of improvement.

The Deane sale has been again postponed. There are rumors to the effect that a settlement with the creditors is being negotiated.

The sales held at the Exchange Salesroom during the week have been few in number and unimportant in character. The sale of the Goble estate was held on Tuesday, but only a few lots on Devoe street, First, Second and Third avenues were disposed of. Sibbern's Club House, with about fifteen city lots on Central avenue, which rents for $1,450 a year, was knocked down to J. F. Goble, executor, for $18,000. The remaining lots (about one hundred) were withdrawn from sale. On Wednesday a lot on One Hundred and Thirteenth street, north side, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, sold for $3,250. On Thursday the store No. 106 Chambers street, south side, 25 west of Church, 24.6x75, was sold after a spirited contest for $66,000. The purchaser, S. Weart, owns the adjoining corner. In the way of foreclosure sales five four-story dwellings on the northwest corner of Seventy-sixth street and Madison avenue, on which about $160,000 was due, sold for $160,750, and the five five-story stone front flats, Nos. 330 to 338 West Fifty-ninth street, against which the German Savings Bank held mortgages on which about $131,700 was due, sold for $141,150.

The comparison of the transactions of the week ending June 14 with the corresponding week of last year is in favor of the present year. Although far behind the business of the previous week we can still find ground for a feeling of satisfaction at the showing made. Here is the table:

Richard V. Harnett will sell on Tuesday, June 17th, the valuable business property Nos. 153, 155 and 157 Crosby street, with well constructed factory buildings. The neighborhood is certain to increase in value for purposes of trade or manufacture.

On the same day Mr. Harnett will dispose of the brick store and dwelling No. 318 Broome street, near Chrystie street, and five very choice up-town lots on One Hundred and Thirty-first street, between Tenth avenue and Grand Boulevard.

Mr. Harnett will also sell on Thursday and Friday, June 19 and 20, the estate of John H. Deane.

On Tuesday next, the 17th inst., James L. Wells will sell two hundred and sixty lots in the Twenty-third Ward, being portions of the old Fox estate, which has recently been partitioned. The property is situated directly on the line of the Suburban Rapid Transit route, 165th, 167th and 169th streets, Stebbins and Westchester avenues. The new Croton Park is but a few hundred feet from the lots, which are on the borders of the Boston road. The ground is easily accessible, and should the Second avenue "L" road be used as a through line, connecting with the Suburban road, this property will be brought within forty minutes' ride of the City Hall. The Manhattan-Metropolitan imbroglio seems now to be settled, and we shall within a few years see Westchester County having local communication right through to Brooklyn via the bridge. Investors will have an opportunity at this sale of buying at figures which in a few years will reap them a handsome profit. Full particulars about the lots can be obtained from the attorney, Mr. Charles Benner, of 132 Nassau street.

On Wednesday, June 18, will be sold at auction some very valuable property at Kingsbridge. It consists of twenty-five acres of land, with a white marble mansion thereon, well known as the Seaman property. The house has every modern improvement, with conservatory, graperies, greenhouses, etc., attached. This place is only an hour's drive from Central Park, and is most desirable for an investment. James Bleecker will conduct the sale.

On Tuesday, June 24, Guerineau & Drake will sell on the Exchange the really fine store property No. 430 Fourth avenue. This is a four-story and basement brown stone front house, splendidly located in a growing business centre. It is rare that there is a chance to secure property in this location.

Out Among the Builders.

Anthony Pfund has the sketches on the boards for two four-story brown stone private dwellings and two five-story brick and brown stone tenements and stores to be erected on the northeast corner of First avenue and Seventy-second street, for Philip and William Ebling, the brewers. The two former will front on the street and the latter on the avenue. The same architect has the plans for a seven-story and basement brick malt house, 200x83, to be erected at Otsego, N. Y., for Stevenson & Gordon, at a cost of from $60,000 to $70,000.

Hugo Kafka & Co. have the plans under way for a five-story brick and brown stone apartment house, 25x82, to be erected on the north side of Fortieth street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues, for John Fallon, at a cost of $16,000. The same architects have the plans for a two-story attic and basement brick and frame cottage, 45x48, to be erected at Riverdale, N. Y., for Mrs. Ida Fraser, at a cost of about $10,000.

J. M. Dunn has the plans under way for two five-story brown stone improved flats, 22.6x60, and 27.6x87 respectively, to be erected at Nos. 334 and 336 West Forty-eighth street, for Peter Strubel, at a cost of $40,000.

Robert B. Lloyd proposes improving his three lots on the north side of Ninety-third street, 100 feet west of the Boulevard, by the erection of several private houses.

John Baird will shortly commence the erection of two four-story brick and brown stone tenements and stores, 25.3x60 each, on the west side of Second avenue, 50.5 feet north of One Hundred and Third street, at a cost of about $18,000. Mr. Baird is both the architect and builder.

A. B. Ogden is the architect for four five-story brick and brown stone tenements, to be built on the northeast corner of Avenue A and Fifty-fifth street, the corner being 25.5x65, and the three adjoining on the avenue, 25x65 each. The cost will be $44,000; owner, Richard Totten. This is the first installment of a large number to be built on twenty-one lots on this site, most of which are now being excavated to make way for the entire improvement, of which particulars were given in our issue of April 26.

J. M. Merrick has the sketches under way for a four-story basement and attic frame hotel, with brick basement, to be erected immediately at Long Branch, N. J., on Ocean avenue, on which it will have a frontage of 88 feet, being 270 in depth, and having a total frontage of 716 feet. It will contain 120 rooms, and the exterior as well as the piazza ceilings will be treated in carbography. The owner is Mr. Jacob Rothschild, of the well-known millinery goods house on Fourteenth street.

Bart. Walther has the sketches on the boards for two five-story brick and brown stone tenements and stores, 24.8x45, and 24.8x80, to be built on the southwest corner of Tenth avenue and Twenty-ninth street, being Nos. 326 and 328 Tenth avenue. Owner, Darius G. Crosby; cost, about $26,000.

Christian Stoehr is about to erect a five-story brick tenement and store, 32x76, on the southeast corner of Second avenue and Thirty-eighth street. Jobst Hoffman is the architect.

Mr. H. K. Thurber informs us that the plan for the Mercantile Exchange will not be finally selected till next week. It will be remembered, as announced in this column on April 5th last, that four architects had been selected as competitors—Messrs. Pfeiffer, Ware, Jackson and Gillvary. Two others also sent in plans—one a Brooklyn architect. These plans have been under consideration by the Building Committee for several weeks, and are now to be submitted to the executive, prior to a full selective vote of the members of the Exchange.

George Martin Huss has the plans on the boards for the erection of a three-story frame cottage, 40x40, at Sing Sing, for Mrs. Granniss at a cost of $4,000.

These have now been abandoned, and he will erect four four-story brown stone flats and stores, each 25x65, at a cost of $72,000, from designs by J. H. Valentine. The latter has also the plans for the erection of five four-story brick flats on the northwest corner of Tenth avenue and Sixty-seventh street by Julius Johnson. Four of them will be 25x65, and the other 22x83. The cost is estimated at $75,000.

The cost is estimated at over $50,000. The same architect has the plans for a two-and-a-half-story and basement brick and frame cottage, about 100x100, to be erected for H. Sanford at Narragansett, R. I., at a cost of $40,000.

The People's Real Estate Tontine has just been incorporated with a capital of $5,000, in one thousand shares of $5 each. The incorporators are Messrs. Paul Fuller, J. P. Crawford, Louis F. Post and Charles F. Adams, the trustees being Messrs. A. J. Steers, Thomas B. Adams, Charles Evans, E. H. Adams, Geo. S. Wilcox and the four incorporators. The object of the Tontine is the accumulation of a fund for the purchase of real estate, and the erection and improvement of buildings.

Alfred Tower, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., intends next year to improve No. 691 Broadway, running through to Mercer street, by the erection of a six-story iron and brick building, equipped with all modern improvements for handling goods and adapted for store purposes. The architect will probably be J. A. Wood.

Brooklyn.

The Board of Supervisors will in two weeks hold a meeting to consider the erection of a Hall of Records on Fulton street, adjoining the building occupied by Register Richards, the dimension of which will be 100x150. The sum to be expended on this new structure is about $250,000, and four architects are stated to have already drawn preliminary sketches, among them being Geo. B. Post and W. A. Mundell.

Mercein Thomas has plans in hand for a four-story brick and stone front apartment house, 23x90, to be erected on Pineapple street, near Fulton, for Mr. Atkinson, the cost of which will be about $18,000.

Th. Engelhardt is preparing plans for a three-story brick extension, 14x75, and a one-story and basement brick building, 56x75, to be erected on the north side of Powers street, 54 feet east of Graham avenue, for Hesemann & Co., the bakers, the cost will be about $7,000; also a three-story frame tenement, 20x50, to be erected at No. 66 Central avenue, for John Repp, cost $4,200.

Robert Dixon has completed plans for a two-story and basement brick school house, 75x65, to be erected on Fulton and Henry avenues, in the town of New Lots; the cost will be about $20,000.

H. Vollweiler has plans in hand for a two-story frame (brick filled) tenement, 25x50, to be erected on the north side of Wallabout street, near Harrison avenue, for Mr. Haaf, cost $4,200.

William Graf is about to erect a three-story brick store and flat on the north side of Fulton street, about 200 feet east of Tompkins avenue, 20x52 and running through to Decatur street, with brown stone front on the last named street; the estimated cost will be about $8,000.

The most remarkable fact brought out by the recent cyclone in Wall street was the solvency of the Board of Brokers. After three years of liquidation and the immense shrinkage in the price of securities, it is surprising that so few failures have occurred among the active dealers in the "street." Indeed many of the firms have prospered, and have largely increased their business. Firms like Prince & Whitely, the Willards, Babcock, and the Osborns apparently have lost the leading places, but younger houses have come to the front. Spencer, Trask & Co. is one of these. This firm has moved into the new Western Union building adjoining the Stock Exchange, and occupies the entire second floor of that large edifice. Its customers have the advantage of having their orders executed without the slightest delay, as the back windows of the office overlook the floor of the Exchange, which is but a few yards distant; hence the execution of any orders anticipates its report on the tape fully five minutes. This house has branch offices in Philadelphia, Albany and Providence, with which it is connected by special wires. It has also private wires to Worcester and Boston. During the season at Saratoga, Spencer Trask & Co.'s branch in the Grand Union probably does more business than all the rest of the New York branch offices combined. The blackboard, both at New York and Saratoga offices, upon which is recorded all the transactions of the day, is so valuable to dealers that it is surprising the other leading brokers have not adopted it, as it tells the story of the day's doings on the Exchange at a glance. George F. Peabody is the junior partner of the firm of Spencer, Trask & Co.

Mr. John C. Collins, of the Board of Health, states that he never knew such a rush of plumbing plans to come in as there has been recently. He thinks we will have a good building year, and that the class of buildings will on the whole be less of a speculative character than in previous years.

Contractors' Notes.

Proposals for the several works, materials, matters and things required for the construction and finishing of two prison buildings, to be erected within the premises bounded by Centre, Elm, Franklin and Leonard streets, will be received by the Commissioners of Public Charities and Correction at No. 66 3d avenue, until Tuesday, June 24, at 9:30 o'clock Specifications and plans may be seen at the above address.

Bids will be received by the Commissioner of Public Works until Tuesday, June 24, at 12 o'clock, for paving, regulating, grading, etc., laying water mains, and for furnishing and delivering branch pipes, special castings and stop-cocks.

Notes and Items.

The Corporation Counsel will make application to the Supreme Court on Friday, July 11, for the appointment of Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment in the matter relative to the opening of One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street, from the easterly line of Tenth avenue to a point 909.3½ east therefrom, and a new avenue from the last mentioned point in a southerly, easterly and northerly direction to Avenue St. Nicholas, opposite One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street.

Strength of Portland Cement.

The Portland cement, as it comes from the factory, is composed of an almost impalpable powder, mixed with coarser grains which have but little adhesive quality. Mann's experiments have shown that in a trial of seven days the portions which pass through a No. 176 sieve (31,000 meshes per square inch) exhibit five times the adhesive strength of those which pass through a No. 103 sieve (10,600 meshes per square inch). The necessity of fine grinding is therefore obvious. In ordinary cement 45.6 per cent. is stopped by the No. 176 sieve, which is the finest that is made. The force of cohesion is much greater than that of adhesion, varying from threefold to tenfold. The adhesive force upon different substances, such as stone, brick, slate, marble, glass, etc., varies greatly. The degree of surface polish has less effect than one would think. According to these experiments, the best test of Portland cement is its adhesive power. The No. 176 sieve ought not to stop more than 45 per cent. of the cement; the part which traverses the sieve should have an adhesive force of 95 pounds, and the unsifted cement of 75 pounds per square inch.—Chronique Industrielle.

Special Notices.

J. H. Bunnell & Co.'s Electric Door Openers are now in use in several apartment houses in this city. They are the most practical and satisfactory in the market. The above firm invites architects, owners and builders to inspect them at their office, No. 112 Liberty street. A description of this useful patent appears in our advertising columns.

The Manhattan House Cleaning Bureau performs a very valuable function in renovating the interior of buildings, stores, dwellings and public structures, as well as the woodwork and furniture contained in them. They renovated and cleaned the Grand Opera House, and cleaned and polished the floors and glass of No. 80 Madison avenue, of which the proprietors are Messrs. T. Robertson, A. W. Rand and J. B. Flagg, to whom they refer. They have also received contracts from Jackson Fletcher, I. A. Hopper and others. They have been established since 1880. The proprietor of this bureau is Mr. James E. Garner, who can be communicated with at the office, No. 234 Seventh avenue.

The friends and clients of Mr. W. W. Montague, the real estate agent, will be glad to learn of his recovery from his recent illness, and that he is again to be seen at his offices on Eighth avenue and Twenty-first street and Ninth avenue and Eightieth street.

Attention is called to the advertisement of James Stewart, which appears in our advertising columns. Mr. Stewart is a carpenter and builder, and gives special attention to the remodeling of houses, stores and offices. Desks, tables and counters are made and fitted up by him on short notice. He attends promptly to jobbing of all kinds and furnishes estimates. He has the best of references. His shop is on the southwest corner of Forty-ninth street and Broadway.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—Common Hards have, as a rule, continued more or less in buyers' favor, and it was a tame sort of market throughout. Demand has continued pretty well up to the former average, and many of the Trade seem to think that from some sections of the city the call came in somewhat fuller volume, if anything, but available supplies afforded a steady balance throughout with always a few cargoes to spare, and receivers did not appear to find a basis for advantage. The noticeable feature of the more recent offerings was to be found in the very small proportion of "Up Rivers," and the decided increase of supply from Haverstraw Bay, the stock of Hudson River bricks afloat at times being composed almost entirely of the latter. As a result of that condition of affairs, the former scarcity of fine stock has been overcome, and the greatest shrinkage in value is on the upper line of quality, bringing cost down from the sort of premium range formerly occupied to a better average adjustment against prices current on the lower grades. We notice again a little irregularity in the manner of making quotations, and some of the figures named, as well as the reasons for naming them, are quite amusing. The leading operators, however, generally seem to agree that for the average run of stock prices may be fairly placed at about $5.25@5.50, or possibly $5.75 for Jerseys, $6.00@6.50 for "Up Rivers," and $6.50@7.00 for Haverstraws, in rare instances $7.25 for extra, with a chance that the range may be a fraction easier by the time this reaches our readers. The old make appears to have become pretty well exhausted, and about all the offering is now of new brick. Manufacturers continue very energetic in pushing forward the production, and most of the yards are now at work to their full capacity. Pale Bricks, when they sell at all, range anywhere from $2 50 up to $3.50, with a bare possibility of reaching 25@50c. per M higher for the finest, but the figure on any grade is largely a matter of chance, just as customers may happen to be caught.

HARDWARE.—The demand shows no special change worthy of note. From interior sources the volume of orders is fair and the local and near-by trade is good, with supply and assortment equal to the outlet and holders quite willing to operate. Indeed, the market is a little easy in some respects, but nothing calculated to force business in any way, as the least attempt to realize would lead to a positive break. The irregularity on Cast Butts has finally been settled by an agreement among manufacturers to abide by the following discount sheet: For Cast Narrow Fast Joint Butts and do. Broad Fast Joint drilled and wire-jointed 40 and 10 and 10 per cent. discount; Cast Narrow Loose Joint Butts, do. Broad Loose Joint, Cast Parliament Butts, Mayer's Hinges all drilled and wire-jointed, Japanned Loose Joint Butts without Acorns, do. with Japanned Tips, do. with Silvered Tips, 60 and 10 per cent. discount; Japanned Fast Joint Butts without Acorns, with Japanned Tips, with Silvered Tips and Japanned Fast Joint Butts narrow, 40 and 10 and 10 per cent. discount; Figured Loose Pin Butts, with Tips, with Japanned Tips, with Silvered Tips, without Acorns, with Japanned Parliament Butts without Acorns, with Japanned Acorns and with Silvered Acorns, 60 and 10 per cent. discount.

LATH.—The possibilities suggested in our last report very soon became realities, and indeed even on the day of our publication the market went all to pieces, and from just the influence expected. Cargoes came piling in upon receivers faster than they could by any means handle them, and the very natural competition to secure an outlet led to sharp reduction on cost, until $2 per M became the rate. At the decline demand spread out over a somewhat more extensive line of customers, and has finally about exhausted the offering, with a firmer feeling extant, and the above rate readily bid, while small sales were made slightly higher. Leading buyers are now fairly stocked, and will not afford much aid to the market for some little time.

LIME.—A change for the better has finally taken place, and there is a recovery on prices for Eastern to 95c. per bbl. for common, and $1.10 for finishing. Arrivals have possibly been a little fuller than last week, but it is generally known that little stock can be expected to follow, owing to the entire suspension of shipments, and buyers were anxious to get possession of such stock as they could find available.

LUMBER.—So far as it goes our local lumber market is holding its own very fairly with other commodities; indeed, in some respects may be considered as doing a trifle better. Certain standard assortments for both building and manufacturing purposes have a steady consumption, with a tendency to increase, if anything, and the indications are favorable for some little time to come, even allowing for the most cautious action of buyers. As we have before explained, a great deal of the immediate city building is of a character not requiring much lumber, but the extreme up-town work, Brooklyn improvements and near-by suburban call are all now commencing to tell and afford an outlet for a considerable amount of stock. This, of course, is reflected back upon the wholesale market, and dealers feel greater encouragement to handle supplies, and receivers experience less difficulty in disposing of any reasonable amount of useful quality. There appears to be no inclination, however, to become at all excited or to assume that the position can immediately undergo a radical change for the better, but, on the contrary, the lesson of many months of experience admonishes the seller that full fair offers are worthy of prompt attention, and that sitting down on stock and waiting for a little better bids is apt to leave the sitter in a very lonesome position.

Eastern Spruce has maintained a very good position. At times the market appeared to waver a little, but ordinary careful management has enabled receivers to place about all their cargoes without resorting to a shading on cost. Even on short stuff we hear claims of doing somewhat better as opportunities for its use occasionally present themselves. Specials are brought in to a fair extent, and accepted at about former rates when buyers do not require very prompt delivery, but manufacturers in many cases show an inclination to indifference. They claim a good and growing trade nearer home, and feel less dependent upon our market than early in the spring. Yard dealers are carrying enough stock for ordinary wants, but in pretty much all cases can add standard assortments without much inconvenience. We quote at $13@15.50 for Random, and thence up to $15.75@17 for specials.

White Pine in some cases is reported to be fairly active, but as a rule there is a complaint of dull trade, and holders evidently do not feel that the outlet offered is a fair offset to the amount of stock available and gradually accumulating. Our dealers are not buying to any extent just now, but are receiving a great deal on old contracts, and, as a rule, find that stock is delivered as rapidly as the terms of agreement will permit. The assortment, too, is improving somewhat, and little difficulty would be experienced in making any ordinary selection. Exporters are doubtful customers, for while moving prompt enough on actual orders, they receive these in an irregular manner, and will not invest beyond. We quote at $17.50@19 for West India shipping boards; $25@28 for South American do.; $14@15 for box boards, and $16.00 @17.50 for extra do.

Yellow Pine seems to lose even the support of being talked up, and operators from the necessities of the case are more generally admitting the dull and discouraging condition of affairs. There is naturally a certain degree of hope for improvement still remaining, but exactly from whence the change to a better position is to obtain its growth is not clearly shown, either as regards demand or prices. After all, however, there must have been some fair selling done since the opening of the year, as the receipts ran rather full especially last month, and very little of the stuff came upon the market in the way of a random offering. We quote as follows: Randoms, $18@20.50 per M; Specials, $20@21.00 do.; Green Flooring Boards, $22@23; Dry do., do., $22@24; Siding, $22@23 do.; Cargoes f. o. b. at Atlantic ports, $14@14.50 for rough, and $19@22 for dressed. Cargoes f. o. b. at Gulf ports, $13@14 for rough, and $18 @20 for dressed.

Hardwoods generally are called steady, and sellers who can offer a first-class selection obtain full rates readily. Buyers, and particularly manufacturers and shippers, have no use for faulty stock, and still persistently refuse to allow the undesirable assortments in some cases sent in here to be saddled upon them under the sellers' erroneous classification of quality. We quote at wholesale rates by car load as follows: Walnut, $65@110 per M.; ash, $35@40 do.; oak, $30@55 do.; maple, $20@32.50 do.; chestnut, $25@30 do.; cherry, $40@75 do.; whitewood, $27@35 do., do.; elm, $22@25; hickory, $45@52.50 do.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

ALBANY MARKET.

The Argus reports for week ending June 10 as follows:

There has been a moderate demand during the week, without any reported transactions of magnitude. The stock on the yards is increasing and will soon be as large as is usually carried. The difficulty with the boatmen at Tonawanda has been arranged, and a large quantity of lumber has been shipped, which will soon fill up the assortment and supply of Michigan Pine. From Canada receipts have been continuous and the usual stock will be found on the yards, dry and ready for use. Spruce and Hemlock are arriving daily from northern New York, and the supply will now be kept up for the remainder of the season. Hardwoods of all kinds and qualities are in fair stock, and seasoned lumber will be found on the yards. Shingles of all kinds and qualities are in sufficient supply. Lath are coming in daily, and will be kept in full stock during the season.

THE WEST.

SAGINAW VALLEY

LUMBERMAN'S GAZETTE,
BAY CITY, MICH., June 9, 1884.

Much prominence has been given in this market this week to the troubles between scalpers and the boatmen's association at Tonawanda, and the trade was said to have suffered greatly on that account. As made up for the week ending Saturday night, the shipments show a decline of 1,821,000 feet from the week previous. For that time the shipments to Tonawanda were 7,355,000 feet as compared with 10,838,000 for the week previous, a decline of 3,483,000 feet. Buffalo also took 445,000 feet less during the week. The total sales, however, being but 1,811,000 feet less, shows that other markets must have taken 2,107,000 more.

With this matter settled, the shipments will probably continue as large as ever. The market, however, is in an uncertain position. There is no prospect of a drop in prices either here or in Chicago. Prices average about 45 cents less than last year and about $2.50 less than 1882, and with a continuance or betterment in the demand an advance is almost certain to be made, dealers considering the ability of the East and the circumstances of the case warranting the move. There has been no change in freights either by rail or water for the week. In comparison with last week the shipments from Saginaw show a decline of 371,000 feet, being 5,844,000, against 6,215,000 feet the week previous.

LUMBERMAN AND MANUFACTURER,
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

No change is noted in the extent or character of the lumber trade in the West during the month. A strong steady demand for dry stuff is noted everywhere.

In the river cities from Hannibal to St. Paul the mills are being pushed to their capacity, and the demand for special bill stuff is notably large. Chicago figures are freely met west of the river, and nearly all the lumber crossing the river goes to yards owned by Chicago men. The movement of lumber and logs on the river was never so heavy as at present. It seems like a determined effort to get away as far as possible from northwestern railroads with all the lumber cut.

There is a visible falling off in shipments out of Wisconsin, notwithstanding some of the operators are making special efforts to place lumber. Minneapolis is shipping about 4,000,000 per week and receiving about 2,000,000, one-third of the receipts being hardwood and a fair per cent. special heavy stuff, which is very difficult to obtain here. As to prices there are less rumors of cutting than usual, about the only reports of that character being from road men who failed to make sales, hence we conclude that there is no unusual slashing. Dry stuff is about played out.

In the log market of Minneapolis there seems to be such a wide margin between buyer and seller that nothing is done. On the St. Croix and at La Crosse logs are selling freely at $7 to $12. The log drives on all the streams are being unusually successful. There will be as small a per cent. of logs hung up as was ever known on the western waters. In fact it is about a clean sweep.

CUBA.

Late mail advices from Havana report:

Lumber—No improvement reported in the demand, prices still ruling nominal for both white and pitch pine, with which the market continues abundantly supplied. Cooperage Stocks—Box shooks unchanged at 9 rs. Hogshead Shooks—Heavy stocks, which continue to be slowly retailed at from 15@16 rs for sugar and 20@24 rs for molasses, said prices including headings. Empty Casks—The cargoes, ex Odorilla and Agnes P. Grace, Philadelphia, were delivered on contract at $5, and 770, ex Saratoga, New York, were sold on private terms. Hoops—Several lots long shaved, from New York and Philadelphia, were sold this week at from $18 per mille.

ENGLAND.

The London Timber Trade's Journal, referring to Hardwoods, says:

Cedar has been selling freely, and no wonder whilst prices such as those now ruling are current, which is sure to limit supplies; consequently, buyers are pretty safe in laying in stock now.

American Black Walnut.—There seemed more buyers and better animation in the biddings for the unreserved lots offered at last sale. We suppose buyers think it well to secure some of the cheap lots before this cargo is all gone. In contrast with this cargo we notice some prime large logs have just arrived alongside. The shippers seem now to have stopped sending over cut stuff, and perhaps they are wise to leave us to convert our own logs as we think best.

The trade in American whitewood seems to be fast developing into a big business. This wood is evidently finding favor amongst both cabinet and pianoforte makers. We notice some good plank stuff has just arrived.

Porto Rico satinwood, out of the small parcel in last Tuesday's sale, anything large and figured found ready buyers at high prices; clearly this sort of thing is what is wanted.

The stock of bird-eyed maple is considerable, and we believe obtainable now at prices below import cost; nevertheless it is only the one sale on Thursday next.

METALS.—COPPER—Ingot has continued to sell slowly, and the market generally presented a dull tone. Holders, however, had the stock very well in hand and would not accept lower rates. The quotations remain at 14c. for Lake, and from that down to 13c. for other brands. Manufactured copper has been less active with business confined mainly to job lots, but the old line of prices remains current. We quote as follows: Brazier's Copper, ordinary size, over 16 oz. per sq. foot, 22c.

per lb.; do. do. do., 16 oz. and over 12 oz. per sq. foot, 24c. per lb.; do. do., 10 and 12 oz. per sq. foot, 27c. per lb.; do., do., lighter than 10 oz. per sq. foot, 29c. per lb.; circles less than 84 inches in diameter, 25c. per lb.; 84 inches in diameter and over, 28c. per lb.; segment and pattern sheets, 25c. per lb.; locomotive fire-box sheets, 23c. per lb.; Sheathing Copper, over 12 oz. per sq. foot, 20c. per lb., and Bolt Copper, 23c. per lb. IRON—Scotch Pig meets with a moderate uncertain demand still, and the market has a weak tone for all grades, though openly holders offer no important concessions. Supplies ample. We quote at $19.00@22.00 per ton, according to brand, etc. American Pig has a sort of regular trade demand, but beyond that the supplies cannot be placed, and the market is without many encouraging features. Prices have not fluctuated to any great extent and on the favorite brands appear to be fairly sustained. We quote $20.00@21.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry, $18.50 @19.50 for No. 2 X do. do., and $18.00@18.50 for gray forge. Old rails seem to be under considerable neglect and the sales only in odd jobbing parcels, with prices somewhat weak. Scrap iron continues more or less nominal in values, the movement of supplies proving too small to test the position. We quote at $19.00@21.00 for tee rails, $22@23.00 for double heads, $22.00@23.00 for No. 1 wrought scrap ex ship, $23.50@24.00 for selected do., $18.00@19.00 for old car wheels, and $22.00@23.00 for crop ends. Steel Rails find pretty general neglect, and it is difficult to obtain contracts except for very small lots. That in connection with quite a full offering for resale has a weakening influence on values. We quote at $31 00@32.00 per ton for heavy sections. Manufactured Iron is becoming less active, as early wants are very well provided for. About former rates are asked for most descriptions, but the figures somewhat nominal and the tone weak. We quote Common Merchant Bar, ordinary sizes, at 2.0@2.10c. from store, and Refined at 2.10@2.45c.; Rods, round and square, 2.20@2.35c.; Bands, 2.50@2.60c.; Norway Nail Rods, 5¼@6c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 2.80@ 3.10c. for common Nos. 10@16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars. LEAD—Domestic Pig has further shaded somewhat on cost without attracting additional demand, and the market has a dull, tame tone Openly the offerings are moderate, but plenty of stock can always be found when called for. We quote at about 3⅝@3¾c. per lb., according to brand and the size of invoice handled. The manufactures of lead are steady and quoted: Bar, 5c.; pipe, 6¼c.; and sheet, 7¼c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin-lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe, 45c., on same terms. TIN—Pig undergoes little change. Now and then a slight flurry takes place, but most of the demand is from the regular trade in search of ordinary parcels of stock, and shows no hurry or excitement. The offering is fair against all outlets shown. We quote at 18⅝@19c. for Straits and Australian, 19⅛@19⅝ for English, and 21@20½c. for Banca. Tin Plates are quiet. About former rates continue to be named on store lots, but offerings from vessel or pier can occasionally be reached at some concession. The demand is mainly from regular sources. We quote I. C. Charcoal, third class assortment, $5.35@5.35 for Allaway grade, and $6.10@6.20 for Melyn grade; for each additional X add $1.25 and $1.50 respectively; I. C. Coke, $4.75@4.80 for B. V. grade; $4.87½@4.90 for J. B. grade; Charcoal terne, $4.75@5.10 for Allaway and Dean grades 14x20; $9.80@10.20 for do. 20x28; Coke terne, $4.55@4.60 for Glais grade 14x20, and $9.50@9.55 for do. 20x28—all in round lots. Spelter has been selling to a fair extent, and while the supply was quite equal to the outlet offered, holders supported steady values as a rule. We quote at 4⅝@ 5c. for domestic and foreign, according to brand, quantity, etc. Sheet Zinc steady with an average business doing on jobbing orders. We quote at 5⅞@ 7c., according to quality, quantity, etc.

NAILS.—Demand has been moderate and at times somewhat uncertain but in pretty much all cases showing a determination on the part of buyers to confine their operations to the limits of well-assured requirements. As current consumption is only fair and has been in part anticipated through previous purchases the wants are limited and easily satisfied from the accumulation in hand. Under the circumstances the maintenance of former rates is about all sellers expect or accomplish and when anything beyond an ordinary sized parcel is placed it generally becomes necessary to make a shading. We quote at $2.45@2.60 per keg for 10d to 6 d according to size of invoice.

The Western Nail Association met at Pittsburg on Wednesday last, and reduced its card rate from $2.60 to $2.40 per keg. Trade is quite dull, the stock of nails which was accumulated some months ago being still almost intact. Nearly all of the mills west of the Alleghenies were represented at the meeting.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Dealings have been moderate in first hand goods and with occasional signs of irregularity on values. It is, however, not an unseasonable condition of affairs and importers and manufacturers are prepared for it though expecting a proper revival in due time. Accumulations not only heavy but tending to increase somewhat and the effort is now to check further growth if possible. Linseed Oil meeting with about an ordinary demand and steady at 57@58c. for domestic and 58@59c. for foreign. Spirits Turpentine slow and weak at 30½@32c. per gallon, according to size of invoice, delivery, etc.

PITCH AND TAR.—Business moderately active in a jobbing way with no really new features shown on the general market. Stock are held steadily. We quote: Pitch, $2.25@2.30 per bbl; Tar, $2.50@2.00 do., according to quantity, quality and delivery.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

J. H. Bunnell & Co.'s
ELECTRIC DOOR OPENERS
For Apartment Houses.

PATENTED APRIL 29, 1884; other Patents Applied For.

A large number of J. H. Bunnell & Co.'s Electric Door-Openers are now in use in apartment houses in this city. Experience demonstrates their great practical superiority over the usual kind known as "the Mechanical Door-Opener."

With the Electric Door-Opener, the front door is instantly unlatched by simply pressing an electrical button, placed wherever convenience requires it; and as the connection can be made with any number of buttons, they may be so located that the door may be unlatched from any point on any floor of the largest house with equal ease.

This Electric Door-Opener completely obviates all the well known difficulties and expenses arising from the stretching and repairing of "pull-wires," as the work is perfectly performed by the electric current which passes through stationary wires.

Architects and owners are invited to inspect the operation of this device at our office, or at any of the apartment houses where it is in use. For information, prices, or reference regarding those in use, communications addressed to us will be promptly answered by mail or personal call by our Agents, who will also furnish estimates upon other electrical work of every description.

The Stock Market halts. Jay Gould is trying to create some activity in his specialties but the general feeling is on the whole a depressing one. It is expected that on or before the first of July several more roads will go into bankruptcy. Then the earnings on the Vanderbilt roads show that New York Central and Lake Shore do not earn, though they may pay, eight per cent. on their stocks. But better times are coming. There is a large wheat harvest already under way. A great deal of corn has been planted and is growing and if the Democrats make a good conservative nomination for the presidency, a bull movement in stocks will be in order early in July. Many good bonds are selling for what seem to be very low figures. General business cannot be considered good but if the crops turn out as well as they now promise, trade next fall will be far more satisfactory than it has been this spring,

The Evening Post admits that the Independents and anti-Blaine Republicans can in no case form a third party organization ; they must vote for the Democratic candidate or abstain from voting for President altogether. In fact the organizing of a new party is a work of prodigious difficulty. It requires time, money and earnest labor. Unfortunately also for the Independents they have no new departure in politics to recommend ; they have no programme beyond a profound repugnance to Mr. Blaine and his methods. True, they champion civil service reform, but there is no longer any danger that any party will go back to the old spoils system. Even Mr. Blaine, if elected, would be forced to follow the policy of Mr. Arthur who, out of office and as a so-called practical politician, was a believer in the old way of doing things.

Some of the petroleum speculators finding business dull are organizing a new Exchange to deal in fractional shares of stock. There are many who think that the English plan of making ten shares the unit of delivery would be a good thing to do. It would kill the bucket shops, would largely increase the business of the Stock Exchange and would put small investors on an equality with large operators, to the great advantage of the market in panicky times. There are literally hundreds of thousands of small capitalists all over the country who would invest in ten and twenty-share lots whenever there was a heavy break in prices. The ready money thus poured into Wall street would help to check the course of a panic. But why a new Exchange to do this? It could be better done by the Stock Exchange itself or by the Mining and Petroleum Exchange, which has over a thousand members, all of whom are not making their fortunes. There are too many Exchanges already, and any new one is probably a scheme to sell seats or create several salaried positions for impecunious speculators who need the money.

The lawyers are anything but pleased at the settlement of the elevated road litigation. General Francis C. Barlow resigned his position as counsel of the Metropolitan Company immediately the settlement was effected, but at the same time he presented a bill amounting to over $96,000, of which some $45,000 was for the expenses of the Van Brunt trial. General Barlow was first employed, we believe, in December, 1882, and if all his bills are like those he has presented to the Metropolitan Company he is not likely to die in the poor-house. The Tribune says that both Jay Gould and Cyrus W. Field were astounded at the bill. It is not, however, likely to be paid until the bills of William M. Evarts and David Dudley Field, and the other numerous lawyers employed on both sides, are presented for settlement. The stockholders of the elevated roads will have to pay a pretty penny for the worse than useless services of these legal gentlemen. Our courts are organized to benefit lawyers, not to settle disputes. The various Stock and Mercantile Exchanges have found this out and their members are expelled if they go to law. The great corporations would do well to follow this example and to organize arbitration committees to settle disputes. They have made a good beginning in their pooling arrangements, which were a device to get rid of railway wars ; but the same machinery would be equally useful in settling business and even legal disputes. Had the matter been left to the courts, the elevated road troubles would have been prolonged for many long years. The disagreement was finally settled by the stockholders most interested against the protests of the lawyers engaged in the case.

There ought to be some machinery to protect the business public against the exactions of lawyers. When a particularly monstrous bill is now rendered the victim has no remedy. If he appeals to a court, the witnesses examined are all lawyers, that have a pecuniary interest in setting an extravagant value on legal services. But unfortunately there is no chance for redress, as the legislators that make laws are almost exclusively composed of lawyers.

The veto of the new proposed building law by Governor Cleveland is simply inexplicable. It had the indorsement of every conservative interest in the building business. Not a voice was raised against it except from those whose opposition should have been an argument in its favor. The "snide" builders seem to have got possession of the Governor's ear, for it is probable that the respectable interests who favored the law were so certain of its merits that they did not care to take up the time of the Governor with arguments in its favor.

Governor Cleveland will have the seventy-two votes of New York in the Chicago convention, but he will not have behind him the moral force of a unanimous party backing. John Kelly and Tammany is bitterly opposed to him, the Sun has pronounced against him, and Samuel J. Tilden wants Randall nominated. Still Cleveland may get the prize, as he is the favorite of the anti-Blaine Republicans.

North New York.

The region beyond the Harlem will, from this time forth, be of the greatest interest to dealers in realty. Its area is nearly as large as the island south of the Harlem River, and is as yet comparatively unsettled. The approval of the new park bills by the Governor, the progress of the work for draining that region, the settlement of the elevated road troubles and the near commencement of the construction of the Suburban Rapid Transit lines are among the factors which will open a new era for the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards. When the next Legislature meets a demand will be made for the creation of a new ward east of the Bronx River, and taking in all that part of Westchester County which fronts the Sound and lies between Port Morris and the north shore of Pelham Bay.

Enterprising promoters and real estate dealers will now begin to carry out plans long formed with respect to this region. The new parks will give added values to certain properties heretofore unavailable. The route of the Suburban Rapid Transit roads will be scanned with a view to forming settlements near stations. Plots will be laid out for building purposes overlooking the parks, and including that beautiful sheet of water, Pelham Bay. Neighborhood parks will be laid out similar to Bedford Park, London, or Llewellyn Park, on the Orange Mountain. Pleasure resorts for Sundays and holidays in entirely new locations will be brought into existence. In short, promoters and enterprising dealers with the maps before them and a good insight as to the possible future of localities will lay the foundations of fortunes to be realized within the coming years.

But northern New York will satisfy other needs besides those for residence and recreation. It is destined to be the seat of many manufactories. The land is cheap, railways to all parts of the country will be at their very doors, and a factory population can live in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards at a minimum of expense. There are some drawbacks, which will be overcome in a few years. Coal, lumber and building material is costly to handle, due to insufficient dock accommodations on the Harlem River. Hence the necessity for the immediate construction of the Harlem canal. Were that finished before the close of 1885 a great impetus would be given to building operations in the region north of the Harlem, but distant from the shores of the North River and the Sound.

The present Park Commission will have oversight of the work of caring for the new parks. Governor Cleveland was justified in not approving the law which would have changed the personnel of this department. Three new commissioners, no matter how competent they might have been, would have lacked the experience of Messrs. Crimmins, Viele, Olliffe and Wales. It is understood that the court proceedings will be consummated without any unnecessary delay, and that by next spring over 1,500 acres of new park land will be thrown open to the public for recreative purposes. There is plenty of land for parade grounds, shooting matches, ball matches, athletics, sport of all kinds as well as picnics. In our Albany letter will be found a very full statement of the character of the new parks which are about to be opened to our citizens.

Our Prophetic Department.

MR. BRUIN—You have been talking hopefully, Sir Oracle, about the business situation, but you surely must be disappointed at the immediate outlook. There is stagnation on the street. Were it not for Jay Gould's obvious manipulation of Missouri Pacific and Western Union, Stock Exchange figures would range far lower than they do.

SIR ORACLE—I must say that I think the manipulation of the market for the past two years by Gould, Vanderbilt, Villard and the various syndicates who had created new securities for sale, was on the whole hurtful to legitimate trading. Had there been no "pegging" and "washing," the cyclone of last May would have been anticipated by at least a year, and the market would have recovered naturally, but the artificial stimulants applied to prices only made matters worse in the long run. The liquidation was bound to come, and the sooner it was over the better for all concerned. When the Northern Pacific bubble burst last summer, it would have been well to have let the whole market go, but now that we have had our stock panic, I am disposed to look somewhat hopefully on the situation.

MR. BRUIN—I do not see on what you base your expectations. We are importing more than we export. The crops abroad are so promising that Europe will not need much of our grain. Our manufacturing industry is at a standstill, and the army of the unemployed is steadily increasing in numbers. The business public are apprehensive that Blaine may be elected, for it is believed his foreign policy would lead us into broils with other nations. The Democratic party gives us no hope of anything better. Governor Cleveland is, as you have said, a very common-place person. If Senator Bayard is chosen for the Democratic standard bearer, he has nothing to recommend him but a high personal character. He has no executive experience whatever, and he is a fanatical gold mono-metallist. If elected he would make war not only on silver but on the greenbacks.

SIR O.—There is something in what you say; but I confidently predict a better range of prices before the close of July. Our grain crop, that is wheat, rye, barley and the like, will be the largest ever grown in the country; and as for corn there has, as you know, been an immense area planted. We have a good though not a very large cotton crop. The country is steadily increasing in population, and hence the conditions exist for a higher range of values on the street. Stocks and good bonds are intrinsically cheap.

MR. BRUIN—And yet, as you know, there are roads that must go into bankruptcy on the first of July, if not before. One of them is the Denver & Rio Grande, another may be the Louisville & Nashville.

SIR O.—I have kept all that in mind, and the hesitancy of the market is probably due to fears of unpleasant disclosures as to insolvency when the July interest accounts are due. I find that there is even a greater falling off in business in foreign railway systems, but without any such depression as exists on this side of the Atlantic. Let me read you the following extract from the financial column of the Commercial Bulletin, and you will see there is more chance for a rise in our markets than in the foreign investment shares. (Reads.)

The gross earnings of sixty companies exhibit a total of $18,038,831 for May, against $17,457,303 for the same month of 1883, showing an increase of 3⅓ per cent. For the first five months of the year the gross earnings amount to $85,396,000, against $83,110,000 for the same period of last year, being an increase of 2¾ per cent. Much as the London papers indulge in criticisms at the expense of our railroads, neither English nor Continental roads can make an equal exhibit of recent business. The earnings of seventeen principal British railroads for the first five months of the year show a decline of 1 per cent. The six leading lines of France show a reduction, for four and a half months, of 1¼ per cent. The receipts of the Prussian State railways, for the first quarter of the year, fell off about 2¼ per cent.; and the Austrian system shows a reduction of over 3½ per cent. The Grand Trunk of Canada and the Canadian Pacific, up to the third week of May, fall 7½ per cent. below last year. It will be seen from this comparison that the American lines are doing better than those of other leading countries; and yet American railroad stocks are subject to a depreciation such as exists nowhere else. If foreign investors could clear their vision of prejudice, they would see an important advantage in selling European railway stocks and investing, if only temporarily, in the better class of American shares.

MR. BRUIN—To what do you attribute this remarkable dullness in business all over the world, especially in Europe?

SIR O.—To the efforts of the commercial world to enforce gold mono-metallism. Any addition to the precious metals is a wholesome stimulant to trade. All reductions of currency, especially when gold or silver is withdrawn, is a vital blow to the business of the world. The debtor class, in which are included all merchants, manufacturers and producers, are exploited for the benefit of the capitalist, banking and lending classes. When currency of any kind is withdrawn, it means a shrinkage of values.

MR. BRUIN—As there is no hope of the rehabilitation of silver, I do not see how you can look for any marked advance in prices. You have quoted Samuel Benner. In page 140 of the new edition of his prophecies, he predicts that 1884 will be a period of dull trade, for iron will continue to droop. He expects, I notice, a somewhat better trade in 1885, but the tide will not really turn until the close of 1888, when there will be an upward surge in prices, to be followed by a tremendous boom in 1889. Then as to the corn crop, he predicts a poor one this year, for the weather promises to be moist and cool. He gives tables showing that every eight years or thereabouts there are heavy rainfalls and floods in the Ohio and Mississippi Valley. We have had floods so far in 1884 and we shall also have them in 1885. Benner's tables on pages 158, 159 and 160 are well worth reading by those interested in the corn and hog crops of the country.

SIR O.—Well, we shall see. I quite agree with Benner that there is no hope for any great improvement in the business of the country while the price of iron rules low. All I expect is that the very large growing crops will give our railroads plenty to do and help restore public confidence in their value. Despite Benner's prophecies, I believe we shall have a large corn crop this year. Even should the summer be wet and cool, there is so much corn planted and the conditions vary so greatly from Maine to Texas and from Florida to Oregon that we cannot help but have a large crop of that greatest and most valuable of American productions, corn.

Concerning Men and Things.

The daily press rather overdid the matter in lauding the management of the Sheepshead Bay racing course for the improvements that had been made. It is true the track has been widened, the eating accommodation improved and a few flower beds planted. The grand stand remains what it was, but all the races are run in subordination to the wants and wishes of the bookmakers and gamblers. It is remarkable what an amount of gratuitous advertising the press does for these racing clubs. They publish conspicuously every day in their news columns all the entries of the races and the state of the betting. The advertising bills of the clubs owning the grounds do not amount to over a few hundred dollars each meeting. Were they to pay the regular rates for the announcements they get it would cost them tens of thousands of dollars. Of course, they distribute free tickets to the editors and reporters, and hence the gratuitous notices they get. Sheepshead Bay course is the best, as it is the most pupular in the country, but it is notorious that many of the races are mere hippodroming affairs, and that the gamblers have every chance to get the best of the verdant betting public.

Mr. T. B. Connery, the new editor of Truth, seems to have a grudge against Charles A. Dana. It charges him with being a member of the famous community at Brook Farm, near Boston, which is quite true. But it also alleges that that community was a nest of free lovers, which is the very reverse of the truth. The young social reformers who commenced life in that community were men and women who subsequently led the cleanest of lives, socially considered. They were enthusiasts, and doubtless heterodox in many of their views, but their motto was that of the great English scholar: "Pure living, high thinking." No similar number of young people turned out so many literary notabilities as did Brook Farm. Among them were Nathaniel Hawthorne, George William Curtis, Margaret Fuller, George Ripley, W. E. Channing, Charles A. Dana, Parke Godwin and a score of others of equally honorable renown. Ralph Waldo Emerson and other noted literary men often visited the community and were in sympathy with its aims. Mr. Connery errs, of course, through ignorance in speaking so disparagingly of Brook Farm.

Judge John Fitch, the well-known ex-register of bankruptcy, and who has been so successful in Wall street of late years, thinks the stock market is bound to go up. "Set me down as a bull," he said to the writer. "Stocks and especially good bonds are very low. We have passed low water mark and henceforth will be on the mend. The enormous crop of small grain now maturing will give the railroads all they can do, no matter what the price. Then look at the vast quantity of corn seed that has been put into the ground. Even should we have an unfavorable season for corn, there has been so much planted in every part of the country that we cannot but have a very large crop. Then the politics of the country is settled for eight years to come. For Blaine will be elected, and then re-elected, and there will be no disturbance of the tariff, hence good times."

"I am a great believer in Western Union," said Mr. Harry Rogers to the writer. "It has never sold for what it is worth. Those who knew most about the value of that stock were the severest sufferers, for they were long of it up in the seventies. During the present crisis," continued Mr. Rogers, "we narrowly escaped the worst stock panic ever known, simply because the national bank managers lost their heads. Were it not that the Bank of the State of New York agreed to loan $3,000,000 on government securities, several well-known bankers, identified with one of the greatest interests of the street, would have become bankrupt, and I believe that half the brokers who did business on the Exchange would have defaulted on their contracts, which would have been a terrible calamity. In the bank of which I am a director I strongly urged that every dollar should be placed at the disposal of solvent dealers, for if they were allowed to go overboard it would cause needless ruin and hurt the banks. I have always held that banks which lent freely at the top of the market, and then refused all accommodations when prices were at the bottom and a panic impending, did not do their duty to their customers or the public."

Home Decorative Notes.

—The parlors of our town or country houses are the rooms of all others where good taste, elegance and comfort, both in decoration and furniture, should be displayed more or less as circumstances dictate; the drawing-room should not only contain works of art and works for pleasant study, but should also be a room in which one need not fear to move about lest something be thrown down or otherwise disarrange the formality. We all know how uncomfortable it is to be ushered into a room which has the appearance of being specially reserved for guests; we should therefore endeavor not to treat it as a show place to be rarely entered, but strive to make a cheerful living room of it where one can enjoy books, papers, music and other amusements, as well as a place to receive our friends and guests.

—A unique match safe is a brass purse one end of which is partially opened, showing several gold coins, while the other serves as a receptacle for the matches.

—Very pleasing bureau covers are of momie cloth traced with the fancy crackle design in filoselle.

—A novel hat rack has three spears of black walnut tipped with silver and fastened together in tripedal form with heavy cord and tassels, silver hooks for holding hats and coats are fastened on each spear.

—A piece of dainty effect is a baby's carriage blanket of snow white flannel, wrought with a golden cobweb, within which are caught shaded yellow roses, a lining of blue surah silk completes this charming article.

—The woodwork in a room should partake of the same colors as the paper or hangings used upon the walls.

—A simple way to decorate a waste-paper basket is to first stain it with mahogany staining, then cut four squares of gold netting and face the edges with red plush, fasten one point at the top of the basket and decorate the one which falls below with plush balls; a large satin bow may be added to one corner.

—The newest and most attractive ornamental vases are of oxidized silver with ornamentations in imitation of old coins, the effect is very rich and unique.

—Tripod tables may be very prettily ornamented by covering the top with shaded red plush, drape the sides with the same material, and fasten at each corner with silk pompons and loops of heavy silk cord; where the legs of the table are joined tie a large bow of satin ribbon corresponding to the different shades of plush.

—Delicate sachets are of very light blue surah silk with one side embroidered with the wild rose design in chenille, finish the edges with white soft lace.

—Very beautiful wedding gifts are the hammered brass or copper sconces, so arranged as to hang upon the wall or stand upon the table; at the extreme right of the frame is a tiny clock, while at the left is a fancy bracket, arranged to support a candle.

—Court-plaster made at home is economical, and is said to be highly successful. Dissolve one pint of French isinglass in one pint of warm water, to this add ten cents worth of pure glycerine and five cents worth of tincture of arnica, lay a piece of black or of white silk on a board and paint it over with the mixture.

—Exquisite lunch cloths, with pretty doilies to match, are of momie cloth with tiny birds fluttering here and there outlined with light and dark blue linen thread, fringe the cover all around to the depth of about five inches, the whole effect is excellent.

—In hanging pictures the brightest colors should be put in the darkest corners.

—The high art rugs turned out by our manufacturers are chiefly after Indian and Persian designs, the taste for these is growing and like their prototypes they will associate with noble apartments and rich furniture; Turkish and Persian rugs are made with five-eighth borders to match.

—A novel mural decoration is placques of straw gilded, silvered or bronzed and decorated with large square satin bows of bright colors.

—All sorts of strange articles are used for holding flowers, among the newest and rather peculiar receptacles are the wooden sabots; the beauty of these wall pockets consists in their odd ugliness, they are painted on the instep with a representation of leather straps and the words "One, two, come buckle my shoe," painted or etched thereon.

—A very elegant clock lambrequin is of plush with a spray of passion flowers embroidered in silk, it is not necessary to fasten it to the mantel as the clock will keep it in place.

—A grand mistake is made in overloading rooms with fancy articles, for in this way the most inharmonious things are brought together, thus destroying the whole effect, a few articles well selected will give much better satisfaction.

—An ever-widening horizon opens out before the true designer in ornament who stamps individual expression on his work, an expression which has value whether the material be coarse or fine; the effect of fashion on ornament in countless articles of utility or intended solely for decorative purposes has to be recognized by manufacturers; numerous unique and charming effects in silver, gold and copper have recently been produced by the Derby Silver Co., of No. 3 Union square; rare and new designs in sconces of silver and copper with birds, butterflies and various insects in repousse work and framed in imitation of bamboo; square and round tables of richly chased brass, with shelves for odd vases, bric-a-brac, etc.; placques of the most beautiful perfection of finish and graceful tracery worked up in seven different colors; a particularly attractive design is taken from Othello.

In answer to J. W., we would state that the Corlears Hook Park which Governor Cleveland has just sanctioned is seven acres in extent. It is bounded by Cherry street on the north, Jackson street on the west, and the East River on the south and east. It will be a lonesome part of the city at night, but there are multitudes of people on the east side who will be grateful for this breathing space. If lit up at night by the electric light, and if bathing places are supplied along the shores, it will be a very popular resort on summer evenings and nights. A fine band ought to be one of its attractions in the summer season. Of course this park will greatly benefit property in the neighborhood. It may not lead to the construction of costly houses, but it will create a demand for places of amusement and refreshment, and will lead to the erection of a better class of tenements than those constructed heretofore. The market to which our correspondent alludes will be located at Governeur slip, extending from Water street to the river. This slip is 210 feet wide and some 330 long from Water to South street. The proposition is not to have sheds but to throw the slip open to farmers' wagons and market gardeners. If successful this might in time lead to the establishment of a regular market in the vicinity. Wherever a new traffic is established property is, of course, benefited.

One day last week an interview with ex-Governor Benj. F. Butler appeared in all the morning papers. It was written by himself and sent by his secretary manifolded to the several offices. Butler writes all his own interviews, as do many other public men. The position of the ex-Governor of Massachusetts is peculiar and quite unique in our politics. He is the presidential candidate of the Greenbackers, working men, and the "rag-tag and bobtail" of the various "come-outers" organizations, yet he is the chairman of the Democratic delegation from Massachusetts to the Chicago Convention. Of course he is merely using his following for his own purposes. He will cast his lot with the Democrats if they offer him position, but if they do not give satisfactory terms, he has no objections to forming an alliance with the Blaine Republicans. He speaks very respectfully of the Republican standard bearer, which is all the more remarkable, as James G. Blaine is one of the few men who ever got the best of Benjamin F. Butler in a heated personal debate in the House of Representatives.

The New York Cremation Company (Limited) has purchased fourteen lots in East Williamsburg, Long Island, on which it will build a stone crematory in the Ionic style of architecture, which will cost about $50,000. In addition to the incinerating retort it will contain a hall for religious ceremonies and a memorial hall for the reception of the urns containing the ashes of the cremated bodies. Work will be commenced immediately. The crematory when finished can be reached in about thirty minutes from any of the east side ferries. The edifice will be situated on an eminence which overlooks the harbor of New York and Brooklyn. There will be nothing sombre about this new home of the dead, as the grounds will be laid out attractively and yews and weeping willows will be dispensed with. The cost of incineration will be less than twenty-five dollars and the time consumed in the process not over fifty minutes. It is understood that the company desired to procure a plot of ground on Fort Washington Heights but could get nothing suitable, and besides the rich property-holders in that neighborhood objected.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

Please oblige by stating in your paper exactly in what the right of dower exists, and what the right of dower is; also what the right of courtesy is, and whether it is obsolete. Also in case a man dies intestate, leaving no wife or children, and having no relatives surviving, save his mother and brothers and sisters, who inherits his real and personal estate? By answering you will oblige greatly AN OLD SUBSCRIBER.

ANSWER—Right of dower is the right which a widow has to one-third of the rents from the real estate her husband leaves, or to the use by herself of one-third of his real estate, so long as she lives. Many people think that a widow owns one-third of her husband's real estate, but that is a mistake, it is only one-third of the income during her life.

The "right by the courtesy" is the right of a widower to the rents from all the real estate his wife may leave; he has this, provided they ever had a child born alive. In our opinion this right is not obsolete in New York, and we always insist on having the husband join in a deed or mortgage. In the case of a similar estate, called the "estate by the entirety," we have just, this month, had the pleasure of saving a client some $40,000 or so upon our opinion as to that estate, based upon the same reasons.

If a man dies intestate, leaving only a mother, and brothers and sisters, the income or use of all his real estate goes to his mother for her lifetime, and to his brothers and sisters equally between them. His personal property goes to his mother and brothers and sisters in equal shares to each.

A flagrant instance of the disregard which railroad companies have for the public who patronize their lines, and through whose suffrage they have been enabled to lay their tracks, is shown by the unsanitary and nauseous condition of the waiting-room on the Third avenue horse-car line, between Sixty-fourth and Sixty-fifth streets. The writer was returning home from a reception the other evening with a party of ladies and gentlemen and had to change cars at that depot. As it was after midnight it was ascertained that some time would elapse before the next car arrived. The party were about to enter the room marked "passengers' waiting-room" when the stench which arose from the place, even before it was entered, caused every one to turn back in disgust. The smell is so bad that it can be detected while sitting in the cars in the middle of the avenue. The Board of Health should look keenly after this nuisance, as it renders the air all round this neighborhood unwholesome and thus spreads the germs for disease. It is outrageous that a passenger waiting-room should be in such a filthy condition, and the large-dividend-receiving directors deserve the reprobation of the public for permitting this nuisance to exist.

Mrs. Martha J. Lamb, the historian of New York city, has an article in the Manhattan Magazine for July about the Riverside Drive, which is admirably written and illustrated by a number of highly artistic woodcuts. Not only west side people, but all New Yorkers who are interested in realty, should read this article and learn how fine a drive New York possesses without knowing much about it.

Samuel Benner's Prophecies has had quite a sale. A few copies are still unsold at the office of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, price $1.00. Sir Oracle alludes this week to what Benner has to say about the corn crop of this year.

Realty at Albany.

[From our own Correspondent.]

ALBANY, June 18.

At midnight last Saturday Governor Cleveland ceased signing bills passed by the Legislature of 1884. The last bill signed was made Chapter 551, and was the annual supply or deficiency bill for State affairs. There are that number of new laws added to the statutes this year, as the result of the joint work of the Governor and the Legislature.

Among the last bills approved by the Governor was the act establishing the several parks north of the Harlem River, recommended in the report of the Marsh commission, and directing the authorities to proceed to obtain title to the lands embraced in the parks laid down by that commission. The Governor held on to this measure until the last day before he decided to approve it. It was doubtful if he had then signed it if it had not been for the fact that nearly all the large property owners of the city wrote him letters urging his approval, and some of them, like O. B. Potter, who rarely advocate a measure which incurs expense, wrote the Governor the second time urging his approval of the measure. It is seldom that a measure had so many and so influential advocates as did this park bill. Those who own no property in that section of the city were as strong advocates as were those holding realty in the new wards. They believed that the city should have more parks, and this was the time to get the land for them.

The parks recommended in the report of the Marsh commission and embraced in the bill are six in number, with three connecting parkways. The six parks and three parkways take in 3,808 acres of land, that is that number of acres which will have to be purchased. Whatever roads pass through them will be included in the parks, but will not have to be purchased. The commission estimate that the entire amount can now be purchased at an average cost per acre of $2,000. Some of the land will cost double that price or perhaps exceed $5,000 per acre, but portions of the Pelham Bay can be bought for less than $1,000 per acre, making the average as stated above. This will make the cost $7,616,000 for the entire property, including the parkways.

The Van Courtland Park embraces within its boundaries as laid out in the act over 1,132 acres, of which more than 63 acres are embraced in the roads and streets which pass through it, leaving 1,039½ acres to be purchased. Most of this property is entailed, or as near as property can be in this country, and no title can be obtained to it except through the courts, and condemned in that way.

The Bronx Park embraces in the boundaries enumerated about 662 acres. About 9 acres are embraced in the streets and roads crossing it, making 653 acres to be purchased. Most of it belongs to old family estates like the Lorillard's. This park is at Fordham.

The Pelham Bay Park is the largest of the six and can be purchased the cheapest per acre and embraces 1,700 to be bought.

The Crotina Park has in its boundaries nearly 142 acres, of which six and a fraction are streets, leaving 135 and a fraction to be purchased. This lies on the south side of One Hundred and Seventy-fifth street and extending to the north line of the Twenty-third Ward and to the Southern Boulevard.

Claremont Park contains 36 acres to be purchased. It lies between Fleetwood avenue, Jane and Elliott streets.

St. Mary's Park contains in all about 29 acres. Taking out the streets there are 25 and a fraction of acres to be purchased. This park lies on the south side of One Hundred and Forty-ninth street, extending to St. Mary's street and to the Port Morris Branch Railroad.

The Bronx and Pelham Parkway provides for a wide avenue or parkway to connect the Pelham Bay with the Bronx Park, and is to be 400 feet wide, including the Fordham and Pelham Boulevard, while it takes in a portion of the route and requires the purchase of 95 acres.

The Mosholu Parkway connects the Bronx and Van Courtland Parks, and is to be 600 feet wide, including Middle Brook Parkway and the brook running through the latter. This will require the purchase of 80 acres.

The Crotina Parkway connects the Bronx Park with Crotina Park at Tremont, and is to be 100 feet wide, requiring the purchase of about 12 acres.

This makes an elaborate system of parks and parkways and will add to the attraction and comfort of that portion of the city north of the Harlem River as a place of residence. The system does credit to the commission which laid it out, and to the Legislature which finally established the parks and parkways. It will enhance the value of all other realty in that section.

It is announced that steps are to be taken to secure the annexation to the city by the next Legislature of all that portion of Westchester County lying east of the Bronx River by extending to the Sound a line from the northerly line of the present city, at its junction with the Bronx.

The Governor also signed the bill establishing a small park of about eight acres at Corlears Hook. This makes nine parks established this year. The Corlears Hook Park is not made mandatory—it is merely authorized. The parks which have thus been established this year are: the Jeannette Park at Coenties slip, the Corlears Hook Park, the park out of the gore of land on the Boulevard, between Seventy-second and Seventy-third streets, and the six parks north of the Harlem River, besides the three parkways. No one can say that the Legislature of 1884 did not benefit the city of New York in its park legislation. It also changed the name of the Reservoir Park to the Bryant Park. When the last Legislature met the city of New York had 1,094 acres in parks south of the Harlem River, worth at least $200,000,000, or double the city debt. The Legislature this year has added about 3,900 more acres to the parks and parkways.

The Governor also signed on the last day, the bill to add another block to the Gansevoort Market in the Ninth Ward. The block added is that bounded on the north by Little Twelfth street, on the south by Gansevoort street, on the east by Washington street, and on the west by West street and Tenth avenue, and is to be devoted exclusively to farmers and market gardeners. The present block embraced in the Gansevoort Market, between Gansevoort and Bloomfield streets, Tenth and Thirteenth avenues, is to be dedicated to market purposes, and used in the manner designated by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund.

The Governor also approved the bill adding the names of Hugh Gardner and Joseph Garry to fill vacancies in the Assessment Commission engaged in adjusting the assessments for Morningside Park and the Boulevard improvement. The commission was originally appointed by the act of 1880. Two of the original commissioners, Edward Cooper and George H. Andrews, have resigned. The act now approved, makes it consist of Allan Campbell, John Kelly, Joseph Garry, Daniel Lord, Jr., and Hugh Gardner.

The bill making the Register a salaried officer, instead of his being paid by fees, and the act relative to the employes in the Surrogate's office, preventing a repetition of the abuses discovered in that office by the Roosevelt committee, have both been signed. These two comprise all the Roosevelt reform bills that passed, except two laws. The two which were not signed are the tenure of office act and the bill reducing the Park Commission to three. In both of these, Governor Cleveland claims to have found defects. In the tenure of office act he was apparently anxious to find some excuse not to sign, while in the Park Commission bill there was only a reform in name, and its failure to become a law is about as well for the city as if it had. The benefits to be derived from it were of a doubtful character. The tenure of office act affected Commissioner Thompson, who is one of the political leaders of the County Democracy, delegate to Saratoga and a probable delegate to Chicago. To offend him at this juncture might lose his support at the Chicago Convention; besides, Mr. Thompson is influential at Albany, and it was his influence that secured the appointment of H. W. Allen a judge of the Superior Court. By the failure of this bill Mr. Thompson can secure his re-appointment by Mayor Edson this fall, he can retain his position at the head of that department for a full term, and it also allows Mayor Edson to appoint a Corporation Counsel for a full term this fall. The full term is four years each.

The Governor resisted the appeals of the politicians like Beadsley, who insisted that he ought not to sign the Daly bill, requiring all telegraph, electric light and telephone wires to be laid underground in New York and Brooklyn. He signed that bill, and the companies are required to place their wires underground and remove the unsightly poles by November, 1885. If the companies neglect or fail to place their wires underground by that time, the authorities of the city are directed to do it at the expense of the several companies. The removal of this net-work of wires and the array of poles which stand on the sidewalks of all principal thoroughfares will make a wonderful change in the appearance of the city. Senator Daly has labored three years to accomplish this object, and has the gratification of success at last.

The most important of the New York bills left unsigned is the act revising, amending and modernizing the building laws. The failure to approve this measure is the greatest surprise of all. Ex-Senator Cozans, who represents the city authorities before the Governor on all city bills, marked this measure for approval, and all the talk of the Governor up to the last three days indicated that he would approve it. These facts led to the impression on the part of its advocates that it was not necessary to lay any facts before the Governor as to the importance of the measure. The result is that it has been left unsigned, on the plea that there were defects in the bill, all of which could, no doubt, have been explained away had its advocates supposed there was any danger that it would not be approved. There has been a struggle of three years to pass it, on account of conflicting interests and the opposition of those interested in erecting flimsy houses for speculative purposes. The act was not perfect, but as near so as it could be under the circumstances. Its benefits far overbalanced its imperfections. It was specially necessary at this time when the rage is on for the erection of tall flats and apartment houses, for its provisions would enable the Superintendent of Buildings to compel their construction in a way that would have made those structures reasonably safe for the occupants. Its failure leaves the safety of flats to the cupidity of those who build them. The refusal to sign the bill is next door to a crime. It is a calamity, for there is no way to prevent the erection of flats like the St. George and mere tinder boxes to be inhabited by scores of families.

The bill adding the president of the Fire Department to the new Croton Aqueduct Commission also failed to secure the Governor's approval, and that commission remains unchanged.

The bill to increase the number of policemen by 500 was not signed, neither was the act for the enlargement of the pier between Forty-first and Forty second streets. It appears that the Dock Department has leased to the West Shore Railroad Company at that point dock privileges which take from the Metropolitan Gas Company some of the privileges on the docks which it considers necessary for its business. The bill in question was to extend the pier so as to enable the gas company to secure the privileges and accommodation desired. The failure to approve the bill affects the gas company more than any other interest.

The Mechanics' Lien Law introduced and framed by Mr. Earl, intended to take the place of the present lien laws, also failed to secure the Governor's signature.

The same fate befell McDonald's bill for the establishment of an exterior street on the East River, from Sixty-fourth to Ninety-fourth street. The water front in that section is to remain unsettled another year. Nothing has been done to regulate it on the East River, except that portion referred to in my last week's letter, in the approval of Van Allen's bill, for the Dock Department to make plans and file maps establishing the bulkhead and pier lines from Eighty-sixth street to the junction of Third avenue and the Harlem River, and allowing the abutting property owners to build docks and piers, if the city does not, under the plans laid out.

The act to improve the condition of the sinking fund of the city, requiring all bonds purchased out of the surplus revenues of the sinking fund to be cancelled at once, was not signed.

The act conferring additional power on the Board of Health in regard to the plumbing and drainage of dwellings in the city of New York, more especially as to tenements and lodging houses, regulating the air and light for such houses, a bill which contains important provisions for the protection of the health of the tenement house population, also failed to receive the Governor's approval. Like the building law, this failure is to be regretted.

The bill of Mr. Clarke, requiring the Commissioners of the Park Department to alter and revise the map of the Twenty-third Ward by striking out Morris avenue, between One Hundred and Sixty-second street and Overlook avenue and One Hundred and Sixty-fifth street between Winfield place and Sheridan avenue, and to revise the map included in that portion between Railroad avenue, West Webster avenue, One Hundred and Sixty-second and One Hundred and Sixty-seventh streets and Overlook avenue, also failed to receive the Governor's approval.

Mr. Kittle's bill, preventing the removal of park policemen, except on charges and trial, and also pensioning the park policemen who become physically disabled while in the service, was not signed.

Three or four bills for personal claims against the city, such as placing fireman George Nunn on the pension roll on account of injuries at fires; Robt. T Bailey, for copying and recording wills in Surrogate's office, and that of Mary E. Blakely, for taxes, all failed for want of approval.

The Governor did not sign the bill for repaving Fifth avenue, and that pavement is left to the care of Thomson's department, as heretofore. The bill placed the repavement in charge of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund. The Department of Public Works objected to this interference with its duties, and the bill was not signed. It cannot now be repaved until the amount necessary is placed in the tax budget by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

Real Estate Department.

The event of the week was the sale of part of the Fox estate in the Twenty-third Ward. There was a large crowd and the bidding was lively, but an outsider could not very well decide whether the prices were good or bad, as that and adjoining property, with the exception of a few unimportant parcels, has not been offered for public sale since the land was bought, generations ago. But the heirs, who ought to know, seem to be very much pleased with the sale. They say their expectations were more than realized. It is very certain that the numerous parcels have passed into the hands of individuals who will either improve the property or sell to others who will do so. We comment editorially elsewhere on the splendid future of the annexed district. What with the new parks, the early commencement of the Suburban Rapid Transit Road, the complete system of drainage which is under way and the other local improvements contemplated, there ought to be quite a movement in Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Ward realty at advancing prices. The sale of the Fox estate continued from 12 to 4 o'clock, and was then adjourned to July 1st, when the balance of the property will be distributed to the highest bidders.

Another notable sale during the week was that of the Seaman estate. This comprises some 25 acres and an elaborate mansion with outhouses overlooking the Harlem at Kingsbridge. All who have driven up the old Kingsbridge road can recall the white house and the conspicuous wall around the grounds. Allowing for streets, it is said this property will cut up into 300 city lots, yet it was knocked down for $86,000, although the improvements are said to have cost a quarter of a million. This was deemed a ridiculously low price by experts.

There is a report that the vacant real estate owned by Amos R. Eno, or at least a large portion of it, is in the market, and if not disposed of privately during the summer it will be offered at auction early in the fall. Mr. Eno's property has been very carefully selected, and investors will pay a higher price for vacant lots owned by him than for property in possession of persons whose judgment in real estate was not considered so good. It will be an excellent thing for the west side should the Eno estate be sold. That gentleman never improved his vacant property, and large tracts of unimproved land in any section of New York island are an injury to the neighborhoods in which they are located.

Of course business is dull just now, but there is more doing than there was last June.

On Saturday two lots on the northwest corner of Alexander avenue and One Hundred and Forty-first street sold under foreclosure for $6,550; these lots sold April 19 for $7,200, but the purchaser refused to take title, as the property is subject to certain restrictions which were not mentioned at the time of sale.

On Monday four lots on One Hundred and Twenty-second street, west of Fourth avenue, were sold for $9,000, to satisfy a mortgage of $6,975. Sixteen lots on Fourth avenue, One Hundred and Twenty-eighth and One Hundred and Twenty-ninth streets were offered, by order of the trustees of Andrew McGown; only three were sold, two on the corner of One Hundred and Twenty-eighth street and one corner of One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street. The bidding was confined to a few bidders, the sale not having been well advertised.

On Tuesday 260 lots in the Twenty-third Ward, belonging to the Fox estate, were offered and 133 sold for a total of $24,785. Of these, sixty eight were in the block bounded by Stebbins and Westchester avenues, Rogers place and One Hundred and Sixty-fifth street, and brought $9,895; eight on Westchester avenue, Tiffany and Kelly streets, sold for $1,435; forty-three in the block bounded by Southern Boulevard, Lyon, Simpson and One Hundred and Sixty-seventh streets, sold for $10,925; thirteen in Bristow and Jennings streets sold for $2,315, and one on the corner of Simpson and Lyon streets for $215. On the same day, Nos. 153 to 157 Crosby street sold for $73,000; Nos. 318 Broome street sold for $20,600; five lots on One Hundred and Thirty-first street, west of Tenth avenue, for $8,750, and two lots on Union avenue for $1,250.

On Wednesday the Seaman property at Kingsbridge, lots on Eleventh avenue, One Hundred and Fourteenth and One Hundred and Tenth streets, and Bloomingdale road and Buena Vista avenue, Yonkers, were sold. On Thursday, improved property on Broome and One Hundred and Thirty-fifth streets, Second and Fourth avenues, was sold; also four lots on Eighty-ninth street, west of Eighth avenue, under foreclosure, for $15,700. The sale of the Deane property was further postponed until July 1st and 2d, and the block front on West End (Eleventh) avenue, between One Hundredth and One Hundred and First streets, and a country residence with 6 acres of land on Strawberry Hill, Stamford, Conn., were withdrawn, no bids being offered.

On Friday a four-story tenement on East One Hundred and Eighth street was sold for $8,000, to satisfy a mortgage on which $9,800 was due, and the lot No. 549 West Fifty-seventh street, with frame buildings thereon, brought $9,900. The sale of the Newport, Adelphi and Strath more apartment houses was further postponed until September.

The comparison between last week and the same week last year in the number of transfers is without much significance. More money was invested and the mortgage indebtedness was less, but there were fewer transactions. Here is the table, which speaks for itself:

On June 24th Richard V. Harnett will sell the frame house and lot on Manhattan street, 113.6 west of Tenth avenue. The lot is full size.

On Thursday, June 26, Mr. Richard V. Harnett, will sell some property in the Seventh and Eleventh Wards, a location we have often referred to as in great demand recently for investment purposes. The property to be sold is in Jackson, Cherry, Goerck and Stanton streets, and is fully described in the advertisement elsewhere.

John F. B. Smyth will have an important sale of thirty choice lots on June 27th, to close an estate. They are situated on the two new avenues west of Eighth avenue, and are between One Hundred and Fifty-first and One Hundred and Fifty-second streets. This is an improving neighborhood, and those who buy lots there at this season will get bargains. On the same day Mr. Smyth will sell the house 148 Baxter street.

Three of the eleven properties to be offered next week, under foreclosure, will be sold to satisfy mortgages held by the New York Life Insurance Company. On the dwellings on the north side of Seventy-fourth street, 100 feet east of Fifth avenue, 50x27.2, there is due over $41,000, and on the dwelling on the east side of Fifth avenue, 50.5 north of Sixty-second street, 28x100, there is due the company nearly $100,000.

All the right, title and interest of the corporation of the city of New York in and to twenty-seven lots in the block bounded by Second and Third avenues, Ninety-ninth and One Hundredth streets, will be sold at public auction at the Comptroller's office on July 16, at noon.

The houses are for investment. This will remove one of the old landmarks of the city, as the building now on the site, for many years the property of the Ketchum estate, is to be demolished to make way for the improvement. Geo. Martin Huss is the architect.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—Quite a radical change has taken place on the market for Common Hards since our last report. Monday morning found an immense supply afloat, reaching thirty-four barge loads by actual count, to say nothing of the sailing vessels, and making a total supply of about seven million bricks. This seemed to stagger receivers somewhat, and first one commenced to weaken, then another and so on until even those who would have made something of a stand were compelled to follow in self defence, resulting in a general scramble to realize, and a perpendicular drop of plump $1.00 per M. The decline, however, was apparently just what buyers were waiting for, and as soon as they secured it a general gathering up of the offering took place, and within twenty-four hours nothing remained unsold, while subsequent arrivals have found an outlet without much difficulty. Cost too has been steadier of late, and there is a possible recovery of 12½c. per M. from the lowest figures touched, with receivers certainly in more confident mood, not in expectation of any buoyant recovery, but in the belief that the extreme point of depression has been shown under the severe test to which the market was subjected. The current line of quotations as named by all classes of operators run at about $4.75@5.25 and possibly $5.50 for Jersey's, $5@5.50@5.75 for Up Rivers, with a little more said to be asked in a few instances; $5 75@6.50 for Haverstraws, and $6 62½ talked of. Of the stock taken this week only one line of purchases is known to have been piled up, while the great bulk has gone direct into consumption, a feature considered very healthy as indicating the full wants of the market, and a disposition among buyers to go right ahead when they can stock at a low cost. Indeed some of the receivers think rates were even lower than necessary, had it not been for the display of timidity on the part of a few operators. A feature of the offering has been its attractive condition, the quality not running so uniformly fine for many seasons, and that not only helped business when buyers fairly got to work, but prevented a more serious reduction in the valuation. The production continues unabated at all points and it is anticipated that this will continue to the end of this month at least. Pale brick are still quoted at about $2.50@3.50 per M for a general range, but the price all depends upon momentary influences, and a cargo selling at the highest one day would likely go begging at the lowest the next. A few more Pales have found an outlet in Brooklyn of late, and are thought to have been bought, received, and run into work during "lunch" hour.

GLASS.—Demand is reported as generally good and the market strong. Arrivals of foreign have been fair, but not enough to create any surplus, and of American the assortment is poor, with general stock greatly reduced and some of the regular sizes very difficult to find in first hands. Interior wants are understood to be full and somewhat anxious, with buyers booking orders against supplies on future offerings.

HARDWARE.—There is, perhaps, a fair local consumption of stock, largely builders' hardware, and the same may be said of other cities, but in the interior not much doing and buyers moving with even greater care than anticipated. Indeed, on the general market trade is now falling off sharply and quickly, and matters have a dull nominal sort of tone. Considerable cutting on price lists is understood to have been going on for some time and the chances are that a number of revisions will be made on the turn into the second half of the year if manufacturers can be induced to work together for mutual interest.

LATH.—The calculations of the selling interest have again been somewhat disappointed, not under any further decline, but in the failure to obtain a recovery on price as hoped for. As suggested last week, the large amount sent into yard placed dealers in a rather independent position, and while a light offering following might have given receivers renewed advantage the trouble was that arrivals came in a little too fast, and it frequently required considerable close figuring to place them all. In some instances sales have been made under $2.00 per M, but the latter as yet appears to be about the rate for first-class stock. The market does not look very strong at the close, and with the Fourth approaching another accumulation afloat would be bad for sellers.

LIME.—It has remained a steady market since our last, at the advance then noted. The sustaining power, however, is mainly in the small offerings and the reports of a suspension of shipments from primary sources, as the demand does not appear to have much life and buyers handle only small parcels for immediate use.

LUMBER.—The situation has changed in no important feature since our last, and at this late period of the season the chances are against any animation of a stimulating character. Indeed, more or less of a drag is generally looked for about the end of June, even in good trading periods, and with the extreme cautious policy now prevailing among all classes of buyers, this year is not very likely to be an exception, especially as the heat of a presidential campaign always tends to reduce the volume of business to some extent. Some of the Trade also suggest that while the market did not feel the direct touch of the recent financial disturbance it now commences to see its shadow, inasmuch as advances, even on real estate, are made with great circumspection and tend to retard and in some measure suspend the speculative and semi-speculative form of building. As a general thing agents here are well advised over the condition of trade and its prospects, and whenever free to act on their own judgment are found to be meeting the market readily, but many are bound up by limits on price and other restrictions, and frequently lose business through want of power to act promptly. A trip among the yards on both sides of town reveals a considerable number of vacant spots, yet the general accumulation is unquestionably a full and well-assorted one, and equal to any want likely to arise as matters stand now. From most of the primary sources the advices show a continued effort to retain a shading of strength, but the influence here amounts to very little, buyers admitting no incentive to action except actual wants.

Eastern Spruce sells as it comes to hand, sometimes quickly and sometimes slowly, with more or less fluctuation in the line of value. The average tendency, however, has of late been in buyers' favor, as the supply on hand is quite full and dealers take stock more as a favor than a necessity. A great deal of firm talk now and then comes from primary sources but without drawing out a single order beyond original intentions, buyers feeling that advantage is with them, and guiding their movements accordingly. Manufacturers continue pretty stiff in their views and on orders for special cuts have of late made no allowances, as the saws are busy and under contract for some time to come. A great deal of stuff is going to points along the Sound, etc., and that prevents accumulation of cargoes for this port. We quote at $13@15 for random, and $15@17 for specials.

White Pine is not finding much favor on home account only an odd irregular demand showing itself and then in such form as to indicate quite clearly a very careful calculation of quantity on the part of buyers. Exporters show interest only as they obtain direct and positive orders and their limits are low. Indeed throughout the entire market there is an absence of encouraging features and the least attempt to hurry business or in any way force sales would surely result in a positive break on values. As it is, rates are named from a nominal basis in the main and outside figures represent asking views only. Accumulation of stock in the meantime goes on apace, and the quantity on hand is already quite liberal for this time of the year. We quote at $17.50@20.00 for West India shipping boards; $25@28 for South American do.; $14@15 for box boards, and $16.00@17.50 for extra do.

Yellow Pine secures a few small and unimportant orders beyond the line of demand already marked out and understood, and the condition of the market is dull and decidedly unsatisfactory. Indeed, as suggested in our last, dealers have abandoned even the attempt to present some sort of favorable or hopeful sign for consideration, and now freely admit the hopeless character of the outlook as suggested by current influences. Not only does local demand prove limited, but even the f. o. b. business has contracted into too small a compass to afford any neutralizing influence against light home consumption. Valuations as before but nominal. We quote as follows: Randoms, $18@21.00 per M; Specials, $20@22.00 do.; Green Flooring Boards, $22@23; Dry do., do., $23@24; Siding, $22@23 do.; Cargoes f. o. b at Atlantic ports, $14@15.00 for rough, and $19@21 for dressed. Cargoes f. o. b. at Gulf ports, $13@14 for rough, and $18@20 for dressed.

Hardwoods are in moderate demand only, and the wants of buyers continue to require the best of quality in most cases. Anything faulty, therefore, if handled must be offered at very low line of cost, and in some cases additional favors are required in the way of terms of payment, etc. We quote at wholesale rates by car load as follows: Walnut, $65@110 per M.; ash, $35@40 do.; oak, $30@55 do.; maple, $20@32.50 do.; chestnut, $25@30 do; cherry, $40@75 do.; whitewood, $27@35 do., do.; elm, $22@25; hickory, $45@52.50 do.

Shingles remain in a dull condition all around, and the undertone of the market is weak. Exporters obtain only a few irregular orders, and the country seems to have no great use for stock thus far this season. We quote Cypress at $8.0 @8.50 per M. for 5x20 and $11.00@12.00 do. for 6x20 regularly assorted shipping. Pine shipping stock $2.00@2.50 for 18 inch, and Eastern saw grades at $2.00@2.50 for 16 inch, as to quality and to quantity. Eastern shaved cedar $4.00@4.50 per M. Machine dressed cedar shingles quoted as follows: for 30 inch, $15.00@20.00 for A, and $23@28.50 for No. 1; for 24 inch, $13.00@15 for A and $18.50@20.50 for No. 1; for 20 inch, $8@9.50 for A and $11.00@12.50 for No. 1.

We have received from C. G. Horton, wholesale lumber broker, Nos. 4 and 6 West Fourteenth street, this city, a concise little pamphlet containing rules for the inspection of hardwood lumber for the New York market, with suggestions to shippers, etc. In the preface we find the following:

"The difficulty of putting upon paper in a comprehensive manner a description of the various grades of hardwood lumber is fully appreciated and the author has not entirely relied upon his own judgment, but has consulted with the best authorities, and endeavored to attain that end in a plain and simple manner.

"The purpose of the following rules is to present the general laws governing inspection of hardwood lumber for the New York market without expecting to establish arbitrary rules, which would be impossible, as much depends upon the judgment of the inspector."

The work seems to be just what is needed by interior shippers, so many of whom will not or cannot understand the wants of this market, and a reference to its pages might save them a great deal of vexation and loss on shipments hither.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

ALBANY MARKET.

The Argus reports for week ending June 16 as follows:

There has been a fair number of buyers in market during the week, and the shipments have been large, embracing all kinds of lumber, though mostly of pine, to New York, New Jersey and the East. Pine is arriving freely from all quarters excepting Ottawa. The break in the Champlain Canal, at Colesville, is a serious one, and will probably prevent receipts from the North for the next ten days. The active superintendent of the canals is on the ground, and is making every possible effort which his large experience can suggest for the resumption of navigation. As much the greater part of the supply of spruce and hemlock comes through this canal, and all of the Ottawa pine, it is fortunate that so large a quantity of these woods is now on the yards in the district. From Oswego and all points on the Erie Canal receipts are free, and the stock and assortment in the district will be ample for any probable demand. Seasoned hardwoods of all kinds are in good supply and are going off steadily. Lath are also on hand in sufficient quantities, and shingles enough for the moderate demand.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

CHICAGO.

AT THE DOCKS.—The past week has been a busy one at the cargo market. A great fleet has crowded the docks all the week, partly on account of the northerly gale that has swooped everything in the shape of a lumber lugger that was afloat from St. Ignace to the head of the lake into this port, and partly because the mill owners have been clearing off the residue of their dry inch stock and forwarding it to market. This week a crowded market has failed to cause a break, and the manner in which offerings have been taken shows that the demand is fully equal to the supply. It is true that No. 2 inch lumber is selling this year for an average of $1 less than it did last year at this time, but it can be said that probably there is that much difference in the quality of the lumber offered. More than ever before, the better grades are being sorted out before the lumber is shipped to this market, while the better mill cuts are picked up over the lake, and never come to this market. Most of the inch stuff offered at the docks is very ordinary or coarse common, and probably sells for all that it is worth.

The commission men seem to have struck an easy but efficient way of handling their customers and realizing fair prices. They almost uniformly ask from $1 to $2 more for lumber than they expect to sell it for. For instance, a cargo of medium stock will be offered at $16 a thousand. The would-be purchaser, of course, will scoff at that figure. The commission man will then drop to $15, then to $14, and finally take $13 50 or $13. Starting at $15, a cargo was known to sell during the past week at $12 50. The majority of the lumber coming sells at figures ranging from $10.50 to $12 50, the top figure bringing a fair article of medium lumber that will run well to strips with some pickings. A good many cargoes sell for money in the neighborhood of $11, maybe an eighth or a quarter of a dollar less, or as much more. Buyers insist on the fractions of a dollar, and the commission men concede it as a lubricating oil to trade. Thus, while there has been friction enough between seller and buyer during the week to prevent a rush of movement, it has not been such as to lock the wheels; the market has continued in steady motion, and the fleet has scattered away up the branches. Piece stuff has sold generally at $9 to $9.25 a thousand. A desirable cargo with a large proportion of long lengths in it sometimes has brought $9 50, but that figure is not often realized. Really bone dry piece stuff would sell for $10 and $10.25. Timbers over 20 feet long are worth $10@10.75. Short timbers sell for about the same prices as piece stuff.

No better news, on the whole, could be received from the drives than comes to hand this week. The logs will come out of the streams exceptionally clean, and there will be little shutting down of mills for want of material. Later rains will not only hasten the drives that are now on the way, but bring out of the small streams quite a proportion of the logs that are now hanging.

LUMBERMAN AND MANUFACTURER,
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

The movement of lumber from all the distributing points is truly encouraging. The demand seems to be fully up to last year's figures and the entire trade are taking a more cheerful view of the situation, except the Wisconsin railway mill men, who are in a dilemma over the railroad treatment. They can hardly afford to shut down and let their logs rot and their mills lay idle and it is certainly not an encouraging prospect to receive orders from the railroads to sell $3 cheaper than Chicago. Some of the heaviest concerns are canvassing among themselves as to the policy to be pursued so far without conclusion. There is a free movement of lumber from Lake Superior points to Chicago, which naturally ought to go southwest by rail.

From 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 feet of logs and lumber are being distributed from the St. Croix, Chippewa, Black and Wisconsin rivers to Mississippi River points every day. This is unprecedented. That the Central States will absorb this lumber during the next year is confidently believed by the best posted men in that trade. The only fears are that Chicago will get loaded up and force prices down late in the season. There is well-defined rumors that Chicago is getting a cut on her 18-cent rate to the West (Wisconsin gets none on her 25½ rate).

St. Louis is receiving a large amount and the stock is reported finer than has been received for years, especially the Wisconsin River stuff.

Logs are a drug on the Minneapolis market, and many holders are considering the propriety of turning their logs over the falls and rafting at St. Paul.

The drives are remarkably successful on all the streams of Wisconsin and Minnesota, the rains of the last week have made them sure.

ENGLAND.

The Timber Trade's Journal as follows:

LONDON.

There is an undercurrent of business doing, and, if reports are true, things are not all so still as appears on the surface. That trade is far from active there is no gainsaying, but still we see quite the usual large fleets of vessels are loading abroad for this side, and these cargoes must necessarily be for somebody. As far as relates to the larger ports, the bulk of the vessels in present use would each represent in standards more than twice as much as the same number ten or fifteen years ago.

The position of the market is that after the long interregnum—about two years—of bad price and little doing, in the natural order of things an improvement should be close at hand, and it is for this that many are waiting who would under other circumstances be getting anxious at seeing the season slipping away with so little done to place to its account. The stocks of dealers, &c., in the docks, are rapidly accumulating, and though the absence of any sale this week will be beneficial to prices on the next occasion, yet without something really turns up to give trade a spurt, we fear any advance of values can only be of a temporary character.

NAILS.—Trade is dull and without promise of early improvement. A great many customers complain that they were induced to invest pretty freely early in the spring to cover two or three months' wants on the report of a forthcoming reduced general production, and in all probability hardening values, but now find the market not only abundantly supplied, but rather on the downward turn. No actual loss has been incurred, but the shave was a close one, and is leading to great caution on current orders. Exporters show no activity at the moment. Average rates are at about $2.45@2.60 per keg, for 10d to 60d, but car lots have sold as low as ——.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—In a wholesale way the movement is very small, and jobbers are also dull, the entire market lacking in spirit and character. It is, however, a season to expect such a situation, and an improvement is looked for on the approach of fall. Valuations remain about the same as for some time past, but from a nominal basis and are probably full high. Linseed Oil quiet and steady at 59@60c. for foreign, and 57@58c. for domestic. Spirits Turpentine dull, but held about steady at 31@32½ per gallon, according to size of invoice, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Generally stock is under neglect beyond the usual trade jobbing call, and the cost remains about the same as for some time past. We quote: Pitch, $2 25@2.30 per bbl; Tar, $2.50@2.60 do., according to quantity, quality and delivery.

MARKET QUOTATIONS.

Our figures are based upon cargo or wholesale valuations in the main. Due allowance must therefore be made for the natural additions on jobbing and retail parcels.

JUNE 28, 1884.

From the Real Estate Chronicle June 25th.

After this week The Chronicle will be issued from the office of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, and in connection with that journal will give to the real estate and building interests two newspapers which they cannot possibly afford to do without. As we understand it the new proprietors intend to issue The Chronicle every Wednesday, and THE RECORD AND GUIDE every Saturday. It is their intention to give The Chronicle a wider field for its operations, and certainly there is nobody better able to judge of the wants of the two great interests for which The Chronicle caters than the conductors of THE RECORD AND GUIDE. We look forward with pleasure to the results to be gained by this union, and we trust our subscribers will be equally well pleased. We have been particularly gratified at having been able to show the new publisher a list of subscribers which he has admitted to us since the purchase of the paper exceeded largely his estimate of the circulation of The Chronicle. JOHN H. O'DONNELL.

NOTICE.

Hereafter the office of The Chronicle will be at No. 191 Broadway, from which place the paper will be issued regularly every Wednesday morning. All subscribers of THE RECORD AND GUIDE who wish also to take The Chronicle can receive that paper in connection with THE RECORD AND GUIDE for $3.00 a year. This will give those who wish early information about real estate matters an opportunity of getting the news of the early part of the week, which they usually wait for until Saturday. It will be the aim of the new publisher of The Chronicle to make it in every way a paper as valuable as THE RECORD. To all who are not subscribers of THE RECORD AND GUIDE the price of The Chronicle will be the same as heretofore, $5.00 per annum. C. W. SWEET.

The disapproval by Governor Cleveland of the revised building law on purely technical grounds is a great disappointment to all the better and larger interests in the building trade. The existing law is full of the gravest defects, all of which were corrected in the act vetoed by the Governor. Year after year attempts have been made to pass a good law, but corrupt officials or "snide" builders have managed in one way or another to kill the many excellent laws proposed. And now we must wait for another year, and see swarms of faulty and unsanitary houses erected, because the Governor objects to the phraseology of the attorney to the Fire Department and the two other lawyers who revised the bill. The Governor is clearly wrong in saying that the word "title" should have been used instead of "act." The bill that passed was called "an act" to amend Chapter 410 of the laws of 1883, entitled "an act to consolidate into one act and to declare the special and local laws affecting public interests in the city of New York." It altered sections 471 to 517, inclusive, of the consolidated act, so as to bring all the sections under Title V. relating to the construction of buildings. If the bill had received the Governor's sanction and became a law, then in would have been under this act of the Legislature that the Superintendent of Buildings was empowered to remit penalties for any violation of the provisions of this ACT—not the consolidation act of 1883, but the Legislative act of 1884—and it seems a strained construction to say that the wording of this bill would have conferred upon the Superintendent of Buildings the power to remit fines and penalties in matters having no relation to the subject treated of in this bill, in a word control over the entire consolidated act. Of course this never was intended. But this is one of the misfortunes of our lawyer government; nearly all bills drawn by lawyers are faulty in phraseology. Instinctively the lawyer uses ambiguous terms in order to increase litigation. If there were doubtful phrases used, the law could have been amended next year, but the Governor was not justified in vetoing it on the flimsy objections set forth in his printed disapproval. The veto of the Fifth avenue paving bill was also on insufficient grounds. This improvement is greatly needed, and the bill was not in any way objectionable.

An Albany correspondent informs us that persons, purporting to represent the New York Real Estate Exchange, are trying to bulldoze Governor Cleveland into appointing certain heretofore unknown lawyers to be members of the commission which is to report a bill or a series of bills to the next Legislature, reforming our land laws so as to make transfers of property easy and inexpensive. There must be some mistake about this as there has been no meeting of the Executive Committee of the Committee on Legislation, to which this matter was referred. The Legislative Committee authorized its executive officers to suggest a list of names of eminent lawyers, whose studies had familiarized them with the subject of transfer reform, so that the Governer might select a proper commission; but no one connected with the exchange had any notion of using the machinery of that organization to induce Governor Cleveland to help advertise unknown lawyers by foisting them upon this important commission. Any list sent to the Governor will be an injustice to the reform itself if it does not contain the names of some of the lawyers connected with the Land Transfer Reform Association, as these gentlemen have given money and time to the consideration of this important subject. They are thoroughly conversant with the whole case and should not at the eleventh hour be set aside so that the credit justly their due should be given to others.

In West Twenty-third Street.

At the corner of Twenty-third street and Fifth avenue is a building of a considerable degree of architectural interest, just completed for the Western Union Company. It is evidently the work of the same designer as the new Western Union building in Broad street, upon which we commented some time since. The up-town building, however, being on a corner, offered a much better opportunity, of which the designer, Mr. Hardenbergh, has taken full advantage. The chief defects in composition of the front in Broad street are that the stone basement, being of one story only, is inadequate as a base for a seven-story building, and that the arched openings which run through three of the upper stories are not distinguished as one of the principal divisions of the front. Neither of these shortcomings reappears in the Twenty-third street building, which is at least equally good in detail of the same sober and scholarly character.

The lower division of the building is of two stories, closed by three-centred arches above the first floor, the ground floor being level with the street, and an iron transom interposed to mark the line of the first floor. The projecting piers between the openings extend to the springing of the arches and are capped with offsets. In the second story is a pair of arched openings over each of the large arches, and in the third and fourth pairs of lintelled openings. A strong string course traverses the building above the fourth story, and in the fifth is an undivided arched window over each pair, corresponding to the arrangement of the basement. The roof is steep enough to be visible from across the street and is relieved at its base by gabled dormers in brickwork. There are six bays, such as have been described, on the Twenty-third street side, and beyond them a recessed piece of wall, containing a large arched doorway, with a triple window above, while at the western end is an ample pier, terminated by an emphatic chimney stack.

The Broadway front is a twenty-five foot front. A single large opening in the centre occupies the basement and is slightly narrowed by corbelling at the line of the first floor where it is covered by a large arch. A tie rod crosses the opening where it is narrowed and is produced through the pier, its heavy iron cap showing on the Twenty-third street side. Above, the arrangement is similar to that of the sides, the openings for three stories being two couples and in the fourth (the sixth, counting the basement), two undivided arches. A moderately steep gable with two square openings crowns this front.

The materials are red brick for the walls, with arches, lintels, string courses and cornices of stone, and the frieze under the main cornice and decorative panels of terra cotta. All of them are thoroughly well used constructionally. In decoration the terra cotta frieze is a trifle stiff and a trifle excessive in scale. On the other hand there is no more artistic piece of modelling in terra cotta than the decorative panel at the south end, which could be told at a glance, even in a photograph, for the modelling of a highly plastic material, and could not be mistaken for hewn stone. The structural detail throughout is appropriate to its material and effective in scale. The dormers are particularly good for their characteristic treatment of brickwork. The most striking feature of the building is the large opening at the bottom of the east front, which is also the most effective, the detail being especially good, and the frank exhibition of the tie rod very successful. The composition is equally good. One might wish a somewhat ampler pier at the eastern end of the long front, but the western end is capitally composed, with the large unbroken pier separated by a recess from the main wall. The arrangement and the modelling of the openings emphasize the weight of the wall. The general aspect of the building is sober and quiet, with that sense of straightforwardness and naturalness which can only come by following out and giving expression to the actual facts of a building.

At the other end of the same block, on the site of Booth's Theatre, is a building of the same materials but of very different character. The fact that it occupies the site of the theatre is recalled by a marble medalion of Shakespeare, which an important pier is cut away to admit. Another interesting fact about the building is commemorated by a pediment over the centre of each front containing in terra cotta the legend "J. D. F. 1884." This suffices to make the work of extreme interest to the depositors of the Marine Bank, but there is not much in it to interest architects. It is a series of brick piers, connected by bits of brick wall, with three openings in each story, generally, between each pair of piers. The openings are covered by flat arches of moulded brick, the moulding continued along the jambs. In the first story the wall between the piers is of plate glass with iron posts in the usual commercial fashion. After several stories of the square openings in brick, all alike, is the main cornice, of which the brackets are bellying triglyphs in terra cotta. Above this is another series of the square holes varied by making the central one of each group of three the largest, and above these a series of round holes. The piers are terminated by urns and flames in terra cotta. Nothing can be harder, shallower, flatter, more "liny" or more monotonous in effect than the Twenty-third street front. It is not even symmetrical, for the end compartments do not balance each other, and the central pediment is not central nor are the two compartments which it crowns of the same size. In this respect the Sixth avenue front is better, at least is less bad, but there is nothing of any architectural interest in the building except some of the carved and some of the moulded decoration. Even this, however, is monotonous and tiresome by its repetition, and is inappreciable from across the street.

The Facts in the Case.

In view of the controversy between the adherents and opponents of bi-metallism the following facts and figures, culled from a letter by Mr. C. L. Franke, of Louisville, Ky., will be found peculiarly interesting.

The total production of gold and silver in recent years was as follows. It will be seen that the production of the former has been largely in excess of the latter :

	Gold.	Silver.	Total.
1867	$116,000,000	$54,000,000	$170,000,000
1875	97,500,000	62,000,000	159,500,000
1877	113,947,173	81,040,665	194,987,838
1878	114,092,786	94,882,177	213,974,963
1879	107,385,421	89,080,680	196,466,101
1880	106,989,846	87,543,072	194,532,918
1881	107,773,157	97,659,461	205,432,617
1882	118,000,000	94,000,000	212,000,000

The production in the United States in 1882 was $32,400,000 gold and $46,950,000 silver, being $14,550,000 in favor of the white metal. There was in addition some $24,000,000 in silver produced in Mexico. The other two large producers of gold in that year were Russia, $30,000,000, and Australia, $32,000,000.

A very interesting table is the world's production of the principal money metals since the discovery of America. The figures are based on estimates made at the Monetary Conference in 1877 and by several of the first authorities on the subject in Europe. It will be observed that all the authorities show that the world possesses a preponderance of silver over gold, though in later years the conditions are reversed. Five authorities are quoted :

TOTAL WORLD'S PRODUCTION.

	Gold.	Silver.	Total.
1. Monetary Conference. (from 1492 to 1876)	$5,253,800,000	$6,931,300,000	$12,185,100,000
2. Chevalier (adopted by Soetbeer). (from 1493 to 1876)	5,841,000,000	7,069,000,000	12,910,000,000
3. Soetbeer (in marks at 24c.). (from 1493 to 1875)	6,330,000,000	7,793,080,000	14,123,080,000
4. Handelsblatt, Bremen. (from 1500 to 1873)	6,450,000,000	7,875,000,000	14,325,000,000
5. Another estimate. (from 1849 to 1877)	3,193,125,000	1,392,200,000	4,582,325,000

Of these colossal sums it is estimated by the Director of the United States Mints (1880) that $75,000,000 was annually consumed of gold and some $35,000,000 of silver, or a total of about $110,000,000.

The annual loss by abrasion, fire, shipwreck and other casualties is estimated at 1-420 of the world's stock, or about ¼ per cent. yearly, being equal to $2,918,000 gold and $2,130,000 silver, or a total of $5,048,000.

The annual loss by wear and tear in the precious metals used in the arts and manufactures, and casualties thereon, are placed at $12,000,000.

The shipments to India are very large, being on an average of $30,000,000 annually, the bulk of which is silver. China and other Oriental countries import some $10,000,000 more, making a total of $40,000,000 shipped to the East, four-fifths of which is silver and one-fifth gold. Little or nothing of this large sum is ever returned. Silver is greatly used in the arts and manufactures in the Orient, as well as hidden and buried there, which neutralizes the fact that more gold than silver is used for those purposes in Europe and America.

The amount in use among the commercial nations (forty-five countries being taken) is $2,918,000,000 of gold and $2,130,000,000 of silver, or three-fifths of gold and two-fifths of silver.

Ernest Seyd, of London, estimates the total amount in use in the world to be :

	Gold.	Silver.	Total.
Ernest Seyd	$3,750,000,001	$3,000,000,000	$6,750,000,000
Prof. Soetbeer, of Gottingen, est.	3,320,000,000	2,100,000,000	5,420,000,000

The annual addition to the world's stock of gold and silver in coin, bullion and bars in the commercial world is estimated to be but one per cent. The annual increase in population in the United States is two and a-half per cent., and in Europe one per cent. The ratio of increase in national wealth, productions, manufactures and trade is still larger, each requiring corresponding additions to the mediums of circulation and exchange.

From the above figures it will be seen that the production of the gold mines and placers during the last two decades has fallen off very greatly compared with the production previous to 1852. This is only partially compensated for by an increase in the output of silver. The discoveries of gold in California, Australia, New Zealand and elsewhere proved a stimulus to the trade of the world, the effects of which are felt even unto this day. The bi-metallic policy of the commercial nations was maintained down to 1873 ; for, although England was mono-metallic, Germany, Austria, France and the United States, as well as other nations, were bi-metallic, while all Asia practically recognized silver as the sole currency. Practically for over a half-century up to 1873, the commercial world used both the precious metals and coined without limit both the yellow and white metals at a ratio of fifteen and a-half of the former to one of the latter. The demonetization of silver in 1873 by Germany and the United States was swiftly followed by the panic of that year, nor was there any recovery of prices or improvement in business until the partial remonetization of silver by the passage of the Bland bill in the spring of 1878. A determined effort is now being made in all the commercial nations to make gold the sole unit of value, and this at a time when the production of gold has greatly fallen off, and the demand for it greatly increased in the arts. Should this effort by the capitalist and banking classes be successful, as it promises to be, a period of poignant distress in all business circles will be experienced throughout not only the civilized, but the semi-civilized world. The commercial business of the nations has got to be so enormous and complex that even the silver added to the gold is not sufficient to carry on the business of mankind. Hence the usefulness of the various paper substitutes for gold and silver. Should the gold mono-metallists carry their point and contract the currency of the world one-half it will undoubtedly lead to a revolt against all metallic money, and a resort to printed paper money, which our Supreme Court declares Congress has power to legitimatize, even though it represent no value whatever.

Mr. Erastus Wiman, of R. G. Dun & Co.'s Mercantile Agency, was, while in Chicago recently, interviewed by a reporter of the Inter-Ocean about the Western Union Telegraph Company, of which he is a director, and also respecting its competitors in the telegraph business. Mr. Wiman seems to be full of his subject, and gave numerous facts and figures to show that the Western Union has a practical monopoly of the telegraph business, and that its rivals must of necessity be unsuccessful. Might it not pay for Mr. Wiman to organize a company similar to Dun or Bradstreet's for furnishing information about stocks and bonds, as they now do about the credit of business firms ? The facts are more accessible in the case of the companies than in that of private individuals, and every investor of sense would be willing to pay a handsome fee for the judgment of a shrewd business man like Mr. Wiman on any security salable on the market. What private investor can tell what legal snares there may be in the conditions of bonds and other preferred railway securities ? A company such as we have indicated would have its trained lawyers and experts, and its reports would be found everything that could be learned about the condition of all the securities on the street. What do you say, Mr. Wiman ?

In Mr. Erastus Wiman's interview is a statement about the Postal Telegraph and the Mackay cable which ought to be explained by the New York Herald the next time it commends those enterprises. The former has recently had but one wire to Chicago, which cost nearly $1,000,000. To represent this expenditure stock to the amount of $21,000,000 was issued, $12,000,000 of which was in the hands of Mr. Geo. B. Roberts, of mining fame; $10,000,000 of bonds were also issued. If Western Union Telegraph were capitalized after the same fashion its nominal stock would be $400,000,000 instead of $80,000,000. Mr. John W. Mackay, who is Mr. Bennett's partner in the cable, has also had a curious history in mining matters. His nine favorite ventures on the Comstock represent a paid up capital of $104,000,000. The assessments on these stocks, in addition to the capital, amount to $30,000,000, in all $134,000,000. The valuation of these nine enterprises at to-day's figures is something less than $5,000,000. If this cable enterprise turns out no better than the mining experiments of Mr. Mackay, the Herald may some day turn its batteries upon the villainy of the California mining sharks, in which case the public may infer what is the matter.

The Standard Oil Company.

It is the fashion to inveigh against monopolies, but when the history of great combinations in particular branches of business comes to be written, it will be found that some good as well as much evil has been occasioned by organizations which have got rid of all competition. A monopoly provides for steady production and a distribution of the manufactured article or product at an average rate which does not fluctuate violently. Monopolies insure the steady employment of labor and generally fair wages. Take the case of the coal companies. True they have raised, perhaps abnormally, the price of coal to the consumers, but they have carefully adjusted the production to the consumptive demand. Not only have good dividends been paid upon the coal stocks, but fair wages have been given to the operatives, and the great labor strikes once so common in the coal mines are now rarely resorted to. The production of coal has been a difficult thing to manage, as there is very little call for it during the warm months, while the demand in the colder months always outruns the supply. Hence violent fluctuations in price, losses to capitalists and distress to the working people under the old competitive system.

The Standard Oil Company is another case in point. No business was so wildly speculative as that in petroleum production and refining. A few big strikes of oil would put down the price to an unprofitable rate, and a subsequent petering out of the old wells would double and treble the price of the oil on hand. In equalizing values the Standard Oil Company has done a public service. Labor has been better paid and the public better served since that great corporation has had the monopoly of the oil business—including the refining—of this country. The managers of this great concern have been as public-spirited as enterprising. They have opened up communication with all parts of the globe to create markets for American oil, and have added largely to the trade and wealth of the country in developing new manufactures connected with the petroleum product. Other instances might be given of the beneficial effects of monopolies. Competition is often as hurtful in the business world as is the struggle for life in the animal creation. By a cruel law of nature it is the weakest that goes to the wall, and civilization means such an organization of human forces as will alleviate or modify the harsh action of nature's law, which hands over the weak to be the prey of the strong.

But the success of the Standard Oil Company has created dangerous temptations to the remarkably able business men who have shared in its management and its profits. They have undertaken so many new enterprises that all human experience is of no value if they do not come to grief in some of them. The Standard Oil Company is now intent upon monopolizing the gas business of the United States. They are also the backers of the cable schemes in the very large cities of the Union. The steam-heating enterprises are largely upheld by the money supplied by the Standard Oil capitalists. Then from all accounts they have dabbled in railway securities, among others St. Paul, Richmond & Danville, and other risky Southern ventures.

The knowledge of these rather dangerous enterprises has made the business public suspicious of this great oil monopoly. Reports affecting its credit finds many believers, and if any of the members of the syndicate should fail there are tens of thousands of apprehensive people who would say, "I told you so."

Two important matters have been recently settled which somehow did not attract the attention of the daily press. The Court of Appeals have sustained Judge Lawrence in his decision denying the claims for extra damages made by certain owners of property along the line of the proposed Harlem ship canal. This was the only impediment in the way of the commencement of this important work. Persons conversant with the matter are of opinion that the canal will be completed in two years' time. All the plans have been approved and filed, the money has been appropriated by Congress, and the recent decision of our highest court assures a perfect title to all the land which the government requires. The completion of this canal will mark a new era in the history of this city. It will effect a revolution in the values of property adjacent to the waters of the Harlem River. Another important matter is the confirming by the higher State courts of the legality of the plans for improving the drainage of the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards. Mr. Samuel R. Tilley, of Morrisania, and other public-spirited citizens of the annexed district, have been for years at work to ensure the health of the annexed district by a complete system of drainage. They have had a hard time of it in overcoming the opposition of property holders who would be the most benefited by the improvement; but they have finally won in the contest. The great bugbear to building in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards has been the danger from malarial disorders. But once the drainage complete, which will not take very long, any part of the region north of the Harlem River will be as free from malaria as the most settled portion of New York.

Our Prophetic Department.

MR. BRUIN—You see, Sir Oracle, I was right last week; the liquidation is not over. Note the failures and the bear raids of the past week. There really seems to be no bottom to this wretched market. I look for other disasters greater than any we have yet experienced.

SIR ORACLE—Of course, it is the business of the bear to be on the look-out for disaster; but, notwithstanding the suicides, the failures and the bear raids, I still hold to the view I have been expressing for weeks past, that unless some overwhelming and unexpected disaster occurs there will be a higher range of prices sometime during July. The reaction may not come until after the result of the Democratic National Convention is made known; but Wall street is so apt to discount events that the recovery in values may take place early in July. Stocks of all kinds are unduly depressed, and I believe that even now many of them are being absorbed by investors and taken permanently out of the market. Set me down a bull for a long turn at present quotations.

MR. B.—So you really think the trouble is all over?

SIR O.—Not by any means. We shall have other failures and other disasters. Indeed it will take more than one good crop to put the country where it was in 1879. We require several excellent annual crops to make the country really prosperous. Then you know I have no faith in any wholesome stimulation of the trade of the world until bi-metallism is established among the commercial nations. So long as the latter insist on gold mono-metallism as the basis of the business of the world, the depression will continue on the exchanges of this country and England as well as the bourses of the continent. The commerce of the world requires all the silver as well as all the gold that can be pressed into its service.

MR. B.—Will not this gold mono-metallism keep stocks and bonds at a low average price?

SIR O.—No, the artificial enhancement of the value of gold will raise the quotations for good securities with us as it has done in Europe. It is cotton, wool, grain, cattle and other perishable productions that are permanently lowered in value by a money yearly getting of greater purchasing power; but securities and incomes payable in gold become more desirable because of the increasing value of that single metal. This is one of the considerations that make me think that stocks that maintain their earning power will shortly increase in market price. Really gilt-edge securities like governments, the New Haven and Harlem roads and prime first mortgage bonds haven't fallen off much in market price. New York Central stock would have been ranked in the same category were it not for the Delaware & Lackawanna extension and the building of the West Shore road. Central, Lake Shore, and other good stocks are under a cloud until time will tell the story of what effect the new competition has on their business. We are now testing the enormous additions to the railway systems of the country and there can be no full recovery of confidence in the trunk lines until it is demonstrated what their earning capacity will be under the changed conditions consequent upon the paralleling and extension of the various great railway lines.

MR. B.—That is why I argue that there can be no permanent recovery on values until we know what the trunk lines can really earn for their stockholders.

SIR O.—We must not lose sight of the fact that we are now gathering the greatest wheat and small grain crop ever produced in this country. True its price is low in the markets of the world, but it has got to be consumed and carried, hence I look for a large increase in the earnings of all the roads in August and September, which Wall street will discount in July.

MR. B.—What particular lines will score advances in your opinion?

SIR O.—All the trunk lines, I think. The West Shore & Buffalo will do a magnificent summer business. Its bonds seem to be very cheap. A great wheat crop means a splendid business for Northwest, St. Paul, Rock Island, Chicago & Alton, Lake Shore and New York Central, Pennsylvania Central, Michigan Central, and then I expect such apparent "cats" as the Wabashes, C., C., C. & I., Alton & Terre Haute, Erie & Western, as well as New York & Lake Erie, to profit greatly by a full wheat crop.

MR. B.—You are also hopeful about corn?

SIR O.—Yes, in spite of Sam. Benner, who thinks that the excessive rainfall of this year will cut short the corn crop, I still hold to the belief that it will be an exceptionally large crop. It has been extensively planted and the condition of the corn is far ahead of what it was for the last three years at the same time. I think we shall have a dry summer, that is, if there is anything in the doctrine of chances. The spring saw such heavy rains and floods that the summer months ought to be somewhat drier than usual.

MR. B.—Who will be the Democratic nominee for the presidency?

SIR O.—Cleveland does not stand in as good a position as he did, notwithstanding the preference shown for him by the anti-Blaine Republicans. It is feared he may lose the laborers' and Irish vote. Sometime since I made a guess that Gen. Slocum might be the lucky man. It ought to be a strong New Yorker who will get the cordial support of all the factions and who would be acceptable to the bolting Republicans. Such a candidate is Gen. Slocum, but then the Democratic party had hard luck with a military candidate four years ago.

A contemporary calls attention to the condition of Chatham street. It is now a thronged but by no means handsome thoroughfare. Why should that street not be at once widened? At least 20 feet should be added to its east side from the Bridge to above Pearl street. The structures on the route are old tumble down affairs, and the adjoining property would be improved to at least fivefold by the change. All the buildings on the triangular block just north of the Bridge should be removed. The objection would of course be made that this would be for the benefit of the elevated roads which will try eventually to connect with the trains on the Bridge, but this has got to come some time, and will be a great public convenience when accomplished. Chatham street thus improved will then become a great retail trading avenue. It will not do to wait till good buildings are erected before the improvement is commenced. We should recall the fate of Nassau street. If a quarter of a century ago that street had been widened between Wall street and the City Hall it would have made a splendid business thoroughfare. It would be the natural continuation of Wall and Broad streets. True it now contains some of the finest business buildings in the city, but how much more effective would have been the Mutual Life building, for instance, were it on a wider street?

The whole pension business is a monstrous swindle on the American people. Our soldiers have been generously treated, taking into view their pay, the bounties, the land grants and the pensions heretofore voted. No language can be too severe in characterizing as it deserves the Mexican war pension bill, which is being put through Congress. Senator Sherman deserves great credit for opposing some of the worst amendments offered to that bill. President Arthur should promptly veto this enactment and in such terms as would make it impossible for any Congress hereafter to even consider such a measure. President Arthur must agree with Senator Sherman in the latter's estimate of the value of the pension plank in the Republican national platform or in any other party platform.

"The Morningside Park improvement," said Mr. Dwight H. Olmstead to the writer, "is well under way. The lower drive is almost completed; but the upper one will not be opened to the public until sometime this fall, for the steps and supporting embankment will take money, time and labor to finish; but the money is provided for, and the work will be consummated in due time. Mrs. Martha J. Lamb ought to have mentioned this Morningside Park improvement in her excellent article in the Manhattan Monthly apropos of the Riverside Drive. All who will use the Riverside will naturally go through One Hundred and Twenty-second street to the Morningside Drive. Yes, the west side is improving rapidly, but the houses to be built will generally be for people of moderate means. I think the flat business has been overdone. If heads of families can get fair-sized houses in good neighborhoods for $1,200 a year or thereabouts, they will prefer them to high-priced suites of rooms in up-town apartment houses."

Brick, lumber and all the principal material which enter into the construction of houses are now very cheap. Labor alone is relatively high. If workmen were wise they would accept a lower return for their labor and thus stimulate the prevailing tendency to put up buildings of all kinds. The outlook is favorable to builders who have contracts. Houses can be constructed for far less now than two or three years ago, all that is required is an abatement in the cost of labor.

The recent rains were needed all over the northern country, especially the Middle and Eastern States. The May frosts did some damage in killing tender vegetables and fruit to the north and east of us, but otherwise the growing season has been all that could be desired. The recent rains will give us all the moisture needed to mature our summer crops, which promise to be very heavy.

A famous arbitration case was concluded last week between F. H. Smith & Co. and J. J. White of the Produce Exchange. The matter was one which interested every dealer in grain and flour, and the issues involved were very complicated. Sixteen long sessions of the committee were held before the case was finally settled, but the total cost was only $300 to the litigants. Had this mixed up case gone to the courts, the litigation would have been spread over years, and the cost would at least have been one hundred thousand dollars.

Law may be the "perfection of human reason" from the lawyers' point of view, but business men regard it, and justly so, as a humbug and nuisance.

Home Decorative Notes.

—We should endeavor to have something in our decoration that is in harmony with our feeling or personality, this can be done in almost every case, provided the occupant be a person of taste; it seems folly to lay down certain rules that are rigid and inflexible; tastes differ widely, yet each are more or less good; fashion, unfortunately, dictates, and no matter what absurdities are in vogue, we too often think its mandates must be obeyed.

—Straw baskets are now stained, bronzed or gilded.

—Very serviceable school bags for children are made of colored macreme cord, dark red, brown or deep ecru are the best tints; take a large crochet needle and make a chain fourteen inches long, that is for a medium sized bag, next make a row of long stitches, and then follow with the shell stitch, finish at the top with scollops and crochet on two handles, the bottom is generally finished with fringe.

—Very delicate toilet sets can be made of light blue plush, and bordered with soft creamy lace.

—A handsome sofa pillow has a covering of maroon plush, over which is laid a square of handsome Russian lace, showing groups of leaves, flowers and geometrical figures.

—Lovely Japanese lanterns, either square or octagonal, are much in vogue for country houses, they can be arranged for gas or kerosene, the most elegant ones are framed in teak wood and adorned with silk tassels of all colors gracefully drooping from various points.

—Wrought iron decorations are popular.

—A unique smoking set is in the form of a huge brass tortoise, the shell of the creature can be raised and discloses all the necessary smoking accompaniments.

—An exceedingly lovely and peculiarly appropriate floral wedding decoration is a skiff and oars placed on a bed of smilax, the boat is worked out in bands of roses; "launched on the sea of matrimony" is the sentiment intended to be expressed.

—Happily we have passed the white and gold period of drawing-room decoration; the designs for furniture at times have partaken of prevailing architectural styles; at one time the Greek type was a model, then Louis XIV. school, the high-stilted Gothic had its day, now the movement is towards the Renaissance, with its various types and combinations; some very beautiful reproductions of this period in the way of arm chairs, tables and confidantes were recently noticed at the new warerooms of Freeman & Gillies, No. 35 West Twenty-third street.

—Very effective bed-spreads and pillow-shams are made of bolting cloth with numerous birds and butterflies outlined in bright colors; sprays of wild flowers scattered here and there heighten the effect.

—Strange and curious are the floral designs; one recently exhibited by a leading Broadway florist was that of his eminence the pig worked up in white flowers upon a panel of scarlet carnations, framed with yellow roses.

—Rattan curtains, either plain or decorated with flowers, are found to be very serviceable for wash-stand protectors.

—Yellow is not a color that can be used in masses for decoration.

—At a fish dinner recently given, the salmon was mounted on a bed of water lilies, and water weeds, lily buds, ferns and tangled weeds garnished the dishes, some of the wine flagons lay on water weeds in the baskets in which they were brought to the table; each guest received a flag basket filled with water lilies for a favor.

—Applied Eastern embroidery decorates prettily a slipper or party bag of bronze silk, the ends of which have a fringe of gilt rings suspended from lengths of heavy blue saddler's silk, the rings covered by blue silk button-holed on.

—Very pretty table covers for small tables can be made of maroon, olive dark green or blue cloth; in one corner work in solid embroidery with crewels a bunch of primroses with golden yellow blossoms and green leaves, in the opposite corner use the passion flower design, with darker olive tangled leaves, stems and reddish purple blossoms; the effect can be heightened by working the petals of the flowers and buds in silks in contrast to the dull tone of the crewel in the leaves; these designs can be very prettily adapted for many other purposes, as, for instance, for small bracket hangings, to which their general contour is very well suited.

—Hunting trophies are now in order, one very rich and elegant includes as a centre piece a target clock; above the large dial appears an elaborately carved wild turkey, the head, breast and wings only being indicated in black oak; grouped at back and sides of the dial appear guns, a hunting knife, fox heads and hounds' heads, while below hangs a leather game-bag.

—The crescent-shaped baskets which are made to hang from the ceiling are very pretty for holding flowers or grasses.

—For furniture covers and draperies extensive use is made of Oriental and large floral designs, as of wild flowers, tulips, roses and lilies.

—Pompeian red Turkish satin embroidered in ribbon work, with bunches of sun-flowers scattered here and there, makes a rich and effective table-scarf.

—Screens are every season growing richer and lovelier in design and mounting, an especially lovely one is Florentine in design, the frame of red mahogany is carved by hand, with tall iris plants in blossom, across the upper part of both leaves is an embroidered frieze of upright iris lilies in shades of purple and yellow worked in solid Kensington stitch in crewels and silks, the olive colored foliage represented by plush appliques, with fine effect, below the frieze suspended from gilt rings hangs a curtain of bronze green plush, the colors of frieze and hanging harmonizing with the peculiar red of the mounting.

Over two years ago, when Union and Central Pacific were selling at top prices, an interview with William M. Lent was published in THE RECORD AND GUIDE, in which that gentleman foretold the fate which has since overtaken these corporations. He said then that it was clearly the intention of the managers of the Central Pacific to abandon the line to the government for the mortgage debt. He pointed out the fact that the Central Pacific managers owned the securities of the corporations of the Southern Pacific road, over which they were diverting all the traffic. They owned the stock and bonds of the latter while the public had the securities of the Central Pacific. The Union Pacific, he thought, would become practically worthless because of its being parallel to the Denver & Rio Grande and on account of the diversion of traffic which would result from the opening of the Southern and Northern Pacific roads. The line between Sacramento and San Francisco, the only profitable section, was not owned by the Central Pacific. That was the private property of Huntington, Stanford, Crocker, the Hopkins estate and their friends. This is the syndicate that own the vast mass of securities in the various companies from the Pacific to the Atlantic Oceans and which connect with the Southern Pacific. It was the intention of Huntington & Co. to market these securities, but the times have not been propitious, and hence the rumors of possible disaster which have been rife in the street for the last two weeks.

The constitution and by-laws of the Tremont Building and Loan Association has been sent to us with a request for a notice. The officers comprise a number of business men, including architects, builders, masons and real estate brokers, all very respectable gentlemen, but we have no means of knowing how the special scheme they had in view would work in actual practice. Philadelphia had a large and varied experience in building associations, but they nearly all came to grief in the hard times which followed the panic of 1873. We have no doubt that in the land speculation which is certain to come before many years, there will be many land improvement companies organized, and those which are honestly managed will prosper, but everything depends upon the trustworthiness of the officers having direct charge of the money and the business of the association. The following are the officers of the Tremont Association: President, Thos. C. Lewis, of Lewis Bros. & Kenedy, 263 Sixth avenue; vice-president, J. Thomas Stearns, real estate broker; treasurer, Louis Eickwort, druggist; secretary, R. I. Lomas, Jr., of Tower Manufacturing Company, 306 Broadway; directors—H. C. Mandeville, stair builder; J. E. McVeney; David Durrie, mason; W. R. Holder, mason; Sydney Clarke, wool broker; Wm. McDade, painter; W. G. McCrea, attorney; J. E. Kirby, architect; A. McKinstry, with Lord & Taylor; Geo. Nonamaker, builder; G. D. W. Clock, attorney.

Howell vs. Leavitt, lately decided by the New York Court of Appeals, was one of those hard cases where it is desirable to have the policy of a title insurance company. In 1857 a mortgage was foreclosed against various persons, one of whom was served with the summons by publication and not personally; he was thought to have been alive in Chicago, but it has since turned out that he had been dead a month or more; his children did not come of age till long after, and they brought suit for possession of the property in 1878 and they have won it.

A question that may come up in connection with the Gansevoort Market, or the new market that is to be at Water street and Gouverneur slip, has lately been decided in New Jersey, where it has been held, contrary to Michigan decisions, that a public market held in a street may constitute a nuisance to an adjoining land owner, and he may have an injunction against the continuance of the market, although the latter was authorized by ordinance. The case seems to have been determined on the principle of the old case in New York of Knox, the hatter, against the Mayor, where Mr. Knox succeeded in having the foot bridge taken down that was built at his corner over Broadway to let pedestrians get across without risking their lives. Do our readers remember that old bridge? What a view it was from it, up and down Broadway. Mr. Knox failed, however, to get any damages allowed him in that suit because he did not make demand for them on the Comptroller within lawful time.

The injustice done the real estate interest by our present faulty system of transfers is shown by the straw-bondsman case reported in the daily press a few days ago. One Gotleb went surety for a person named Solomon, claiming to own two lots on the north side of Ninetieth street, 125 feet east of Madison avenue. A deed purporting to be by Abram A. Whitney to Henry E. Gotleb, conveying this property for $22,000, was really recorded at the Register's office last April. There was also a deed by Gotleb recorded this month conveying a lot on Ninetieth street, 150 feet east of Madison avenue, to Emil Neuweiler for $12,400. Of course none of this property was owned by the persons who claimed to have conveyed it. It seems that any person can record a deed selling or pretending to sell any parcel of real estate in New York, without a shadow of title to the property. Under the proposed reform in our transfer laws, such transactions will be rendered impossible.

Mr. Abram Vandeventer deeded his property for less than half its value to his daughter, and she the same day deeded it to her mother, and Abram gave all his personal property to his wife, and they agreed between them that he should work for her at his trade and occupy the premises and be supported there as he had been—their object being to prevent the squandering of the property and the possible application of it to the payment of his debts. The General Term of the Fourth Department of the Supreme Court have decided that the necessary result was to hinder and defraud Abram's creditors, and that the transfers were fraudulent. A new work on "Fraudulent Conveyances" has lately been published, and we must look it up for the benefit of our subscribers.

Real Estate Department.

The real estate market must be described as dull. Many of the brokers will shortly take their customary vacation, and while they will keep their offices open the work will be done by the junior partners or head clerks. This will probably be the last year that they will be enabled to stay away from their business for any length of time. When the Real Estate Exchange is in operation it will be forced to open the same as other exchanges. Then if the transfers are made easier next winter transactions during the summer months will be very much more numerous. So the dealers will do well to make the most of this summer's vacation season.

There was a fair attendance at the Salesroom during the week, but there were no transactions of importance. The offering of Fordham and Riverdale lots was apparently made with the view of establishing fictitious values; it is doubtful if there were any real sales. It is said that plenty of property can be purchased at Fordham at one-half the prices at which the lots were knocked down in the recent sale. There is very little on the cards for the immediate future.

At a public auction sale held on Tuesday by Richard V. Harnett & Co., ex-Mayor Daniel F. Tiemann purchased a frame dwelling on Manhattan street. It is said that this is the first parcel ever purchased at auction by Mr. Tiemann.

The four-story brick dwelling on the north side of Seventy-fourth street, commencing 100 feet east of Fifth avenue, 50x27.2, was sold under foreclosure on Wednesday for $15,000, to the New York Life Insurance Company, who hold a mortgage against the same, on which over $41,000 is due.

The properties in the Seventh and Eleventh Wards offered on Thursday were all sold at satisfactory figures.

Yesterday thirty lots on two new avenues, between One Hundred and Fifty-first and One Hundred and Fifty-second streets, were sold at low figures, and only two lots of a large number in North New York were sold, the rest being withdrawn.

During the past week the Suburban Rapid Transit Company has taken title to several plots of ground in the Twenty-third Ward, but as yet the major part of their purchases are kept quiet, as a number of negotiations are yet under way and the officers of the company are naturally anxious to keep the immediate route of the railway line from the knowledge of speculators, the object being to discourage in every way the purchase of realty along the route by persons who will not improve it.

The Conveyances for the past week show an improvement over the corresponding week of last year. There are more transactions, while the aggregate consideration is nearly $500,000 more. The mortgage indebtedness is somewhat less. A significant indication of the drift of things is the larger business in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards. The following is the table:

The sale of what remains of the Fox estate (one hundred and thirty lots) will take place on July 1st, James L. Wells, auctioneer. We hear from undoubted sources that the previous sales were to bona fide investors, most of whom expect to build. The terms of this continued sale are very favorable to purchasers, as will be seen by the advertisement elsewhere.

E. H. Ludlow & Co. offer for sale in the Island of Bermuda, an elegant stone and cedar mansion, with stables, coach house, and other appurtenances, on the finest and healthiest part of the island.

Gossip of the Week.

Wm. R. Martin has sold the four-story stone front dwelling, No. 1 East Sixty-third street, 25x75x90x100, for $35,000; brokers, Mordecai & Bellamy. Mr. Martin took this house in trade last March at $93,000, and it is said the builder refused to sell it a year before for $100,000.

The four-story stone front dwelling, No. 49 East Fifty-seventh street, 20x70x80, has been sold by W. R. Martin for $54,000, to John Rau.

The total cost of the site for the new Mercantile Exchange is $99,300. This includes $11,000 paid to J. V. Lewis for the four-story brown stone building on part of the ground, which is now being removed twenty-five feet away from the corner and will adjoin the Exchange. This property was on ground leased by the Trinity Corporation. It may be of some interest to state that 183 votes were cast in the ballot on Thursday, of which Mr. Jackson received 168, Mr. Pfeiffer 7, Mr. Gilvarry 5 and Mr. Ware 2, the estimates of these architects being, respectively, $175,000, $370,000, $176,000 and $145,000. The committee were primarily for Mr. Pfeiffer's plans, but the expense was too high. It was feared that their business centre might some day be removed from the present quarters, and that in that event they might be forced to dispose of their new building at a great loss. A description of the new Exchange appears in another column. The total cost will probably reach $300,000.

Seton & Co. have sold for Mrs. M. A. Bechet, of Paris, the two lots Nos. 153 and 155 East Thirty-second street, 50x172.6, for $25,250, to Robert Hoe, Jr.

Mr. F. Levers has purchased the four-story double flat house No. 1623 First avenue from J. Kleinschnittger, for $19,000; broker, E. Bergfield.

Isaac E. Wright has sold the three-story brown stone dwelling No. 5 East One Hundred and Twenty-eighth street, 20x65x100, to Alexander J. Clinton, president of the Eagle Fire Insurance Co., for $26,000.

Out Among the Builders.

The Board of Education will shortly commence the erection of three new schools. One will be situated on Seventieth street and First avenue, another on One Hundred and Tenth street, near Third avenue, and a third at No. 7 West Tenth street. The present building on the latter site will be torn down to make way for the new structure. It is also proposed to make an addition to Grammar School No. 43, on One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street and Tenth avenue.

N. Le Brun & Son have the sketches in hand for a six-story building, 25x100, to be erected by the Fire Department on the north side of Sixty-seventh street, near Third avenue. The first and second stories will be used as a hook and ladder house, the third and fourth for a training school and gymnastics, and the fifth and sixth for electrical apparatus. The front will be of Philadelphia brick, stone and iron. The cost is not yet estimated. The structure will be fire-proof.

The Mercantile Exchange have at last decided upon the plans for their new building, the architect chosen being Mr. T. R. Jackson. The new structure will have a frontage of 75 feet on Hudson street and 100 feet on Harrison, and will be five stories and basement in height. The first story will be of granite, and will contain either one or three large stores. The floors above will be of Philadelphia brick with stone trimmings. The second story will contain the Exchange room, which will be 70 feet square and 30 high. There will be three stories above to be used for office purposes. The building will contain two elevators, steam heat and other improvements, and will cost $175,000. It is expected to be ready for occupancy on May 1, next.

Contractors' Notes.

Estimates for dredging will be received by the Dock Commissioners at 117 Duane street, until Wednesday, July 2, 1884.

The March of Improvement on the West Side.

The building movement on the west side continues unabated, and is especially marked in the neighborhood of the elevated road stations. Two or three years will see the vacant ground above the Park to Seventy-fourth street greatly improved, and in a few years more the improvements will take in a good part of the ground up to Eighty-fifth street. Seventy-first to Seventy-third street is very largely built over, and this is also the case with Eighty-second and Eighty-third streets. On the latter twenty-one private residences are to be erected, or are in process of erection. Seven of these will be built by William Noble, three by D. & J. Jardine, the architects, and two by Thomas Cochrane. The first stories of architect George W. Da Cunha's three houses are making their appearance above ground, while the six substantially-built residences being erected by Richard Deeves are rapidly approaching completion. The same owner is building three similar houses on Eighty-second street. The first stories are of Ohio stone, and form a pleasing contrast to the houses adjoining. Further west, between Ninth and Tenth avenues, and on the same streets, the vacant ground for building purposes is decreasing month by month. Going north, we find the building activity running beyond the One Hundred and Fourth street "L" station. A number of houses are going up on Ninth avenue, Ninety-sixth, Ninety-seventh and Ninety-eighth streets, near Ninth avenue, and in a few years lots in this direction will become as augmented in value as in the neighborhood of the Seventy-second and Eighty-first street elevated road stations. Charles L. Guilleaume is soon about to commence seven ornate private dwellings on Eighty-seventh street, near Ninth avenue, and others are seeking for lots in this locality for building purposes. A great drawback to building on the west side in the past, as a prominent builder recently informed the writer, was that the owners of large estates did not themselves improve their property. The Clark estate has been a notable exception; indeed they may be said to have heralded the extensive building movement of the past two years. Mr. Luyster, Mr. Crawford, the Hamiltons and others have contributed their quota, and there are still others who would find it profitable to follow their example. Now that the street railroad communication between the east and west promises to be effected, together with the fact that the east side is almost entirely built up, we may look forward to a more prosperous time for the west side from this time forth.

If you think that your father, or your mother, or your uncle, has been induced by undue influence and fraud to deed his property away from you, after having made a will in your favor, you can bring a suit to have the deed set aside without waiting for the will to be proven before the Surrogate (so long as your ancestor is dead, of course). So decided, in the suit of Wilt Wakeman Morris against Henry D. Morris, by the Supreme Court General Term; ex-Judge Wm. G. Choate for the plaintiff and Sullivan & Cromwell, Esqs., for defendant.

Ground Rents.*

We have read with great interest the monograph on ground rents in Maryland, by Lewis Mayer, of the Baltimore bar. Mr. Mayer comes from a distinguished old Maryland family, and his own reputation as a learned lawyer long ago crossed the boundaries of his State. In this book of 134 pages he has given an exceedingly clear exposition of perpetual leases, which have not yet been abolished in Maryland, though the trouble about the Van Rensselaer and Livingston leases in New York, the "Anti-Rent War" of 1846, when it was

> "Out of the way, big Bill Snyder,† > Tar your coat, and feather your hide, sir,"

led to our statute forbidding leases of farm lands for over twelve years.

Maryland will have to come to a similar law, as Pennsylvania did in 1850. The operation of such leases and their effects upon the value of real estate, and upon the development of a city, are admirably set forth by Mr. Mayer. He gives, too, as an appendix, one of the valuable historical publications of the Johns Hopkins University, an article on the manors in Maryland, by John Johnson, Jr., and the record of the Count Baron and Count Leet of St. Clement's manor—curious bits of antiquity in this country—the whole forming the most interesting reading to that large number of our subscribers who are not only active in the purchase and sale of real estate, but who also delight in thorough acquaintance with the history, literature and laws of that topic.

Special Notice.

The annual meeting of the Employing Plasterers' Association took place recently, when the following officers of the society were elected: Thomas Bennett, president; James Thomson, vice-president; John H. Parker, treasurer, and James M. Sinclair, secretary. The executive committee are as follows: Messrs. John McGlensey, John O'Connor, James Thomson, Alfred E. Stone and John J. Roberts. Nearly all the master plasterers in the city belong to this organization.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—The recovery in tone noted last week has been maintained but shows no further decided progress and is of a less general character. Indeed, if anything, Haverstraws have rather lost caste as compared with "Up Rivers," and the latter seem to command relatively the best rates. This unusual position of the two grades is said to be due to the fact that contracts have been made to deliver stock at a certain price, and the "Bay" brick having failed to recede to the extent sellers had calculated upon they are taking the "Up Rivers" as affording a better chance for margin. The fine run of quality, too, may have helped the latter somewhat as it is the universal verdict that supplies came to hand in very attractive condition, good weather and proper care on the part of manufacturers have brought about this favorable feature. Some little fluctuation in price has taken place during the week under momentary governing influences but without greatly affecting the average run of cost, and our quotations require but little revision. Haverstraws show about $6.50 for top, and Up Rivers do not, as rule, exceed $5.75, but some of both grades of extra quality are held a fraction higher. Receipts have been ample, indeed full, yet about all appear to have worked off, and many sellers do not hesitate to express surprise over the exhaustive capacity of the market, especially as some of the largest structures have, through unexpected delays, failed as yet in reaching the actual consumptive point. Pales run anywhere in price, from $3 50 down to $2 50, and even $2.25 per M, according to quality, and the other influences to which this class of stock is subjected. Fronts have continued to sell readily, and with the supply hardly keeping up to the demand, values are maintained without difficulty

LATH.—A more or less irregular tone has prevailed with a general tendency in buyers' favor. Supplies have not come to hand with quite so much freedom, and so far as shown the offering afloat was small, especially from the Provinces, but the accumulation in hand and the season of the year gives buyers an advantage, and they appear able to stand off somewhat better than a week or so ago. It is difficult to name prices in a positive form at the moment, owing to some uncertainties among sellers themselves, but as near as we can figure it out it seems that while $1.95@2.00 per M is asked in some cases, prompt bids from first-class customers at $1.90 would get the stock, and buyers not much stimulated at that figure. Rumers of sales at lower figures are well founded, and even down to $1.75 has been accepted, but quality considered the rate was all that could be expected, and is no representation of values for standard goods.

LIME.—Supplies have been moderate, and so has the demand, with the cost ruling steady at former figures. Some few odd shipments are said to be making from the Eastward, but production generally shut down, and manufacturers quite determined to obtain a more remunerative price before they resume work.

LUMBER.—Business generally is lacking in the vigor necessary to inspire cheerful feelings and complaints are much more common than expressions of satisfaction. The substance of most reports is that nothing can be done with buyers to swerve them from the course of action so long pursued and it is useless to expect an expansion of demand beyond the limits of the early requirements of those who take the stock. Within the past two or three weeks sales of leading descriptions of lumber have been made at figures lower than anything openly quoted, but they were so plainly the result of temporary and extraneous influences as not to fairly represent natural rates, and indeed were followed by business at about the old line of cost. The truth is that prices have in the majority of cases gone so low that buyers themselves seem to hesitate about asking further shadings on anything of really standard and useful quality, and there is no special attempt to force the market. Considerable supply continues to come in on contract and the probabilities are that the first half of the year will wind up with a pretty full accumulation on hand considering the situation, though the amount would not be looked upon as excessive under ordinary circumstances. The distribution covers about the usual ground, local and near-by, but is disappointing on export account and the excess of shipments over 1883 with which the year opened is gradually being wiped out.

Eastern Spruce does not undergo any important change or the market assume a position calculated to create apprehension in the minds of buyers. Indeed the impression seems to be that if any positive variation takes place in the line of values, it will be toward a somewhat lower level, and the disposition is to let matters take their natural course. So far as demand is concerned, no hope of any immediate quickening is given, and while a fair quantity of stock can probably be exhausted from week to week, it is evident that manufacturers will have to ship carefully in order to prevent a surplus. Quality as well as quantity must also be a prime consideration, as beyond a certain limit, and a small one at that, agents are powerless to place short and narrow stuff except at very low figures. Current quotations range at about $13.00 @15.00 for Random, and $15.0 @17.50 for Specials.

White Pine still has a slow and unsatisfactory market. There is more or less "bracing up" in some quarters and a very natural desire to have the best side of the market presented, but a careful sifting of reports reveals an absence of really encouraging feelings and holders of the supply are at a disadvantage. Local wants are small, especially as some of the largest consumers on manufacturing account are receiving direct, and exporters offer little of an encouraging character at present. The accumulation is in the meantime gradually growing larger as old purchases come to hand and assortments are shaping up. Valuations generally remain more or less nominal. We quote at $17.50@20.00 for West India shipping boards; $25@28 for South American do.; $14@15 for box boards, and $16.00@17.50 for extra do.

Yellow Pine is an article on which operators entertain "expectations," but the time for realization is set at a somewhat distant date in order to prevent disappointment. Certainly there is nothing in the market at the moment calculated to inspire any very sanguine feelings, except possibly that prices seemed to have reached a limit where sellers prefer to abandon negotiations rather than submit to further shadings. Two or three dealers report something like nibbles this week, but seem to think if they hook anything at all it will turn out a very small sized fish. Rates as now named are more or less nominal in character. We quote as follows: Randoms, $18@21.00 per M; Specials, $20@22.00 do.; Green Flooring Boards, $22@23; Dry do., do., $23@24; Siding, $22@23 do.; Cargoes f. o. b. at Atlantic ports, $14@15.00 for rough, and $19@21 for dressed. Cargoes f. o. b. at Gulf ports, $13@14 for rough, and $18@20 for dressed.

Hardwoods are going out from yard in a somewhat slow form, but still of good standard quality there is a fairly steady distribution and a comparatively uniform range of values is preserved. Offering by car lot have not been very liberal for some little time, but any increase would be desirable only in the way of carefully selected goods. We quote at wholesale rates by car load as follows: Walnut, $65@110 per M.; ash, $35@40 do.; oak, $30@55 do.; maple, $20@32.50 do.; chestnut, $25@30 do.; cherry, $40@75 do.; whitewood, $27@35 do., do.; elm, $22@25; hickory, $45@52.50 do.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

ALBANY MARKET.

The Argus reports for week ending June 23 as follows:

With a good attendance of buyers business has been lively in the District, particularly in sales and shipments The breaks both in the Erie and Champlain canals have been repaired and boats have arrived from behind Sprakers and will soon arrive also from the North, where want of water to fill the levels is causing some delay. Shipments to the South and East have been large, and on Saturday last over five millions of feet left the District on vessels and barges. The supply on the yards will soon grow larger, though all kinds and qualities can now be readily obtained. Prices are steady and no change is expected during the year, as the present figures are as low as the prices at the mills will allow, even with small margins of profit. The demand promises to be large, now that the money market has ceased to interfere with the usual volume of building and business.

THE WEST.

SAGINAW VALLEY.

LUMBERMAN'S GAZETTE,
BAY CITY, MICH.

Judging from the almost invariable reply received to inquiries in regard to the condition of the trade on the Saginaw River, the only conclusion to be arrived at is that it is decidedly dull. Yet occasional sales are reported which, in the aggregate, foot up considerable; and, amid the general dullness on the surface, some of our commission men seem to be working up trade. C. H. Bradley in the past ten days has managed to place 10,500,000 feet at market rates, all of which goes East except 1,500,000 destined for Chicago

Coarse stock is decidedly weak, and inquiry for the same slow. Good stock is firm at former quotations, concessions being neither asked nor granted. Notwithstanding the present seeming dullness the mills continue to slash up the logs and lumber is accumulating on the docks, shipments being slow.

An anomalous condition of things exists here in regard to freights which seem inexplicable. Notwithstanding the fact that plenty of lumber on the docks here is sold and freights are down to $1.50 to Buffalo and $1.25 to Ohio ports, there seems to be no inclination to ship and vessels are vainly looking for loads at the reduced rates.

The Chicago Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

While our quotations of cargo prices are as nearly correct as possible, the bare figures do not indicate the true inwardness of sales. There is great diversity in opinion between buyers about individual cargoes, and some curious transactions take place in consequence. Instances have been known wherein a commission man has realized more than he actually thought the lumber was worth, or he expected to get for it, and that, too, after the cargo had hung fire on several sales that were almost effected at a lower figure than that at which the lumber was finally sold. "It is just as you strike your man," the commission dealer says. There appears to be a great range of views and selling prices on medium stock that has a selling value from $14 to $17. The firmest class of lumber is short piece stuff, which sells steadily at $9 to $9.25. Two loads of Alpena Norway piece stuff sold this week at $9. All white pine brings $9.25 without much haggling. These prices, of course, are for green stock; dry is nominally worth $1 a thousand more.

Piece stuff, green	$9 00@ 9 25
Long timbers, green	10 00@10 75
Boards and strips, No. 2, green	10 50@12 50
" medium, green	12 50@14 50
" No. 1, green	15 00@18 00
High grade	18 00@24 00

Complaint is made of low water on the Black, but on the other streams the conditions are most favorable. No man in the Northwest understands the situation better than the correspondent who writes from Eau Claire, and his word may be taken as law every time. In every district the mills are well supplied with logs, with no indication that they will run short of them.

LUMBERMAN AND MANUFACTURER,
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

There is so little of change to note in the lumber markets of the West that it is difficult to specify the change.

In the Minneapolis and St. Paul markets there is great activity in the lumber world, all are trying to hunt up stuff to fill orders which they cannot fill out of their own yards. The call for special bills has never been so large before. The old dry lumber can be had in limited quantities at list figures, but we doubt whether any serious shading could be got on orders of any size. The local demand at retail figures will more than take up all there is left and hence the independence of holders.

FOREIGN.

The London Timber Trade's Journal comes to us this week in enlarged form and with all the evidences of prosperity it so well deserves. The Liverpool correspondent writes as follows:

With the termination of holidays business has again been resumed, and from all appearances there is a steady demand going on, the wharves and railway depots being fairly employed in forwarding orders up the country.

The amount of business done, according to the recent statistics, is quite up to the average, and this is no doubt traceable to the fact that with such low prices as are now current the temptation to lay in as great a quantity of stock as possible has had considerable influence with buyers who are in the position to hold more than is wanted for the moment; and, further, the number of auction sales recently held in this city has no doubt also stimulated consumption, offering, as they do, such inducements to consumers or small dealers to supply their wants at first hand.

Spruce deals and pitch pine, both of considerable importance to the builder, are at present exceedingly low in price, especially the latter, and, as we said last week, the bottom of the market for this article appears to have been touched; at any rate, there does not seem any probability of a lower depth being reached.

The first arrival of Quebec Yellow Pine deals are now coming to hand by the various steamers running direct between this port and the River St. Lawrence. Some very good parcels have been landed, and have nearly all passed into consumption. Prices are very moderate, but as the goods are imported direct by the merchants, sales have been made on terms which have not transpired.

METALS.—COPPER—Ingot without much if any important change. The dealing are mainly in small jobbing lots, and these are offered to the full extent of the outlet, and about former rates accepted. Quoted at $14@14½ for Lake down to 13c. for the more ordinary brands. Manufactured Copper meeting with about an ordinary sale, but showing no animation, and the general tone of the market slow all around. Supplies fair and well assorted. We quote as follows: Brazier's Copper, ordinary size, over 16 oz. per sq. foot, 22c. per lb.; do. do. do., 16 oz. and over 12 oz. per sq. foot, 24c. per lb.; do. do., 10 and 12 oz. per sq. foot, 27c. per lb.; do., do., lighter than 10 oz. per sq. foot, 29c. per lb.; circles less than 24 inches in diameter, 25c. per lb.; 24 inches in diameter and over, 28c. per lb.; segment and pattern sheets, 25c. per lb.; locomotive fire-box sheets, 23c. per lb.; Sheathing Copper, over 12 oz. per sq. foot, 20c. per lb., and Bolt Copper, 23c. per lb. IRON—Scotch Pig has found a dull, weak market, and arrivals exceeding the outlet, the stock in store gradually accumulates. Holders offer freely when an opportunity is afforded. We quote at $19@22, according to brand, etc. American Pig does not show many additions to stock, and that serves as a support to values, but the demand from all quarters is slow and indifferent beyond immediate requirements. We quote $20.00@21.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry, $18.50@19.50 for No. 2 X do. do., and $18.00@18.50 for gray forge. Old rails find scarcely any demand, and are quite unsettled in value. Scrap Iron is out of favor and generally weak in price. We quote at $19 00 @21.00 for tee rails, $22@23.00 for double heads, $20.00 @20.50 for No. 1 wrought scrap ex ship, $21.00@23.00 for selected do., $18.00@19.00 for old car wheels, and $22.00@23.00 for crop ends. Steel Rails sell very slowly and are irregular, but mostly in buyers' favor. We quote at $30.00@31.00 per ton for heavy sections. Manufactured Iron is dull from store, and contracts less plentiful, with valuations to some extent nominal. We quote Common Merchant Bar, ordinary sizes, at 2.0@2.10c. from store, and Refined at 2.10@2 45c.; Rods, round and square, 2 20@2.35c.; Bands, 2.50@2.60c.; Norway Nail Rods, 5¼@6c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 2.80@ 3.10c. for common Nos. 10@16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars. LEAD—Domestic Pig has no regular demand, as most consumers are now well supplied, and the tone of the market is easy. Supplies ample of all kinds. We quote at about 3⅝@3¾c. per lb., according to brand and the size of invoice handled. The manufactures of lead are steady and quoted: Bar, 5c.; pipe, 6¼c.; and sheet, 7¼c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin-lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe, 45c., on same terms. TIN—Pig is well under control, and firmly held at a considerable figure above the rates on near futures, but there is little demand for any delivery, and the market shows a dull tone throughout. We quote at 19@19¼c. for Straits and Australian, 19⅛@19⅜ for English, and 2 @20¼c. for Banca. Tin Plates have found a fair average jobbing demand, but beyond that the market was extremely dull, and the tone easy for pretty much all grades, with fair supplies offering. We quote I. C. Charcoal, third class assortment, $5.20@5.30 for Allaway grade, and $6.00@6.10 for Melyn grade; for each additional X add $1.25 and $1.50 respectively; I. C. Coke, $4.72½@4.75 for B. V. grade; $4.80@4.85 for

J. B. grade; Charcoal terne, $4.75@5.10 for Allaway and Dean grades 14x20; $9.80@10.20 for do. 20x28; Coke terne, $4.55@4.60 for Glais grade 14x20, and $9.50@9.55 for do. 20x28—all in round lots. Spelter has shown some irregularity, but there is an inclination to claim a steadier feeling, and offerings are made with greater care at the close. Quoted at $4½@5c. for domestic and foreign, according to brand, quantity, etc. Sheet Zinc selling moderately, and ruling about steady. We quote at 5⅞@7c., according to quality, quantity, etc.

NAILS.—Demand does not increase, indeed rather tends to fall away if anything, from most sources and the general tone of business is dull. Actual consumption is fair, but against that jobbers and retailers are pretty well provided on previous purchase, and orders now given cover only small and unimportant parcels. First hand supplies in the meantime increase to some extent, and values are lacking in good support. Quotations may be placed at about $2 40@2.60 per keg, for 10d to 60d, but on large parcels buyers would be likely to obtain an advantage.

PAINTS AND OILS.—Generally the market is dull. Some of the jobbers have a little trade, but only of a seasonable character, and they meet all calls without trouble from the stocks on hand, and at about former rates, though in some cases desirable customers are "coaxed" with moderate concessions. Linseed Oil moving out moderately at about 57@58c. for domestic, and 59@60c. for foreign. Spirits Turpentine selling fairly and holding steady at 31@32½c. per gallon, according to size of invoice, delivery, etc.

PITCH AND TAR.—About former rates ruling, but trade slow and the supply available makes a good balance for all outlets shown. We quote: Pitch, $2.25 @2.30 per bbl; Tar, $2.50@2.00 do., according to quantity, quality and delivery.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

BUILDERS' SUPPLIES.

J. H. Bunnell & Co.'s
ELECTRIC DOOR OPENERS
For Apartment Houses.

PATENTED APRIL 29, 1884; other Patents Applied For.

A large number of J. H. Bunnell & Co.'s Electric Door-Openers are now in use in apartment houses in this city. Experience demonstrates their great practical superiority over the usual kind known as "the Mechanical Door-Opener."

With the Electric Door-Opener, the front door is instantly unlatched by simply pressing an electrical button, placed wherever convenience requires it; and as the connection can be made with any number of buttons, they may be so located that the door may be unlatched from any point on any floor of the largest house with equal ease.

This Electric Door-Opener completely obviates all the well known difficulties and expenses arising from the stretching and repairing of "pull-wires," as the work is perfectly performed by the electric current which passes through stationary wires.

Architects and owners are invited to inspect the operation of this device at our office, or at any of the apartment houses where it is in use. For information, prices, or reference regarding those in use, communications addressed to us will be promptly answered by mail or personal call by our Agents, who will also furnish estimates upon other electrical work of every description.
